NATION TO LIMIT RAIL STOCK ISSUE?

Taft Soon May Ask Congress to Pass Laws Giving the Government Power to Supervise Sales.

BLOW AIMED AT MERGERS

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—President Taft is considering seriously the advisability of transmitting a special message to congress recommending government supervision and restriction of the issues of railroad securities.

It may be that he finally will decide to abide by the wish of the members of the two houses of congress and not demand any other legislation than that in connection with the revision of the tariff. In this event, he will include his recommendation in his first annual message and will insist upon action during the regular session.

Whatever time may be selected by the president for taking congress into his confidence, E. H. Harriman and the other railroad magnates may be assured of this fact—Mr. Taft proposes to do everything in his power to obtain government control of the railroad security issues, believing this to be another step in the execution of the spirit of the Roosevelt policies. He has realized that such legislation can be secured only after the most determined fight.

Harriman View of Plan.

Mr. Harriman, probably speaking for the majority of the railroad financiers, as for himself, declared several days ago that the people had the right to know how the money secured by the railroads from the sale of securities had been expended, but that they had no right to pass upon the amount of the securities issued. In other words, giving this statement the interpretation placed upon it in Washington, Mr. Harriman wants to be free to place as much stock on the market as he desires, to invest it as he desires, and then inform the people what he has done. In this connection, the fact may be cited that the Union Pacific railroad, which Mr. Harriman controls, several years ago sold securities to the amount of $180,000,000, which was employed exclusively in buying the controlling interest in the stock of other lines, some of which were competing. Thus was a "community of interest" assured.

There is an agreement with Mr. Harriman that the Sherman anti-trust law should be amended, but just in what fashion it remains to be determined.

In connection with his recommendation regarding the control of the issues of securities, the president will define his views in reference to a modification of the Sherman law; and combination under certain conditions will be permitted.

May Create New Department.

The subject of transportation is such a vast one that there is a growing demand for the creation of a department of ways and communications, such as is maintained in practically every foreign country. By an executive order, Mr. Taft will make an interchange of the duties of the interstate commerce commission, the department of justice and the bureau of corporations, but he apprehends that other legislation will be required.

The idea of a department of ways and communications unquestionably will receive consideration, and, indeed, already there is talk that, if this action be taken, the man chosen to preside over the new branch of the government service will be Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Knapp's work in the development of the interstate commerce regulation and in the mediation of disputes between railroads and their employés, under the Erdman act, is highly appreciated by the president, as well as by the railroads and their men. His views as to the further advance in the government's control over the railroads are doubly important because of his present office and influence and because of the higher honor that may be in store in case the suggested department should be created.

I have obtained a copy of a letter which Mr. Knapp submitted to Mr. Roosevelt when he was in the White house, and which has been considered carefully by President Taft. It is apropos of the Harriman investigation of two years ago, which will result shortly in court proceedings for the dissolution of the Union Pacific system, and explains what further legislation is required in the interest of the public.

Knapp Explains Pacific Merger.

"The common aim of several of these transactions [the purchase by the Union Pacific of stock in other lines and traffic contracts with certain roads]," Mr. Knapp states, "is the extension and unification of railway control, and the common means employed is the purchase by the parent company, the Union Pacific, of millions upon millions of the stocks of the other companies, enough in some cases to secure complete domination, enough in all cases to secure a potent influence and consideration.

"This method of bringing about a 'community of interest' is not restrained in the least by any federal law; it is expressly au-

GET OUT OF DOORS.

The out of doors season is at hand. The sun is beginning to feel pretty good. In the winter people are inclined to stay in the house, but now is the time to get out. It is time to get out the roller skates and enjoy yourselves. And this advice is not intended alone for the older people. In some of the cities both big and little, young and old, roller skate and find it highly beneficial. It is especially so when indulged in in the open air. So, now that the outdoor season is here, cut out the rink and do your skating in the street or on the sidewalks. Only do not overdo at the beginning; increase your stunts as to speed and duration as you become accustomed to the exercise.

CAMPAIGN CLOSES AT SIZZLING HEAT

Victory for Either at Polls, It Is Conceded, Will Be by Unusually Small Majority.

Chicago's municipal campaign came to a smashing close last night. It was a Sunday-before-election finish which would have been a credit to the topping off of a presidential canvass.

In the wards—most of them—the aldermanic battles waged fiercely. The ultimatum of the Municipal Voters League had stirred the city tremendously and the final efforts of the two elements which may lock in a bitter embrace over the council organization were redoubled.

Where chances are believed to exist to knock out the gray wolves or the would-be aldermen who are openly aligned with the old gang, pastors from the pulpit took the opportunity to advise the voters in their congregations.

The danger spots to the Republican candidates for city treasurer and city clerk are the wards where Republican aldermanic candidates were caused to withdraw. These are wards like the First, Fourth, Ninth, Tenth, Sixteenth, and Eighteenth—all Democratic strongholds. The party leaders in the afternoon directed that the utmost endeavors be exerted by the ward organizations in those bailiwicks to get out every possible vote for Powell and Marks.

Hesitate to Make Predictions.

The big fellows in both political camps were unwilling to make definite predictions of tomorrow's results over their signature. The situation as between Isaac N. Powell and Harry Hildreth for city treasurer is only a bit less muddled than is the clouded condition of affairs on the city clerkship, for which Francis D. Connery and Jacob H. Marks are running a neck and neck race, apparently.

"The Republican ticket by 20,000," was the reported guess of the Republican chiefs, who seemed to have a joint arrangement to "guess" that sort of plurality every time anybody asked them for a forecast.

Figures "from the inside" of the Republican wigwam indicate that a plurality of 12,000 for Powell for city treasurer is the conservative expectation and that everybody at party headquarters will be more than gratified if the final returns show a plurality for Marks for city clerk of 3,000 or over. Rumors come from the west side wards that many knives have been sharpened for use on Mr. Marks.

Democrats Expect to Win.

The Democratic leaders are confident that Harry Hildreth will be elected city treasurer and are certain Connery is as good as elected city clerk.

Candidates Powell and Marks had a busy trip over the west side, closing their campaigns with three meetings which were attended by hundreds of voters.

Aside from the meetings of the precinct organizations ordered for tonight, the Republicans will have three ward meetings, which rank with the campaign rallies which have been in progress. One for the Second ward will be held at 262 Thirty-first street. The Seventh ward will gather at Masonic temple, Sixty-fourth street and Lexington avenue, and the Fourteenth ward faithful are summoned to Republican headquarters, 835 West Lake street.

In many of the wards aldermanic politics fairly sizzled. The Twenty-second developed into the big dark and bloody ground of the campaign, due largely to the final circular of appeal which reached the voters of the ward in the morning from the office of the Municipal Voters' league.

Liquor Interests in Fight.

Simultaneously it became known that the liquor interests had entered the fight openly in behalf of Herman Bauler, the Democratic nominee, and strongly against Ald. Josetti, for his stand upon prohibition districts. The feeling between the conflicting political elements rose to white heat, and it would not be surprising to see serious trouble at the polls.

The antagonism has been fierce ever since the attempt which was made to get Charles Oscar Nelson into the running as an independent candidate. The Republican ward organization, under the personal leadership of Mayor Busse, is pulling every pound for Ald. Josetti. The Democratic county committee has espoused Bauler's cause, and has sent in all available reinforcements to help him out.

Smoke still arose in the Third ward at night, although victory to Ald. Foreman is practically conceded. It is understood the reason for continuation of the anti-Foreman fight at this time lies in the struggle for control of the Third ward Republican organization which will be settled at the 1910 February primaries, under the workings of the direct primary law.

Aid for Ald. Taylor.

The Republican organization in the Twenty-first ward was ordered out in heavy marching order for duty in behalf of Ald. Francis W. Taylor, whose friends fear a false feeling of security exists and many voters who expect to support Ald. Taylor may fail to vote.

The Democratic machine in the ward, which is John F. O'Malley's own, is reported to be stealthily watching for a chance to swing in a squadron of voters for Jacob Levy late in the balloting, and be able to defeat Ald. Taylor. Taylor is strongly supported by the M. V. L. and is one of the younger and vigorous element in the council.

Reports from the Fifteenth ward were that Ald. Herman Kruger had been aroused to a terrific temper by the onslaught which the M. V. L. made in the special bulletin prepared for the voters of that ward. The big alderman expressed himself regarding the M. V. L. in no uncertain tone or language. His opponent, Henry Utpatel, expects to be elected by a large plurality over Kruger, but Ald. Kruger and the Democratic organization directed by John P. Tansey and Joseph Strauss believe Utpatel stands no show.

Deprived of the personal leadership of Joseph F. Connery, Democratic candidate in the Fourteenth, because of his serious attack of blood poisoning, the Democratic or-

VOTE "YES" FOR A PUBLIC TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM

SCORNS DEBT, BUT LIKES CELL

Mrs. Emma E. Kershaw Means to Stay Half Year if Necessary.

HUSBAND, AT HOME, AGREES.

Neighbor Won Damages for Attack; Suffragist Wouldn't Pay.

Mrs. Emma E. Kershaw, a woman suffragist of means, exemplified new ideas of equal rights by permitting herself to be arrested for debt, and declaring her intention of remaining in jail "until she rots" before settling the claim against her.

She rested contentedly behind the bars yesterday while her husband enjoyed the comforts of their residence at 3660 Michigan avenue and explained to visitors that he fully approved the course adopted by his wife. His original intention was to employ a lawyer and procure her release on habeas corpus proceedings, but she put her foot down hard on the proposed scheme and said her plans "must not" be interfered with. Her influence might be judged from the fact that she is president of a painting and interior decorating company, while her husband is the manager.

Former Neighbor Pays Board.

Mrs. Belle McClelland, wife of William H. McClelland, a department manager for the Bowman Dairy company, residing at 6620 Champlain avenue, is responsible for Mrs. Kershaw's plight and is perfectly willing to pay the prisoner's board at $3.50 per week for six months in order to be properly avenged for a disagreement that occurred in an apartment building at 6536 St. Lawrence avenue in November of 1906.

The Kershaws owned the building and occupied the first flat, while the McClellands rented the second flat. It was on one of those chilly November mornings when McClelland rushed downstairs and remonstrated with Kershaw for not having the steam on at 5 a. m. Kershaw promised to attend to the matter, it is said, and the two men apparently forgot their differences.

Two weeks later Mrs. McClelland, saying something about the hot water supply, summoned Mrs. Kershaw to the hall, and as a result of developments Mrs. McClelland brought a damage action seeking to recover $10,000 for lost hair and injuries suffered from "some blunt instrument," and the jury awarded her $195. The court costs were $14.30, making the total debt $209.30.

From then on the McClellands have been trying to collect their judgment, which the Kershaws resisted. The latter couple have transferred title to their flat building and on Saturday the McClellands decided to try to force payment by having Mrs. Kershaw arrested on a body warrant. Mrs. Kershaw, however, instead of paying, accompanied the deputy sheriff to jail.

Not One Cent; Means to Stay.

"Yes, here I am and here will I rot before I give 1 cent toward the claim," was the prisoner's greeting to a reporter in the afternoon. "This is an outrage, but I have nerved myself for the punishment, and quite soon you'll discover there is something doing with the people who are persecuting me.

"Seems strange that my husband didn't get me out last night? O, no, we know what we are doing. My husband will listen to me, and he knows that I am right. Me beat her up with a poker? Well, not if you had seen me after she got through with me. You know I was sick in bed, and answered the summons to the door in my night robe. It was the middle of the afternoon. No sooner was the door ajar than she reached in and grabbed me by the hair and what I did was necessary in self-defense.

"Ordinarily this would be humiliating, but I am fighting for a principle, and I will enjoy the best board that $3.50 per week will buy. Never mind, they soon will get tired paying.

"This isn't such a bad place after all. I believe in woman's rights and am willing to suffer for them."

Mr. Kershaw said his wife, who had a will of her own, reached the determination several days ago to go to jail rather than pay the judgment.

"It is a put up job and I fully agree with the course my wife is following," he announced. "What I feel the worst about is that they wouldn't let me in to see her today. I must wait until Wednesday, because Tuesday, the regular visiting day, is election. But I'll go as often as I can and comfort her. I didn't know she was arrested until I reached home and found her note."

Willing to Pay Board.

Mr. McClelland had little to say regarding the case.

"I have no statement to make, see my attorney," was his usual reply.

"How long are you going to pay her board?" he was asked.

Miss Jennie Shea Is Believed to Have Ignited Clothing Accidentally in Attempting to Light Gas.

Miss Jennie Shea, for twenty years forewoman of the dressmaking department of Marshall Field & Co., was burned fatally last evening and died a few hours later at Passavant hospital, to which she had been taken. She was 50 years old.

She had roomed at 370 Oak street for the last five years. Shortly after 7 o'clock Rudolph Corrigan, who also rooms there, was passing through the hallway when he heard her screams. He ran to her room on the second floor and found her on the bed with her clothes on fire. He smothered the blaze with his overcoat, but not before Miss Shea had been burned severely.

She had several dresses hanging on the back of a door. When the door was open the dresses were close to the gas jet. The police think Miss Shea was striking a match to light the gas when a spark ignited the dresses. The clothes on the back of the door were burned to a crisp.

Miss Shea's brother, Cornelius Shea, is connected with the Crane company. Her only sister is in Ireland. Mr. Shea is prostrated with grief. He buried his wife three months ago.

Children playing with matches accidentally ignited the clothing of the 1 year old son of Mrs. Dora Glick, who lives at 546 Sangamon street. In attempting to extinguish the blaze Mrs. Glick was burned about the face and hands. The baby probably will die.

SAYS STRASSHEIM IS SCHOLAR.

Judge Makes Genteel Answer to Outburst of Sheriff, Who Said He "Talked Like a Sausage."

"Sheriff Strassheim is a scholar and a gentleman. I have taken no umbrage at his reported remarks. In referring to the jail, I meant nothing personal in reference to Mr. Strassheim and I regret it if anything I said has caused him to feel injured."

The foregoing was Municipal Court Judge Mancha Bruggemeyer's comment on the quotation from the sheriff to the effect that the judge "talks like a great big sausage," and "had better go take a jump in the lake."

PRINCETON RENT BY DISCORD

Divinity Students Demand Resignation of Dr. Patton.

SEMINARY HEAD IS DEFIANT

Ultimatum Creates Acute Situation for Directors to Smooth Out.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—The student body of the Princeton Theological seminary has issued an ultimatum to the board of directors and brought about a situation that is unparalleled in the history of the university.

"Dr. Patton's resignation—or our rights."

This demand of the students comes at the end of a long fight waged against Dr. Francis L. Patton, president of the seminary, and the curriculum adopted by the faculty.

Dr. Patton stated that he is not to be dictated to by the students. If the board of directors fails to uphold him he immediately will resign. He says the students have insulted him in his own home and demands an apology. The students all will withdraw from the seminary if the board of directors decline to grant their demands.

No Prospect of Compromise.

An extraordinary session of the board will be held in Philadelphia within a few days. There seems to be no prospect of bringing about a compromise, and the directors will be called upon to render a final decision either in favor of the students or the president.

In the early part of March the students forced the issue of a new curriculum by sending the faculty a set of resolutions adopted by them. They expressed discontent with the new and old testament departments under Profs. Armstrong and Davis respectively; with the lectures in theism as delivered by President Patton; with a vacancy of the chair of homiletics; with the lack of a course in sociology, and, finally, with the arrangement of the classroom schedule.

New resolutions have been adopted, but instead of sending them to the faculty they have been forwarded to the directors, together with a stenographic report of the answer made by Dr. Patton, to whom the directors previously referred the students.

This report contains a statement by Dr. Patton in which he declared that, as president of the seminary and as a member of the board of directors, he would permit no interference by these directors in the points at issue.

Much Secrecy Being Maintained.

The students who served in the committees and risked expulsion by presenting their charges and demands to the faculty are Frank S. Downs, R. C. McCleary, R. C. Hoag, L. H. Stafford, C. R. Rodman, D. R. Evans, L. C. Sullenberger, A. C. Hayman, Alex. Mackie, X. A. Bishara, George Leukel, and F. R. Elder.

Much secrecy is being maintained by the directors, faculty, and students, but the acuteness of the situation was admitted today by certain students. The following statement was made by a leading student on the attitude of the faculty:

"Dr. Patton refused absolutely to consider any change in the matter of administering his course in theism, which the first petition of the students characterized as 'unintelligible and uninteresting.' Dr. Davis stated that his courses were intended to teach a method in exegesis rather than to teach the students a mass of material which they could palm off on unsuspecting congregations when they once got into the ministry. Dr. Armstrong was the only man who promised to do all in his power to make his courses more practicable and more acceptable to the student body."

HUGE TOLL BY CITY TO TUBERCULOSIS

Army of Deaths and Annual Money Tribute of $1,337,511, or Capitalized Loss of $24,965,143.

BY JAMES W. GLOVER.
Professor of Mathematics and Insurance, University of Michigan.

Owing to the present agitation for a tuberculosis sanitarium to be constructed, equipped, and supported by a municipal tax levy of not to exceed 1 mill per annum, the time seems opportune to show the people of Chicago that if the proceeds of this levy are properly expended the net result will be a real saving to the city.

On the basis of an assessed valuation of $477,921,976 the maximum annual revenue would amount to $477,922. I propose to show that if pulmonary tuberculosis is not checked in Chicago the minimum net annual loss to the city alone will be in excess of $1,367,511, and the total capitalized value of these annual losses during the next fifty years, computed at 5 per cent interest, will, in 1908, be in excess of $24,965,143. To this end I quote from a paper which I recently prepared and presented to the international congress on tuberculosis.

The object of the paper was to indicate a method of analysis of the population and vital statistics furnished by the federal bureau of the census to determine the effect of any particular disease upon the community, both from the vital and social or economic point of view.

Tuberculosis of the lungs was primarily considered and the conclusions reached apply with full force at the present time to the city of Chicago.

White Plague Claims Toll.

The results contained in this paper are derived from the "Population and Vital Statistics of the Twelfth Census of the United States," as follows:

TABLE I.

Males.

The investigation relates to males aged 20 and over, and the ages are taken in five year groups. The table shows that on June 1, 1900, the date of the census enumeration, there were in the United States 3,684,373 young men over 20 and under 25 years of age; that in the census year beginning June 1, 1899, and ending May 31, 1900, there were in the United States 25,252 deaths from all causes among young men over 20 and under 25 years of age, and 6,839 of these deaths were due to tuberculosis of the lungs and the balance, 18,413, due to other causes.

The total deaths from all causes are undoubtedly understated and the deaths from tuberculosis are probably understated to a still higher degree. The effect of this understatement, however, is to a large extent eliminated from the final conclusions reached in this paper for the reason that they are based on the difference between two tables, both of which contain the errors of understatement of the question under discussion, and the process of taking the difference practically eliminates these errors.

How Disease Affects Community.

The first step in the reduction of the raw statistical material was to deduce two mortality tables, one on the assumption that tuberculosis is present in the community and the other that it is not present. By "tuberculosis present" it must not be understood that everybody in the community has it, but that the disease is present in the community and every member runs the risk of exposure to it. This is the condition existing practically everywhere at the present time, as indicated by the following:

TABLE II.

Mortality table when tuberculosis is not present, when tuberculosis is present, and the difference in survivors at each age.

Age.	Number living, tuberculosis Not present.	Number living, tuberculosis Present.	Loss in survivors at each age.
20	100,000	100,000	0

Mere Presence Proves Deadly.

The third column in the foregoing table exhibits the mortality table when tuberculosis is present. It shows that the group of 100,000 young men living at the age of 20 is reduced through death from all causes, including tuberculosis, to 93,311 at the age of 30, to 85,907 at the age of 40, to 44,419 at the age of 70, and to 84 at the age of 100.

The mortality table with deaths from tuberculosis excluded is shown in the second column of table 2. By "tuberculosis not

We, the undersigned, emphatically protest against the duties to be assessed under the new tariff bill, H. We therefore petition you to enact, by amendment, rates at least not higher than those now prevailing under the Dingley Bill present" is here meant that there are no deaths from this disease; the effect of morbidity due to the presence of the disease in a form not fatal and the increased ravages of other diseases under this favorable condition are still contained in the table just described.

The decided improvement shown in survival is due solely to the elimination of cases of tuberculosis with fatal termination. The initial group of 100,000 men at the age of 20 under these conditions would contain 95,132 survivors at the age of 30, 89,479 at the age of 40, and 101 at the age of 100.

Effect on Race Longevity.

The fourth column gives the difference between the second and third, and shows the loss in survivors due to the presence of tuberculosis. For example, if there were no deaths from tuberculosis there would be 1,821 more survivors at the age of 30 than at present; 3,572 more at the age of 40, etc.

The completed table would show the maximum increase in survivors to be 5,517 at the age of 62. The higher ages of the table indicate the elimination of tuberculosis would have a decided effect on the longevity of the race. At the age of 80 the number of survivors is increased from 19,839 to 22,717, that is, by 2,878. This is an increase of more than 14 per cent.

At the age of 90 the increase is over 17 per cent. If the data were at hand to construct the table at higher ages with great precision a careful study of the combined effect of tuberculosis and other preventable diseases probably would show that under more favorable circumstances with these diseases eliminated the limiting age of man could be extended to 150 years and even higher.

In other words, it is not unlikely that the limiting age of man lies somewhere near 150 and that he is now prevented from attaining this age by the presence of a multitude of factors which are coming to be recognized as preventable.

By this increase in the period of longevity it must be understood, of course, that the decline in the vital forces does not begin until a much later time in life than under present conditions.

The general effect would be to appreciably raise the whole latter end of the curve of survival, causing it to touch at 150 instead of 100 as now, and to add from fifteen to twenty-five years to the average lifetime of the whole race.

Advanced Age No Protection.

The following table deals with the important matter of death rates, and for the purpose of comparison the death rates by the American experience mortality table are given:

TABLE III.

Comparative table showing the death rate per annum per 1,000 persons for certain ages between 20 and 60: (a) by the American experience table of mortality, (b) by the United States twelfth census returns for males, when tuberculosis is present, when not present, and the difference.

	Death rate per annum per 1,000. When
	American Experience	tuberculosis is—	Not	Differ-
Age.	table.	Present.	present.	ence.
20	7.805	6.040	4.590	1.450
25	8.065	7.020	5.021	1.999
30	8.427	7.416	5.298	2.118
35	8.946	8.330	6.193	2.137
40	9.794	9.417	7.376	2.041
45	11.163	11.211	9.225	1.986
50	13.781	13.996	11.915	2.011

By the death rate as shown in this table is meant the number of deaths occurring in a year in a group of 1,000 persons living at the given age. Thus, when tuberculosis is present, the death rate at the age of 20 is 6.040; if tuberculosis were not present the death rate would be 4.590. This is another way of stating that 1.450 deaths per 1,000 of population at this age is due to this disease.

The difference column increases slightly, but does not vary much from two per thousand. This shows that advanced age is no protection against tuberculosis. Indeed, the danger of exposure to it is greater at the age of 60 that at the age of 20.

Statistics Are Misleading.

Statisticians have not infrequently fallen into the error of comparing the deaths from tuberculosis with deaths from all causes, and because this ratio decreases at the higher ages have inferred that tuberculosis is not much to be dreaded after the age of 40. The fact is we are more likely to notice the disease at the age of 25 because it is the cause of two out of every seven deaths, whereas at the age of 60 it is the cause of two out of every twenty-five deaths. Other diseases which were not active at the age of 25 are decimating the population at the age of 60 at the rate of twenty-three per thousand.

Moreover, as the population at 25 is much larger than at the age of 60, the number of deaths from tuberculosis in the former group is much larger than in the latter. A glance at table I. will make this point clear.

But we cannot compare the mortality of the disease at different ages unless we observe groups at these ages containing precisely the same number of people. According to the table under discussion, in a population of 1,000,000, aged 25, 1,199 deaths would occur within the year from tuberculosis. In a population of 1,000,000, aged 60, 2,196 deaths would occur from the same cause.

It seems essential then that this fallacy should be corrected and the public warned that age is no protection from this disease and exposure to it is attended with more and more danger with increasing age.

Thousands of Years Wasted.

A subject of particular interest in this connection is the loss in future years of lifetime due to tuberculosis:

TABLE IV.

Comparative table showing at certain ages the total number of years of future lifetime which will be lived by the survivors of 100,000 males at age 20.

	Total future lifetime in years when tuberculosis—		Loss in
Age.	Is not present.	Is present.	years.
70	470,064	413,651	56,413
90	11,752	9,916	1,836

A brief consideration is sufficient to show that in a large community thousands of years of lifetime are cut off by the accelerated death of individuals within the group. The actual number of years lost can be easily determined from the mortality tables set forth in table II., and the results are given in the above table IV. The table is a comparative one showing at certain ages the total number of years of future lifetime which will be lived by the survivors of 100,000 males at the age of 20 when tuberculosis is not present, and when tuberculosis is present.

An examination of the table shows that the survivors at the age of 60 would have 1,068,406 years of future lifetime before them if tuberculosis were not present, and that under normal conditions with tuberculosis

MINIMUM TOTAL LOSS FOR CHICAGO AS RESULT OF THE WHITE PLAGUE.

Prof. James W. Glover of the University of Michigan, in a study of the effect of tuberculosis on the death rate and expectation of life, with special reference to the cost of the "white plague" to the city of Chicago, has compiled several tables of vital statistics. The following table, which in his article he calls "table VII.," shows the capitalized or present value, compounded annually at 5 per cent, of the loss due to tuberculosis on the male population of Chicago for each age and certain age groups between ages 20 and 60, on the basis of a wealth producing capacity of $100 per annum until the age of 70:

present the survivors at the age of 60 have 962,505 years of future lifetime to live, a loss of 109,901 years of future lifetime due to the presence of tuberculosis.

In like manner, it is seen that at the age of 20 the total loss in years of future lifetime sustained by a group of 100,000 young men is 243,412 years.

Wealth Producing Years Lost.

A consideration of the column headed "Loss in Years" will make clear, even to the layman, how it happens that the presence of tuberculosis can bring financial loss to the community. We have at this age a loss of 243,412 years, most of which occurs before the men who are now 20 attain the age of 70. Assuming in round numbers for purposes of illustration that 200,000 of these years of future lifetime are lost by the original group of 100,000 survivors, age 20, before they attain the age of 70, it is clear that these years are lost during the wealth producing period of life.

If each year represents a loss of $100 in wealth to the nation, we should have a loss on this group of $20,000,000. There were in 1908 in Chicago 21,361 young men 20 years of age, accordingly, the loss which the city must expect to sustain on this group is about $4,272,200.

In a later table—No. VII. given elsewhere in this paper—we shall see that the capitalized or present value with interest assumed at 5 per cent, of the loss on this particular group of young men on a wealth producing basis of $100 per annum until the age of 70, is exactly $1,014,861.

These facts are pointed out at this time in order to emphasize how and where the loss due to tuberculosis or any other disease occurs.

Blights Expectation of Life.

The presence of a disease in any group of persons or in any community inevitably decreases the total future lifetime of that group and a direct measure of the loss due to such disease must be found in the number of years taken out of the life of the group. This is shown plainly by these figures:

TABLE V.

Comparative table showing at certain ages the complete expectation of life and the loss in same due to the presence of tuberculosis.

Age.	Not present.	Present.	Years.	Days.
20	46.165	43.731	2	155
30	38.369	36.501	1	230
40	30.356	29.203	1	56
50	22.751	22.034	.	262
60	15.799	15.395	.	147
70	10.008	9.813	.	73
90	3.431	3.404	.	10

It is interesting to examine the effect of tuberculosis on the expectation of life. By the expectation of life at any age is meant the average future or after lifetime at that age. To determine it, therefore, it only is necessary to divide the total years of future lifetime given in table 4 at any age by the number of survivors, given in table 2, at that age, adding one-half year to the quotient to provide for the fact that deaths on the average occur uniformly throughout the year, so that in the long run the average length of life in the year of death is six months, or one-half year. The two columns giving the expectation of life in table 5 were obtained in this manner.

Enormous Loss in Wealth.

Few people are aware of the enormous loss in wealth which this country suffers on account of tuberculosis. The amount of this loss has a special significance when considered in connection with the cost of an organized campaign having for its object the practical elimination of tuberculosis.

To accomplish this result it is essential that extensive and continuous financial assistance be forthcoming for a considerable period of years, and the question arises as to how much the nation or state would be justified in spending to check the disease within its boundaries. I have considered this subject in some detail and derived tables from the population and vital statistics of the twelfth census of the United States by means of which the monetary loss sustained by a community of given population can easily be computed.

These tables were derived by the application of well known actuarial processes, the object being to determine the monetary loss rate per individual at each age based upon some unit of net wealth producing capacity.

Facts to Support Conclusions.

Without entering into details the method may be briefly outlined as follows: It is assumed that on the average each male member of the community can add a net sum of $100 each year to the wealth of the community. This ability to produce wealth is assumed to continue until the age of 70, and then cease. The total gain which is thus contributed is found for each age, and the equivalent capitalized sum is computed, taking into account the interest factor, 5 per cent, and the mortality factor, determining the probable length of life.

The gain in wealth is first computed on the assumption that there are no deaths from tuberculosis and then again on the assumption that the conditions as regards tuberculosis are those which now prevail. The gain in the former case, of course, will be greater than in the latter, because with deaths from tuberculosis eliminated people would live longer and hence contribute for a longer period of years to the wealth of the community.

This excess, which would be realized if there were no deaths from tuberculosis, is the monetary loss which the community must suffer owing to the presence of the disease.

Drop in Future Net Wealth.

Technically speaking, the difference between the capitalized value of the future net wealth producing capacity of an individual in a community at a given age, first on the assumption that tuberculosis is not present, and then on the assumption that it is present, is the loss which the community must inevitably sustain on that individual so long as the disease remains unchecked in the community. The next table gives these figures for certain ages:

TABLE VI.

Present or capitalized value at certain ages computed with 5 per cent interest of a wealth increment of $100 per annum, continuing until age 70.

	When tuberculosis is—		Loss in value at
Age.	Not present.	Present.	each age.
50	1,066.86	1,048.14	18.72
60	667.79	660.33	7.51

The second column shows that if tuberculosis were not present the capitalized value, computed at 5 per cent, of the yearly $100 wealth additions produced by the young man aged 20 working until the age of 70 would be $1,042.29, while, according to the third column, the capitalized value of the annual $100 wealth increments of the same young man under prevailing conditions, that is, with tuberculosis present, is reduced to $1,594.79. The difference, which represents the capitalized value of the loss at this age, is $47.51.

The loss appears to decrease with the age, beginning with $47.51 at the age of 20 and decreasing to $7.51 at the age of 60. The decrease is not uniform, and it is easily seen that most of the loss is sustained on the group between the ages of 20 and 40.

The column giving the loss in value at each age, it must be remembered, gives the capitalized or present value of future losses per individual. It represents the average loss at the given age sustained by the community on every individual in the community of that age.

I wish particularly to emphasize that this is not the loss sustained on each individual only who dies of tuberculosis, but on each and every individual in the community within the above defined group of males. The practical effect of all this is to make the determination of the monetary loss due to tuberculosis depend upon a knowledge of the population of the community by ages.

Women Not Considered.

(c) The present figures relate only to males between the ages of 20 and 60 working until the age of 70. The loss due to the burden of tuberculosis on the male population under 20 and over 60 is not counted. As it happens that members of these groups are largely dependent upon the productive capacity of the main group between the ages of 20 and 60, it follows that tuberculosis in these dependent groups must serve to produce a greater drain upon the supporting group.

(d) The loss results refer to a fixed time and to a particular group—namely: the capitalized value of the future loss which will be sustained on the group living at that fixed time between the ages of 20 and 60. It is evident that as this group moves on in time, other groups of the living will come in to take its place, and upon these new groups additional losses will be sustained.

(e) The monetary loss due to tuberculosis among females has not been considered at all.

Wage Earners Are Sufferers.

When the appropriate statistical material is available the methods set forth in this paper may be employed to determine the loss on all these omitted factors, but for the purpose of clearness of presentation it was decided to confine the attention to the definite group of wage earners between the ages of 20 and 60. The results obtained on this group are comparatively free from the criticism of personal estimate. Moreover, with all the elements above mentioned omitted, the magnitude of these minimum figures should sharply call the attention of those in authority to the fact that they have here a great problem confronting them. In addition to the suffering, misery, and untimely death due to tuberculosis, the city is constantly subjected to a heavy financial drain.

If the minimum value of this financial loss can be determined, are we not justified in expending a large fraction of this minimum amount, if it can be shown that such expenditure will result in the elimination of a corresponding proportion of the fatal terminations from tuberculosis?

There were, according to table 7, 21,361 young men aged 20 living in Chicago in 1908. The loss rate at this age is $47.51. Multiplying these numbers together we have $1,014,861 as the capitalized or present value of the loss which will be sustained on this group before they reach the age of 70. There were 22,350 in the age group 21. The loss rate is $47.67, the loss, $1,065,425.

At the age of 22 the number living was 23,223, the loss rate $47.49, the loss $1,102,860; similarly for the ages 23 and 24, and so on to the age of 60. Adding up the losses sustained on the first five ages, we find the total loss on the age group 20-24 to be $5,455,209. The loss for the age group 20-39 is $19,901,424, and for the age group 20-60 it foots up to $24,965,143.

It appears then that the total loss which will be sustained by the city of Chicago on the male population between the ages of 20 and 60 had a capitalized value in 1908 of about $25,000,000. Since the producing capacity of $100 per annum was assumed to cease at the age of 70 all this loss will be sustained during the next half century.

The wealth producing basis, of course, is an economic factor more or less subject to the variation of opinion. Some writers have taken $300 to represent the average wealth producing capacity per annum. This would mean a total loss whose capitalized or present value is $74,895,429.

Calls Huge Figures Minimum.

While these figures are startling in magnitude, I wish to emphasize that they are more than conservative and may with certainty be set down as minimum figures. The chief and almost self-evident circumstances which tend to make the results minimum are the following:

(a) They are based upon reported deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis. It is well known that these reported cases are considerably below the actual number. S. N. D. North, director of the bureau of the census, says in his report on tuberculosis in the United States, prepared for the international congress on tuberculosis, that "There is a large margin of possible error and probably of understatement in the recorded deaths from tuberculosis even in the registration area." It is unnecessary to go into any detail here as to the causes which lead to the concealment of or failure to return deaths from this disease.

Morbidity Affects Community.

(b) The figures given are based on cases of pulmonary tuberculosis with fatal termination, hence the effect in the decrease in length but not in breadth of life is considered. It is sufficient to call attention to the fact that the presence of tuberculosis in a community involves a tremendous increase in morbidity; that cases without fatal termination are far more numerous than those with fatal termination; that tuberculosis morbidity subjects the community to the attack of other diseases, with the result that many of such cases owing to lowered vitality terminate fatally; that the earning or wealth producing period in both fatal and nonfatal cases of pulmonary tuberculosis or other diseases which have invaded the community owing to tuberculosis morbidity must necessarily be considerably diminished. The loss rates obtained in the preceding computations are based upon the assumption that the individual can produce wealth at the average rate of $100 per annum, until the age of 70, but it is clear that the tuberculous individual must be incapacitated whether the case terminates fatally or not for a number of years within the wealth producing period. During these years instead of adding he is actually subtracting wealth from the community. The individual with lowered vitality produces a smaller wealth increment and the individual who cannot work becomes a financial burden upon the community.

Annual Loss in Chicago.

The practical question arises as to what the annual loss may be. I give in the following table both the annual and total capitalized losses for Chicago, based on the estimated population in 1908:

MINIMUM ANNUAL AND TOTAL LOSSES.

Year.	Population.	Annual loss.	Total capitalized loss.

The annual loss is obtained by merely spreading the total loss over a period of fifty years, and is the annual payment on a fifty year annuity whose present valne computed at 5 per cent is equal to the total loss heretofore given. Fifty years was selected as the maximum length of time within which the loss would be sustained, because those who are now 20 and over will have attained or passed the age of 70 after the lapse of fifty years.

It is evident the actual annual loss is not uniform, but will be heavier in the earlier than in the later part of the fifty year period. The table shows the minimum annual loss in the city of Chicago, on the unit $100 wealth producing basis, is at the present time, in round numbers, in excess of one and one-third million dollars.

It thus appears that if this disease remains unchecked the total annual losses which Chicago will sustain during the next half century on the group of wage earners now living is in excess of $68,000,000, and the capitalized value in 1908 of these losses, computed at 5 per cent, is about $25,000,000. If we assume the average net wealth producing capacity per individual to be more than $100 per annum, all the above losses will be proportionately increased.

Economy in Active Defense.

Applying the preceding results to Chicago directly it may be said without fear of exaggeration that this municipality can well afford to expend $1,000,000 each year in a campaign against this disease so planned as to bring about its practical extermination by the end of half a century.

The city is certainly going to lose this amount each year, and more, if tuberculosis remains unchecked, so that to remain inactive is only to court financial loss.

Every large municipality should construct tuberculosis sanatoria to be conducted upon a liberal and adequate scale, should build and equip them not for five but for fifty years, and all advanced and open cases of this disease should be segregated therein and cared for at the expense of the city. This step would have a decided effect in diminishing the spread of the disease, for it would mean the effective isolation of many dangerous centers of tuberculous infection.

A widespread and effective campaign of education concerning tuberculosis should be undertaken. These, of course, are only suggestions of a general nature. The details and plans for such a campaign should be worked out by a committee of experts.

Public Movement Imperative.

The point which the writer particularly desires to emphasize is that the figures contained in this article justify the early organization and financing of such a campaign under the authority and support of the state and its municipalities. While much good can be and has been accomplished by individual initiative, by public subscription, and by the tuberculosis stamp movement, they are all inadequate to successfully cope with this big problem without the aid of the state. The financial support for this tremendous battle must not be subject to the variations and uncertainty of private gift and unorganized public subscription. It must have the financial backing and support of the public represented through the state and its municipalities.

DREAMS

¶ We're all dreamers, little and big, according to the architectural plan of our Ego. In the "great white way" of our inner consciousness we build our castles. And when a man stops dreaming he stops progress. But to give these airy figures of our thoughts material substance, to build them up day by day—in short, to make the dreams come true—he is "it" who can.

¶ Ten years ago this enterprise was a dream—an idea.

But it has come true—the castle has materialized into the most highly organized group of craftsmen in the world. Making clothes for immediate wear superior to those made by the best tailors. And the saving is yours—the saving of time, of money, of worry.

HERE you can find a suit for $35, for example, that has not only the appearance but the workmanship of the best craftsmen. And overcoats from $25 to $50.

The accountants whom the mayor set at work on the books of the company—Price, Waterhouse & Co., an English firm with a local office—completed their task on Saturday and it is expected their final report will be ready within three days.

It will be placed in the hands of the mayor, but, if whispers of its nature that have been circulated are verified, only a small part of it will be issued for publication. These assertions are that the auditors found the railway company "on the square" with the city, and in such an event Mayor Busse intends to give out only a statement to that effect. If the contrary is true, the entire substance of the report probably will be given the newspapers.

Acts on Own Liability.

Mayor Busse has stated that he employed the experts on his own liability and that unless discoveries of sufficient importance to the city and the public developed he would close his investigation with the submission of the report and even would bear the expense of the audit out of his own pocketbook.

His action in beginning the inquiry was caused by the receipt of a letter—in effect anonymous since the man whose signature was attached could not be identified or found—charging that the street car officials were paying list prices for dynamos, rotaries, and other equipment and after the records of the transactions were closed were accepting confidential discounts.

The intimation was that the list prices were charged against the joint account between the company and the city and that the rebates were turned over to the officials personally or went into the individual coffers of the company.

The representatives of Price, Waterhouse & Co., it is said, found no evidence of any truth in this assertion. The rebates were admitted before they entered the offices of the company, but it was shown the city shared equally with the company in the benefits and that the purpose of the secret deals was to permit the manufacturers to cut prices on their competitors without being discovered. This method, it is said, reduced the cost of rehabilitation at least $1,000,000.

Beside going into this question thoroughly the accountants also inquired closely into the actions of J. B. Hogarth—now an employé of the Chicago Railways company—while he was auditor for the company. This was done because of assertions that the charges of rebating had their origin with him.

Regular Reports Are Due.

The remainder of the report, it was pointed out, need not be disclosed, as almost simultaneously the annual report of the regular auditors of the company's business—Marwick, Mitchell & Co., who were chosen by the city and the corporation in agreement—will be submitted to Controller Walter H. Wilson. This will contain the analysis of the company's business and the division of profits—55 and 45 per cent between the city and the company. At the same time a similar report of Arthur Young & Co. on the Railways company will be made.

COMMENDS LITTLE BALLOT AS MARK OF CIVILIZATION.

Voters' Acceptance of Tuberculosis Sanitarium Plan Will Mean Humanity's Gain, Says the Rev. M. P. Boynton.

Acceptance of the little ballot by Chicago voters tomorrow will record the passing of humanity to a higher plane of civilization, according to the Rev. M. P. Boynton, pastor of the Lexington Avenue Baptist church.

"That little ballot carries a ray of hope and sunshine to thousands of men and women who are stricken with the white plague," said the Rev. Mr. Boynton in his sermon last evening. "It is said that 3,500 persons died of this dreadful disease last year in Chicago alone, and that there are 5,500 more who can be cured, or at least whose lives can be spared for many years, if treatment can be afforded them at once and for terms within their ability to meet.

"Take heart, you who are assailed by the dreadful white plague, the loving concern of the Great Physician is stirring in Chicago and will find record on election day on the little ballots, and these shall make another recording of the passing of men to the higher and purer airs where lie the green pastures and still waters of a kinder brotherhood in Christ!"

PREFERS SHOE 'AD' TO 'O. K.' OF LABOR

HOT FIGHT IS PROVOKED.

Milk Wagon Drivers Threaten to Strike Unless Granted Increase of $1 a Week.

The Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday grappled with the boycott question and a long standing jurisdictional fight between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Woodworkers' union.

On the subject of the boycott the federation in effect decided that the W. L. Douglas Shoe company is on the "unfair list." This action was embodied in the adoption of a report of the grievance committee recommending that George Hodge, editor of the Union Labor Advocate, official organ of the local federation, be ordered to discontinue the printing of an advertisement of the shoe company.

This means that the paper ceases to be the federation's official organ, as Editor Hodge later announced that he will refuse to obey the mandate of the central organization, preferring to live up to his advertising contract with the shoe concern. The subject provoked one of the hottest fights in the history of the labor body.

Passed by Big Majority.

Many delegates insisted that action be postponed until a decision could be obtained from the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which also was the demand of Hodge, who was granted the floor in his own defense. The opposition to this course, however, particularly on the part of the shoeworkers, was so strong that the report of the committee was adopted by a large majority.

The entire question is an outgrowth of the controversy between the Boot and Shoe workers' union and the Douglas concern, from which the union has withdrawn the right to use the union stamp on its product. After this right was denied it, the concern began an advertising campaign in all labor papers throughout the country and Editor Hodge accepted a contract for the federation's official organ.

This action by Hodge was characterized by Delegate Lee of the shoeworkers as "accepting bribe money" and as "traitorous to labor."

"After the Douglas company lost the union stamp the concern decided to spend $100,000 advertising in the labor papers," said he. "That is nothing more or less than bribe money, and the effect of the bribery we see in this fight.

"That concern is unfair to the shoeworkers, and to advertise its product in the official organ of labor's central body in Chicago is nothing short of traitorous."

Editor Takes Firm Stand.

"It has cost me lots of money to conduct this paper in the interest of labor, and now I have reached a point where I have to make a living," Editor Hodge answered. "Union shoe workers are employed in the Douglas factories, and labor papers all over the country have refused to place a boycott on the concern. If you wish to put me down and out I shall take my medicine without a whimper, but if you wish to do justice and give me a square deal you will let this entire question be decided by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor."

It was announced that the council will take up the question at Washington, D. C., on April 12 at the request of a large number of labor editors.

Two Local Unions Ousted.

The jurisdictional fight between the carpenters and the woodworkers was thrashed out in an executive session lasting nearly two hours. The result was that the two local unions of woodworkers represented in the federation were ousted from the central body and the delegates unseated.

This fight is an outgrowth of a strike of carpenters in the factory of the Mears-Slayton Lumber company nearly a year ago, when members of the woodworkers' union took the places of the striking carpenters in that factory.

Milk wagon drivers are threatening to strike unless they are granted an increase in wages of $1 a week. Officials of the Illinois Milk Dealers' association have refused to accede to the demand and the drivers will meet in special session next Thursday to take final action.

The agreement of the drivers expired on April 1. It called for a scale of $16 a week for the first six months and $17 thereafter, with a 6 cent commission on all sales above 190 points a day. One point is a quart or two pints of milk, or one-half pint of cream.

May Raise Price.

There are 1,700 members in the union, of whom 500 are employed by Borden's Condensed Milk company and 400 by the Bowman Dairy company. Should the increase be granted it is feared the dealers will raise the price of milk to 8 cents a quart.

A meeting of the Piano Movers' union was held in the afternoon at which it was decided to strike unless the employers grant the demand of the teamsters for an increase of $1 a week. The strike action must be approved by the teamsters' joint council before it can go into effect. A meeting of the council will be held tomorrow evening.

Other teamsters demanding increased wages are the coal teamsters, $8 a week; ice teamsters, $10 a month; roofing teamsters, $1.50 a week; and ice cream teamsters, 10 per cent increase over the present scale.

BURGLARS RAID OAK PARK; LOOT WORTH $2,000 OR $3,000

Big Haul Made at Residence of George J. Charlton and Two Other Houses Are Robbed.

Porch climbers raided Oak Park last night, entering several houses and escaping with loot valued at between $2,000 and $3,000.

The biggest haul was made at the residence of George J. Charlton, 229 Scoville avenue. Mr. Charlton is general passenger agent of the Chicago and Alton railroad.

While the family were on the first floor of the residence between 8 and 9 o'clock burglars climbed one of the pillars on the porch and entered a window on the second floor. No noises were heard, and the robbers' visit was not made known until a member of the family went upstairs. Several rooms were found in disorder, the contents of bureau drawers, wardrobes, and chiffoniers being strewn over the floor.

Nothing but articles of jewelry were taken, and the value of the plunder is estimated at $1,000.

Two other residences on the same street were visited by the porch climbers, but the police refused to give the names of the victims. It was admitted, however, that the gang made good hauls at both places.

STEPS FROM CAR; HIT BY AUTO.

Daniel Cavanaugh Believed to Have Suffered Fractured Skull; Chauffeur Placed Under Arrest.

While alighting from a Halsted street car at Thirty-eighth place last night, Daniel Cavanaugh was struck by an automobile driven by Herbert Heselton, an employé of A. M. Roberts & Co., 1725 Michigan avenue. It is believed Cavanaugh suffered a skull fracture. He is a motorman and lives at 3008 Center avenue. Heselton was arrested.

MISS WILMA BERGER.

Miss Wilma Berger, whose skill in jiu jitsu enabled her to overcome a robber Saturday evening, has practically recovered from the shock, and declares that, aside from a sprained thumb, she is as well as ever and ready to repeat her performance if the man will show up.

While taking a short walk at 8 o'clock Miss Berger was accosted by a man, who knocked her down with a blow on the head.

"I fell to the ground and he knelt on me," said Miss Berger in describing the attack. "He then tried to keep me from screaming by squeezing my throat and stuffing his hand in my mouth. When I saw he was too strong for me at catch-as-catch-can wrestling I happened to think of what I had learned about jiu jitsu. The Japanese when at a disadvantage pretend to yield and then catch the assailant off his guard. I gave in and told him to let me brush the dirt off my face. He took out his handkerchief and started to wipe my face, when I caught the sleeves of his coat, drew his arms down, and tripped him with one of the simplest of Japanese tricks. He got up, but I threw him again and ran until I found a policeman."

Miss Berger is 20 years old. She lives at 969 Southport avenue and is studying at the Henrotin hospital to be a trained nurse. She learned the art of jiu jitsu from Prof. Tomito of Tokio university.

CHARTER OUTLOOK IS GOOD

Public Hearing on Bills to Be Had Thursday at Springfield.

ELEVEN TO BE CONSIDERED.

Little Opposition from Downstate Legislators Is Expected.

The real fight for the proposed new charter begins at Springfield next Thursday when the public hearings upon the eleven separate bills which have been introduced will begin before the senate and house committees on Chicago charter.

Representative James M. Kittleman, chairman of the house committee on charter, announced yesterday that an agreement had been reached between Senator E. C. Curtis, chairman of the senate committee, and himself, to hold joint sessions of the two committees and to push the public hearings as rapidly as possible.

The program is to begin with consideration of the charter convention's bill No. 1, dealing with the consolidation of government, which was introduced as senate bill 294 by Senator Curtis, and house bill 350 by Representative Kittleman.

Mr. Kittleman is optimistic over the prospect of obtaining the legislation, or a great part of it, as it is framed by the charter convention.

Thinks Bills Have Good Chance.

"The wisdom of presenting the charter in separate acts," he said, "seems to meet the approval of the country members of the legislature. They say the bills are more easily understood and can be quickly digested. They are also more or less familiar with them because of the discussions in the last legislature.

"The most important legislation to the city of Chicago during the present session of the general assembly is contained in the charter bills. If a united effort is made by the Chicago members of the general assembly and by the people of Chicago the bills can be put through, or most of them, at least.

"Little, if any, opposition is looked for from the downstate members. All these bills carry a referendum, and the amendment to the constitution under which they are made possible was granted by vote of the people of the state, so there would seem to be no good reason why the legislature will not give the people of Chicago an opportunity to vote on home rule for themselves."

Chicagoans Going to Capital.

The campaign committee of the charter convention, which was appointed by Chairman Milton J. Foreman, is preparing to move upon Springfield Wednesday afternoon, to be in readiness for the public hearing on Thursday.

It is the feeling of influential members of the charter convention that the fight should be centralized at the start upon pushing through the consolidation bill, on which to a greater or less extent depends the practical use of all of the other bills. Men who have been in close touch with the formulation of the eleven separate acts are disposed to believe if bill No. 1, the consolidation measure, does not receive favorable consideration at the hands of the legislators there would be little real benefit to be derived from the enactment of the other measures.

Manager Stops Hotel Fire.

POLICE GET BLOWS AND JEERS

FINN SHOOTING THE CAUSE?

Hostility of Onlookers Reported Result of Street Tragedy.

Two policemen, while attempting to arrest alleged pickpockets last night, were beaten for their pains and received the hisses of crowds. The hostility of the onlookers, it is said, was the result of the recent killing of Joseph Finn by Policeman Alexander Scott.

Policeman George Murphy was attacked by Harry Cohen, alias Marnell, an alleged pickpocket, at Wentworth avenue and Root street, and during a demonstration by the spectators a woman threw a brick at Murphy. Detective Frank Wilson was beaten by Joseph, alias "Puts" Ryan, an alleged pickpocket, at Clark and Washington streets, and the sympathy of the crowd enlisted by Ryan's two companions, who escaped.

Jeering Crowd Follows.

The attack on Policeman Murphy was the most serious one. Cohen is said to be well known to the police as a pickpocket, and when he alighted from a crowded Wentworth avenue car he was seen by Murphy.

Cohen, though, instead of accompanying Murphy, struck him on the left side of the head and then ran. Murphy overtook him after a pursuit in which he was followed by a crowd of several hundred jeering men, boys, and a few women. While running Murphy, with the memory of the Finn shooting fresh in his mind, threw his revolver into the street. When he returned with Cohen to a patrol box, a brick struck the pavement near his feet. It is said to have been thrown from an upper window by a woman.

Punched, but Holds Man.

Detective Wilson was watching for pickpockets at Clark and Washington streets when he saw Ryan and two companions alight from a Wentworth-Clark car. When he ordered Ryan to go with him to Central detail he received a blow on the face. He seized Ryan, threw him to the sidewalk, where he held him, surrounded by a yelling crowd. Reinforcements arrived and the crowd was dispersed.

ASK PROOF TODAY OF CLELAND TALES

ERA OF ICONOCLASM.

Criticise "Jim, the Engineer," and Doubt Pathetic Story of "Bridget Maloney."

The categorical examination of Municipal Judge McKenzie Cleland by a committee selected by the Haeckel Fellowship club to investigate the truth of his lecture platform utterances will be drafted in its final form today. It probably will be submitted to him before nightfall.

Although he has declined to answer any of a list of questions including the substance of the committee's queries, he has said he will meet the communication of the club fairly and squarely, and with that in mind the committee will make its demand for explanation as sweeping as possible.

Its three members, Herman R. Mueller, W. R. Gillette, and E. P. Corbett, were the leaders in the denunciation of Judge Cleland that followed the flat contradiction of many of his statements by Judge W. N. Gemmill, and their attitude is that justice to the club, the Municipal court, and the public prohibits the use of halfway measures.

Question Story About Bridget.

In addition to the story of "Jim, the Engineer"—who never was an engineer and who continued his drunken offenses against the law after he was paroled, although assertions of his complete reformation were made on the lecture platform, according to Judge Gemmill, it was said yesterday Judge Cleland will be questioned regarding at least two other stories of his experiences.

One of these is the "Bridget Maloney" story—a pathetic tale of a widow with nine children. According to his account, she was brought before him as a habitual drunkard; he talked to her, paroled her, found her work in a State street millinery store, and now she is a model mother. He frequently followed this, it is said, with an assertion that in a similar case "another judge" had sent the woman to the bridewell.

Judge Gemmill told the Haeckel club that this story and the charge of unnecessary cruelty attached to it had been placed before him in a south side church and that Judge Cleland later was defied in the presence of Chief Justice Olson to identify the two cases so the accuracy of his statements could be proved. There was no answer, Judge Gemmill said, but after that "Bridget Maloney" was given less publicity.

Another favorite story up for criticism is that of a South Chicago prisoner who was well fed while his family was starving, and the restoration of the family to happiness and comfort following his parole. Judge Gemmill insinuated that the yarn was purely a product of the imagination.

Cleland Tells Western Story.

No mention of Judge Cleland's favorite stories of his reformation of criminals crept into his talk before the Young Men's club of the Second Presbyterian church in the afternoon.

For his material the speaker left the Municipal court and Chicago and went far into the west, where a young man of 23 years had been hanged for murder caused—according to the argument—by several terms of imprisonment that were followed by brief periods of freedom. That was the closest he approached to a story, for he drew no illustrations from his own experience.

He made no attempt to answer the charges made against him by Judge Gemmill that his stories frequently varied widely from the facts in the cases he discussed—an intimation that his utterances from the lecture platform might not be made on the witness stand—and did not refer to the trial of his veracity contemplated by the Haeckel Fellowship club.

STILL HUNT FOR MISSING MAN.

Meanwhile Wife of Duro Hrufka and Boarder Are Held at Maxwell Street Station.

CAR RUNS DOWN UNKNOWN MAN.

An unidentified man was struck and hurled ten feet by a Wentworth avenue car at Fifty-third street last night. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital in an unconscious condition. Physicians say his condition is serious. The police of the Englewood district were notified of the accident. Nothing to indicate his identity was found in the clothes of the victim, who is about 40 years old.

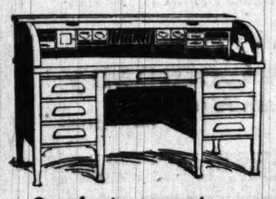

Say Dance Receipts Were Stolen.

The police of the Chicago avenue station were requested last night to search for Carl Liljegren, a painter, 1424 Addison street, who is said to have disappeared with $65, the receipts of a dance given by the Swedish Social Dramatic club in a north side hall. Liljegren was on the committee which had charge of the arrangements for the dance.

FERD PECK JR. "JOKE'S" VICTIM

Pernicious Pest Writes "Announcement" of Engagement.

NAMES SOUTH SIDE WOMAN.

Mrs. Cora Dorwin Knapp and Young Man Both Call It Lie.

A mysterious practical joker, or a pernicious pest, yesterday sent the following "announcement" to THE TRIBUNE, and, as a result, much excitement was caused in the evening in two south side families:

"Will you please insert the following notice in your society notes? Thanking you, I am, yours truly,

"CORA DORWIN KNAPP."

The notice was:

"Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. Cora Dorwin Knapp to Mr. Ferdinand W. Peck Jr."

A telephone message to the Peck residence revealed the fact that none of the family knew of Mr. Ferdinand W. Peck Jr.'s engagement. Mr. Peck's father is in Europe at the present time, but a relative declared positively the young man was not engaged to any one.

Peck Calls It Absurd Lie.

Mr. Peck himself was engaged in enjoying a dinner party at the South Shore club when he was notified of the "announcement." He said:

"It's a lie pure and simple. Absolutely absurd and foolish, and some one is either trying to play a practical joke or is attempting to injure Mrs. Knapp and myself. If I can only discover who the writer is there will be trouble."

"Do you know Mrs. Knapp?" he was asked.

"Certainly I know her," was the reply. "We are the best of friends and this will grieve her. I don't care for myself, but that some one should bring an innocent woman into this is a shame and a disgrace."

After thinking the matter over carefully Mr. Peck announced he had suspicions of certain friends on whom he perpetrated a practical joke several weeks ago. He caused to be inserted in a morning newspaper an announcement of a dinner party. His friends, he said, had been watching for a chance to "get even" with him ever since.

Best of Friends; That's All.

Mrs. Knapp, who lives at 8808 Grand boulevard and is the daughter of W. E. Dorwin, a railroad contractor, with offices in the Railway Exchange building, was indignant when shown the note. She is a young woman who was divorced seven years ago from Clyde Knapp, a New York broker.

"Of course it is not true that I am engaged to Mr. Peck," said she. "We are the best of friends, but that is all there is to it. Why any one should send that 'announcement' to THE TRIBUNE I do not know."

"But have you any idea who the writer is?" the young woman was asked.

"No, I have not," she replied. "I have been annoyed several times during the last month by mysterious telephone messages and telegrams, and I suppose it is some unknown enemy who is trying to seek revenge. I can't imagine who it could be."

When Mrs. Knapp learned of the attempted "joke" she had just returned from St. Luke's hospital, where her father is seriously ill. She said that an operation was to be performed on Mr. Dorwin today.

"I thought I had trouble enough," said she, "without this false report of my engagement to Mr. Peck."

Mrs. Knapp secured a divorce from her husband on statutory grounds. She was married Jan. 30, 1896, and lived in New York several years.

PAYS DEBT AS DEATH COMES.

Five Dollar Bill, in Paper Bearing Name of Man He Owed, Found on Dying Patient.

Daniel Green died in the Passavant hospital yesterday after being found in an unconscious condition at 79 Dearborn avenue. Drink is believed to have caused death.

A $5 bill, wrapped in a slip of paper bearing the name of W. F. Egler, a State street druggist, led to the identification of Green as a man who had come to Egler for treatment of a bruised eye.

Green was unable to pay, but promised to do so at the earliest opportunity. Egler wrote his name on a slip of paper and handed it to Green. It was the piece of paper found yesterday on Green's body wrapped around the $5 bill. Egler says that only 25 cents was due him for dressing the eye, but is convinced that payment was intended to be taken from the larger sum.

BRISCOE PREFERS COAST JAIL.

California Prisoner Refuses Pardon, So Chicago Hearing for Homicide Will Be Delayed.

Vincent Briscoe, who is wanted in Chicago for the murder of Policeman Duffy several years ago at the stockyards, will not be returned from California until his present sentence in prison expires. Gov. Gillett, after examining laws on the subject, has determined that Briscoe, who does not want to be pardoned, need not be, as the penal code prohibits pardons without the prisoner's consent. He has twenty months to serve on a sentence for larceny and prefers to stay there.

MYSTERIOUS TRIP BY FAILED BROKER

REPORTS OF LIABILITIES.

Some Say Amount Will Reach $600,000, but Attorney Predicts Quick Settlement.

Efforts made yesterday both in Chicago and New York to ascertain the whereabouts of John Dickinson, head of the failed brokerage firm of John Dickinson & Co., were without success.

In New York at his apartment, 57 East Seventy-fifth street, it was said he had left Friday night for Chicago.

If he arrived in Chicago, however, either Saturday night or yesterday, no information of that nature reached the persons who were interested in his movements.

Stephen Callaghan, his attorney in New York, said that Mr. Dickinson expected to appear in court in this city today in case application should be made for a receiver here, as is anticipated.

Mrs. Dickinson left the New York residence with her husband.

Reports of Big Liabilities.

In Chicago the developments of the day's inquiry into the affairs of the firm led to the opinion that the liabilities of the concern might total $600,000 or $700,000, but Attorney Callaghan, as the broker's principal spokesman, affirmed the amount would not exceed $150,000.

"The Chicago statements that the liabilities will go above half a million," said Callaghan, "are grossly exaggerated. I stated on Saturday that the amount will not exceed, if it reaches, $150,000. There is no doubt in my mind that the firm will resume business within ten or fifteen days. There is no one else in the concern but Mr. Dickinson and it was called Dickinson & Co. simply as a sort of trade mark.

"The failure was caused by thirty or forty clients—bears on wheat—who, when wheat spurted upward, simply 'laid down' on the firm and refused to put up any more margins. The largest amount owed in margins by any one customer is $10,000.

"Mr. Dickinson has been for twenty years a member of the Chicago board of trade and the Consolidated stock exchange of New York. He will appear in Chicago tomorrow morning, when we expect application will be made for a receiver.

"The purpose is to get a satisfactory adjustment so that one creditor shall not get any more than another."

Foresee a Difficult Time.

Local board of trade opinion was that the firm would have difficulty in getting back on its feet soon, if ever.

One specific rumor was that the firm was short on Union Pacific stock, and that the profits of its wheat operations on the board of trade had been eaten up in stock speculation.

J. T. Murphy, manager of the Chicago house, admitted the stock losses, without specifying the losing transactions.

"We were ahead on wheat throughout," he said. "I don't know how the New York office stood on stocks, but that must be where the rub was. We are solvent in Chicago and everybody here who dealt with the firm is safe to the full amount. We banked all local accounts here and sent the proceeds to New York when each deal was completed and closed. There are no heavy liabilities here."

Mr. Murphy said he was without information as to the movements of Mr. Dickinson, but expressed confidence he would be here today, if he left New York for Chicago.

PATTEN GOES ON BOY'S BOND.

Mother's Appeal Saves Son, Charged with Burglary, from Returning to Evanston Prison.

James A. Patten yesterday went on the bond of Forest Parrill, a 17 year old Evanston high school boy who was held to the grand jury under $2,000 bond on three charges of burglary and one of highway robbery, after George B. Winters, an Evanston grocer, had told the Evanston police he would no longer be surety for the boy.

A policeman was sent to the Parrill home, 1210 Sherman avenue, and the mother was told her boy would have to go to jail again. Mrs. Parrill communicated with Mrs. James A. Patten and the latter induced Mr. Patten to sign the bonds. The police say Winter declined to act as surety any longer because of his wife's illness.

"Yes, I went on the boy's bond," said Mr. Patten. "The entire family are strangers, but I acted as surety because of compassion for the mother."

Fall Downstairs Proves Fatal.

John Schultz, 890 North Talman avenue, a retired merchant, died yesterday at the Norwegian Lutheran Tabitha hospital of concussion of the brain which he suffered by falling downstairs at his home early Saturday morning. He tripped over a torn piece of carpet and fell the whole length of the stairs, striking on his head and losing consciousness.

THE knowledge you have of the paint subject is probably not very extensive; you know you want a good job at as small cost as possible.

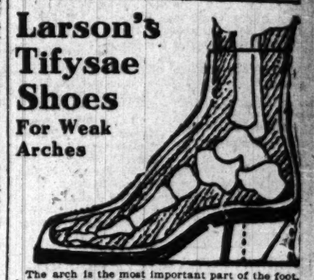

You may simply take the advice and the estimate of your painter; but a better way is to get his figures for the work alone, and his estimate of the amount of paint required.

Then buy the paint yourself and pay him to put it on. Get Devoe Lead-and-Zinc paint; your dealer can supply it, or we will. If the painter figures on anything else you'll save a good deal on paint and labor by using Devoe Lead-and-Zinc.

Larson's Tifysae Shoes For Weak Arches

The arch is the most important part of the foot, because it controls the action of the ligaments, nerves and muscles. It receives the entire weight of the body and distributes it to the other parts of the foot. Therefore, it must be properly supported in order to allow these nerves and muscles free action.

Ready made shoes made over wooden lasts should be avoided. They are made after a form from the measurements of some other person's feet, and cannot possibly fit your feet.

You need shoes fitted to your own feet. The Tifysae Shoes are made by taking a cast of your feet in plaster paris from the shoe line, which is the only method it is possible to reproduce all the lines of the feet, and the shoes are built over this cast, so that the arch is properly supported, allowing free movement of the nerves and muscles, proper distribution of the weight of the body and ease and comfort to the feet.

Made to measure, $10 to $25.

The Tifysae Shoe, made over our famous arch supporter last, $3.50 to $8.00.

MOTHER DIVORCED; BOY SLAYS SELF.

AID TO FREE SYNAGOGUE.

Banker Schiff and Others Contribute $30,000 Toward Proposed Fund.

William Cooper, 16 years old, committed suicide today at his home, 508 Knickerbocker avenue, Williamsburg, by strangling himself with a piece of clothesline. The boy's love for his mother and his separation from her since his father obtained a divorce are believed by his father to have been the cause. The father, Oliver Cooper, brought a divorce suit last fall, naming an auctioneer as co-respondent. It is alleged that Cooper then learned from his son William (he has another boy, Oliver, who is 18) that he had known of his mother's relations with the auctioneer for several years, but was afraid to tell for fear there would be trouble between his father and mother.

Boy Is Suicide Because Parents Were Divorced.

When the Coopers separated the sons remained with their father. On March 19 last Cooper got a divorce and the decree gave him the custody of the boys. He noticed the younger boy was depressed and tried in vain to cheer him.

While Mr. Cooper and the elder boy were at dinner today Willie prepared for suicide. He tied one end of a clothesline around a bedpost and the other around his neck and strangled himself.

The gift of $30,000 towards a fund for the erection of an edifice of worship in which to house the New Free synagogue was announced today at the second anniversary celebration of the foundation of the synagogue. This amount, it was announced, has been contributed by Jacob H. Schiff and Adolph Lewisohn, each of whom gave $10,000, and by I. N. Seligman and Henry Morgenthau, who each gave $5,000.

Give $30,000 for New Free Synagogue.

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, rabbi of Sinai temple, Chicago, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the New Free synagogue, made addresses in defense of the principle of free speech in church pulpits.

"One man," said Dr. Wise, "undertook to overthrow the moral bankruptcy that afflicted the country—to reform when it was necessary to reform. That man was Theodore Roosevelt. The synagogue and the church should have done this work, but through their neglect it was left for this great man to do."

The editor of a medical journal calls attention to the neurasthenia affecting the school teachers in New York City in an article which says: "One of the most startling facts as to our public schools is the recent revelation of the large percentage of retired teachers in New York City who have neurasthenia recorded as the cause of their disability. If there is anything which unfits one for managing children it is neurasthenia. Even babies are excited or soothed as their nurse is nervous or phlegmatic.

Neurasthenia of Teachers Peril to Schools.

"The cause of the teachers' neurasthenia is obscure when we reflect that teaching is the natural life of woman, who has developed a genius for managing children, as well as the result of the evolution of ages. None the less, it is a nervous strain. Nothing is harder to bear than the noise of other people's children. Much may be due to improper food and too much light in the schoolrooms also."

Owing to a growing lack of interest in the bible on the part of young men members of a Sunday school class of the First Congregational church of Jersey City, the church has decided to abandon International Sunday school lessons and go in for sociology. Prohibition, protection, free trade, socialism, single tax, municipal government, social betterment, and kindred subjects will be taken up. The church is one of the largest in Jersey City, the Rev. John L. Scudder, who has become well known to the Jersey City public because of his war on illegal liquor selling, being the pastor.

Lack Interest in Bible; Turn to Sociology.

There was a fifteen minute rough and tumble fight in Ward 3, Bellevue hospital, this afternoon in which four male visitors, a policeman, male nurses, and hospital messengers took part. Patients tumbled out of bed and huddled at the far end of the ward, where the female nurses had fled. Two of the men, Edward Gordon and Edward Conroy, were arrested. The fight started when the men were reproved for acting noisily.

THROAT CUT, TWELVE WOUNDS; ALSO FALLS THREE STORIES.

Mexican Found Unconscious in Alley and Police Discover Wine Mixed with Acid in Room; Girl Attempts Suicide.

Wooing death with steel and poison, the police declare, Indalecio Alarcon, who lives at the Dearborn hotel, 406 State street, yesterday afternoon threw himself from the third story window of his room after his double attempt had failed of success, and was picked up unconscious in an alley. Later, at St. Luke's hospital, he regained consciousness, despite a deep cut on his throat and a dozen knife wounds in his side.

Alarcon says he does not remember being attacked and the police concluded he attempted to kill himself. In support of their theory they point to the discovery of a blood covered knife and a bottle of wine mixed with poison in Alarcon's room.

Alarcon was employed recently as a clerk in a State street store. For the last three days he has been acting queerly about the hotel, according to R. M. Rhea, the hotel clerk. Rhea said he believed Alarcon had lost his position and that this worried him. His father is said to be a plantation owner in Mexico.

Miss Lillian White, 22 years old, is believed to have attempted to commit suicide at the residence of Benjamin Adams, 6034 May street, in the evening. The young woman has been keeping house for Thomas Adams, 6006 Center avenue, a son of the man at whose home she is said to have tried to end her life by taking poison. It is believed she will recover.

JAIL BREAKER IS CAPTURED.

Lucius Rapp, Who Escaped in 1904, Arrested at New Haven, Conn., According to Dispatch.

Lucius Rapp, who escaped from the Cook county jail in August, 1904, has been arrested in New Haven, Conn., according to a dispatch received in Chicago yesterday.

Jail attachés say Rapp was formerly vice president of the uplift organization founded by John L. Whitman. Mr. Whitman denies the truth of this statement.

"I remember the man," Mr. Whitman said. "He was sentenced to the bridewell for larceny to serve one year. The day he escaped he was washing windows in Dearborn avenue, and walked away while no one was watching."

LABOR UNREST RIFE IN PARIS

Movement Assuming Alarming Revolutionary Tendencies.

SPEAKERS FAN THE FLAMES.

Unions Seek Alliance with the Government Employes.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, April 4.—The revolutionary tendency of the labor movement in France is continually being emphasized and whatever happens no government need be taken by surprise.

Ever since the postal and telegraphic services have shown they are able to strike with further reaching effects than those attained by any trade union, the general confederation of labor has been exerting itself to cement a union between administrative employés and the proletariat. This is a great change compared with two years ago, when affiliation with associations such as that of the school teachers was coolly regarded by the confederation.

Big Massmeeting Is Held.

In furtherance of the new aim a massmeeting was held at the Hippodrome today at which more than 10,000 persons were present. Velvet trousered masons and flannel shirted navvies formed a majority, but the wellcut black coats of uniformed postmen appeared in noticeable numbers.

No members of the chamber of deputies were invited, the meeting being as strongly anti-parliamentary as it was anti-military, anti-patriotic, and revolutionary. The government's proposed statute, which is intended to regulate the position of France's 900,000 state employés, define their rights in the matter of forming unions and declaring strikes, etc., was repudiated as an attempt to form a barrier between the administrative proletariat and organized working classes. Pataud, secretary of the electricians' union, whose word has twice deprived Paris of electric light and power, dominated the meeting. He attacked both parliament and the republic in violent language. Another speaker, a discharged postman, drew loud applause by saying:

"We are told we are endangering the republic. What does that matter to us?"

Voices Anarchistic Sentiments.

Another speaker referred to the recent pillaging of a house by striking button makers and said: "Newspapers call this act vandalism. I call it an act of justice." This, too, was loudly cheered.

"Down with those two Bastiles, parliament and state," cried another speaker amid shouts of approval. A letter written in behalf of a number of prison warders was read, declaring their discontent with their meager wages and stating they would be ready to join a strike whenever it comes.

Pataud proposed the formation of a secret committee of twelve, composed of state employés and trade unionists, to study measures to be taken in event of the government attempting the repression and endowed with power to organize and proclaim a general strike whenever it shall be opportune. This was passed.

ARRIVAL OF DE SAGAN HEIR WILL SHATTER BONI'S HOPES.

Stork's Visit to Anna Gould to Serve as Check to Count Castellane's Irritating Policies.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, April 4.—A bombshell that will shatter all the financial hopes of Count Boni de Castellane is contained in the news that the Princess de Sagan expects the arrival of a new heir to the Gould millions some time in June or July.

The arrival of the De Sagan heir will give Anna Gould a whip hand over Boni and force him to desist the campaign of unpleasant irritation he has so persistently carried on since her marriage to De Sagan.

Boni really has true affection for his children, as deep as his hatred for De Sagan. By her father's will the princess is permitted to leave her fortune to any child or children she might have. This places her in a position of being able to hold Boni's children's future inheritance welfare over his head.

NAPLES WAITING FOR ROOSEVELT.

Welcome Like That to King Will Be Given to Former President Today.

VESSEL IN GREAT STORM.

Wind Does Heavy Damage Along Both Coasts of the Mediterranean Sea.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

NAPLES, April 4.—Former President Roosevelt will be welcomed at Naples at noon tomorrow with all the honors which could be bestowed upon a king.

The weather is anything but promising for the welcoming. A heavy rain storm, accompanied by a strong wind, prevailed today, and the indications are that there will be little improvement tomorrow. The storm in the Mediterranean increased in fury tonight, the wind blowing down trees and leveling gardens all along the coast. The gale is the worst of the season. Even the big boats in the harbor are feeling the force of the wind.

When the liner Hamburg steams into port the former president will be greeted on board by representatives of the city council, who will extend to him an official greeting, and a party of women, who literally will strew his path with roses. The German consul general will extend the personal greetings of the emperor, and Ambassador Griscom will represent the hundreds of Americans who have gathered at Naples and who would like to meet the former president personally, but who probably will not have an opportunity.

Kaiser's Flowers in Cabin.

The steamship Admiral, which is to carry Mr. Roosevelt to Mombasa, is lying in the harbor decorated with flags and the special quarters set aside for Mr. Roosevelt and his party already are showing evidences of the welcome which awaits him. Numerous gifts of flowers have been sent to the ship and tomorrow the remembrance of the German emperor, in the shape of great masses of carnations, typical of the German colors, will be placed in Mr. Roosevelt's cabin.

The American yachts in the harbor, of which there are several, have their flags and bunting ready to dress ship on the first appearance of the Hamburg, but the police precautions will be made stringent, and service boats will keep all craft at a distance.

Mr. Roosevelt will not likely remain on board the Hamburg long after its arrival, as he doubtless will wish to make the most of the few hours of his stay at Naples. No fixed program has been arranged, as in all probability the ex-president will have decided views as to what he wishes to do. It is thought, however, that he will go directly to the Hotel Londres, where apartments were originally engaged for him by Carow West Roosevelt, who is stopping there. Later Mr. Roosevelt will have lunch with the duke and duchess of Aosta and it is thought will visit the museum and aquarium.

Will Visit Messina Ruins.

Mr. Griscom informed the duke that Mr. Roosevelt had telegraphed from Gibraltar expressing his pleasure at the idea of stopping to see the ruins of Messina, and the Griscom party will go that far with him on the Admiral.

In connection with the efforts made to secure apartments for the ex-president, those who had the matter in hand had an amusing experience. They found it impossible, on account of the great number of visitors who had come to the city or had engaged rooms in advance to secure apartments at the highest class hotels for Mr. Roosevelt, as they did not announce the name of the intended guest. At each of these houses they were informed that all apartments were taken, and as a consequence rooms were finally secured at the Hotel Londres, which is a hostelry of quite ordinary pretensions.

ROOSEVELT NOTE BRINGS JOY

COMPARE HIM TO LINCOLN.

Teacher and 46 Children Elated Over Response from Ex-President.

Theodore Roosevelt has written to forty-six Chicago boys and girls and a Chicago school teacher as follows:

Your letter pleased me very much and I thank you for it.

As a result forty-six Chicago boys and girls and a Chicago school teacher are elated and overflowing with gratification.

Inauguration day exercises held by the pupils of the eleventh room of the Byford school, in charge of Miss Mary R. Hecox, brought forth the commendation of the strenuous one. And well they might. For it is doubtful if in his whole career Theodore Roosevelt ever received more wholesouled, generous, heartfelt appreciation than in the responses of the pupils of the Byford school to the toast "Theodore Roosevelt."

The toast was as follows:

To the dauntless defender of the right, as God has given him to see the right; to the "Great Heart" who has slain the giants and braved the lions that we may tread the "King's Highway"; to one who has the virtues revered in Washington and in our Lincoln combined with laudable qualities Roosevelitian, our best loved president, Theodore Roosevelt, we give our best wishes and three hearty cheers.

Response by Each Pupil.

Following the cheers each pupil arose in turn and responded. Here are some of the sentiments expressed:

President Roosevelt has done much to show and prove to our country the beauty and worth of a real home.—Eleanor Jane Couser.

You, President Roosevelt, are our nation's pride. You have shown this by being kind and true to your cowboy friends and by helping them against the Sioux Indians.—David Lubben.

We know President Roosevelt did all he could for his country and he was always kind and just.—Esther Droth.

President Roosevelt has done his duty.—Helen Linquist.

We hope President Roosevelt will be elected in 1912.—Stella Schoemaker.

President Roosevelt has done his very best for his country, and we hope you will have a good time in Africa.—George Gunger.

President Roosevelt has done much good to the fleet by sending it around the world.—Vandel Fridlund.

"Peacemaker of the World."

President Roosevelt is the peacemaker of the world.—Elmer Johnson.

President Roosevelt has never done an unjust thing for his country.—Paul Skoog.

Our president, Theodore Roosevelt, has shown to the world how well our country is protected by having the fleet encircle the world and show its strength.—Emil Rylander.

President Roosevelt, I have enjoyed reading some of your books, and I hope you will write about some of your adventures in Africa.—Everett Gibbs.

President Roosevelt is an honored man.—Gladys Brown.

I hope President Roosevelt will have a bully time with his gun in Africa.—Herbert Gustafson.

President Roosevelt was a very ambitious man for his country.—Mabel Baldwin.

I hope President Roosevelt will have a bully time in Africa.—Charles Bunker.

Taft Not Forgotten.

Seven others were dominated by the idea that they wanted President Roosevelt for another term, but in spite of the overwhelming "Teddy" enthusiasm Taft was not quite forgotten on his inauguration day. At the close of the exercises the following toast was given:

"To our new president, William H. Taft—May he take no backward step. We wish him success and give him three cheers."

The report of the proceedings was neatly bound in a small booklet by the pupils and forwarded to the ex-president. His answer, directed to each of the children by name, was sent just before he sailed.

Alfred Peats Wall Paper

Good Taste Costs You Nothing

A home may be beautifully decorated for very little money if you know how. Two things are requisite: Knowledge of the best that is being produced in wall paper effects and skill in applying them to your own best advantage. Some of the most exquisite designs and color effects introduced this season are very inexpensive and are much more appropriate for the average home than more elaborate papers.

The artistic wall decorations gathered together in this store from both Oriental and European sources cannot help but inspire good taste and enable the purchaser to know at first hand what is most attractive for his or her purpose. Our salesmen are trained in the art of house decoration and can suggest effective color schemes, etc., if desired.

ALL CITY TO HEAR HOSE BATTLE DIN.

Army of 500,000 Expected to Be Enlisted for War on Increase in Tariff.

MASSMEETING PLANNED.

Every Resident Will Be Given a Chance to Sign Protest in Next Three Days.

Three more days!

Count 'em, Monday! Tuesday! Wednesday!

Only three more days for the people of Chicago, the children who wear the stockings, the women who wear the gloves, the men who pay the bills, to enlist for the great battle to be waged in Washington on the proposed increase of the tariff on gloves and stockings.

In these three days the army of militant consumers must grow from the 225,000 that it now numbers to a full half million. So say the women of the League of Cook County Woman's clubs, which is conducting the campaign, and to this end they are going to exert every possible effort to give every resident of Chicago at least one fair chance to enroll himself or herself under the banner of "Gloves and Stockings."

As a matter of fact, most Chicagoans probably will have from five to fifty chances to sign the document which will place them decisively on one side or the other of the great question—with the women and children or against them.

Petitions at Every Turn.

Mr. Average Chicagoan will leave his house this morning with the injunction of his wife to be sure and strike a blow for stockings and gloves ringing in his ears. He will find a petition as he steps into the corner drug store on his way to the car. He will be met by recruiting officers on the suburban train or in the elevated or surface car. If he escapes these he may be caught in the railway station or cigar store.

The omnipresent petition will find its way to him in his store, office, or factory. It will be offered for his consideration with his change by the cashier in the restaurant at noon. He certainly will be snared if he ventures into the department store or corner grocery. And if, being one of the "idle rich," he has no place to go during the day but attends the theater in the evening he will be given an opportunity to strike a blow for the cause.

But even the doing of all this will not utilize the superabundant energy of the clubwomen. Signing a petition or circulating one, no matter how vigorously, is at best a feeble and inadequate way of giving vent to such fervent, wholehearted wrath as is back of the "gloves and stockings" movement.

Massmeeting Planned.

Therefore there is going to be a massmeeting.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones will head the list of speakers. The use of the Colonial theater has been donated. Mrs. Nathan B. Lewis, president of the League of Cook County Woman's clubs, will preside. The people of Chicago, more particularly the women of Chicago, and most particularly the clubwomen of Chicago, will compose the audience.

Resolutions embodying the sentiments of the meeting will be passed for the information and guidance of certain gentlemen now resident in Washington who style themselves around election time, "servants of the public." Then four or five women will be appointed to carry the resolutions and the petition to the alleged "public servants" aforesaid, to be duly considered by them before the Payne bill comes to a vote. The committee of women will wait in Washington to observe the effect of the resolutions and the petition on the actions of the "public servants" and it is thought that though disfranchised, their presence and opinions will have a salutary effect.

Circulars to All Clubs.

Circulars have been sent out by the league to every Woman's club in Cook county, asking that a delegation be sent to the massmeeting. Sixty-two clubs are members of the league and thirty-five are not affiliated with it. The clubs also will take up the tariff question at their meetings today and tomorrow. Mrs. Lewis will address the Englewood Woman's club on the subject this afternoon. Mrs. Elwood MacGrew will discuss it before the Lake View Woman's club at Belmont hall tomorrow afternoon.

Clubs which are expected to take up the matter today are the Chicago Woman's Outdoor Art league, the Wicker Park Culture club, the Chicago South Side club, the Social Economics club, the Garfield Park Woman's club, the Woodlawn Woman's club, and the Rogers Park Woman's club. Clubs which meet tomorrow are the Morgan Park Woman's club, the Irving Park Woman's club, and the Ravenswood Woman's club.

The clubwomen will be assisted in circulating the petition today by fifty men, who will be at work on the suburban trains and in the stations, on the street cars and elevated roads, in the office buildings in the loop, and the hotels and theaters.

Many Signatures Added.

Many thousands of signatures were added to the total yesterday through the sheer momentum of the movement and without any special effort. Great piles of mail bearing signed coupons accumulated, and many hundreds of men and women quietly filled out petition blanks among their friends. Furthermore, signatures were obtained in at least one church.

The church was the First Congregational of Evanston, and every one signed, too, for the members were greatly wrought up by a vigorous address by Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, whose opinion of the Payne bill was summarized when she said:

"If the tariff committee opened its session with prayer and scripture it must have twisted Paul's words to read 'Ye that are weak ought to bear the burdens of the strong.'"

The Evanston woman justice vividly illustrated her arguments by exhibiting several pairs of gloves bought by her while abroad. She showed a pair that cost 37½ cents in Paris that would have cose $1.50 in the United States. Another pair was purchased for 75 cents in London, $1.75 less than its State street price.

"I had a complete list of my purchases when I returned and had to pay $88.13 duty," she said. "Even at that I did not pay over half what the articles would have cost me in Chicago. I would like to know who makes the difference."

Jabbed as a Bachelor.

Mrs. McCulloch followed Arthur Ormes, who rather defended the tariff from the assaults of the women, declaring that "men pay their bills anyway." She indignantly ascribed this care-free attitude to the fact that the speaker was a bachelor, and went on to attribute the general alleged iniquities of the bill to the fact that it had been drawn up by men only.

"Women are vitally interested in this affair," she said, "as every one of them is earning her own living, whether in a factory, as office, or toiling as a housewife. Such remarks as you have just heard could come only from a bachelor. The married man appreciates well the assistance of his wife. Women as purchasing agent of the family cannot buy as much food, clothing, and house furnishings for their weekly allowances as they used to, and under the Payne bill they will get even less.

"Gloves and stockings are not the only articles taxed in the new tariff bill that affect women—embroideries, tea, soap, perfume, plate glass, cottons, woolen, pineapples, lemons, feathers, cocoa, and many other things will be 'protected' at their expense.

"Women have been paying duties on so many necessities for so long that it is not the extra duties on stockings and gloves that are to be deplored, but rather the principles involved."

Mrs. McCulloch severely criticised congress, declaring that an extensive reading of the Congressional Record disclosed nothing more serious than repartee and "horse play." She thought the presence of women would add dignity to the body.

Stays in Jail Rather than Pay Debt.

MRS OTTO J. KERSHAW

Mrs. Kershaw, who is a Chicago suffragist, occupies a jail cell because she refuses to pay a judgment of $195, obtained by a feminine neighbor, Mrs. Belle McClelland, who alleged Mrs. Kershaw had attacked her with a poker. The prisoner says that rather than pay the debt she will remain in jail for six months at the expense of her accuser.

FARMS FOR 100,000 SPINSTERS

Boston Society Wants State to Aid Women Who Are Needy.

SCARCITY OF MEN THE CAUSE

"Old Maids" Will Be Given Chance to Raise Crops and Fowls.

Boston, Mass., April 4.—[Special.]—Small suburban farms will be supplied by the state to the 100,000 spinsters in Massachusetts if the plans of three score business and professional women of Boston are carried out. Because of the scarcity of men in the state it is recognized that something must be done to aid this army of women and an organization has been formed for the purpose of winning state aid in securing small tracts of land near large cities where women can engage in profitable agricultural enterprises.

The Women's Massachusetts Homestead association plans to encourage the many thousands of women of all ages who are forced to struggle to gain a livelihood to raise flowers, herbs, plants, mushrooms, strawberries, vegetables, squabs, chickens, bees, and pigs.

Want Acre Lots Given.

To achieve this end, the associations wants the commonwealth to buy tracts of land wherever available, divide it into acre lots, and then through a commission supply the women with a share of land. If the state is not willing to furnish the land free, then the association asks that it take a mortgage on the land bought by philanthropists, develop it, build cheap and comfortable homes on it, and then furnish the necessary implements to cultivate the soil.

This plan, say the members of the Homestead association, will take thousands of women and children out of the large cities of Massachusetts, thin out the congested slum districts, and place these women and those dependent upon them where they can be profitably employed under sanitary conditions.

There is a bill before the state legislature introduced by James H. Mellin of Worcester to have the state distribute lands to heads of families through a commission of five agriculturists and five labor men. The women of the Homestead association want this bill amended so that the unmarried women, widows, and mothers of families can have a share of any land distributed by the state, as well as the "heads of families." These women also want two women on the commission.

Wealthy Persons Offer Aid.

A wealthy New York woman has become interested in the project and it is announced that she is coming to Massachusetts in June to investigate, and that she will spend from $200,000 to $300,000 if the cause appeals to her in buying land for struggling "old maids."

Options have been secured on several farms. There also is a philanthropist living in Brookline who offers to give his big farm for an experiment if the state decides to aid the widows and spinsters in earning a living from the soil.

MONEY DESIGNS TO CHANGE

WAR ON COINERS IS AIDED.

Figures Easily Duplicated, Will Be Left Off the Notes.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Coolidge has approved a plan for systematising designs for United States notes and coin certificates, thus carrying into effect a scheme of uniformity in portrait and general design for notes of the same denomination of each class. The plan adopted will embody the ideas of officials of the treasury department, bankers, business men, and currency experts.

It is believed the new notes will be welcomed by the public on account of their simplicity and the readiness with which different denominations may be fixed in mind. At present there are nineteen different designs for United States notes and coin certificates of various denominations, leading to confusion and uncertainty.

Nine Designs in Future.

Under the new plan there will be but nine designs. For instance, there are now two designs for $5 notes. The silver certificate bears the head of an Indian chief, while the United States note bears a portrait of Andrew Jackson, accompanied by a symbolical group of a frontiersman and family.

The $10 gold certificate carries a portrait of Michael Hillegas, the first treasurer of the United States. The silver certificate of the same denomination carries the portrait of Thomas A. Hendricks; the $10 greenback, a buffalo. There is equal variety in the other denominations.

By the new plan, the possibility of confusion will be reduced to a minimum and at the same time the artistic quality of the notes will be greatly enhanced.

One Design to Denomination.

Under the plan adopted, all classes of notes of each denomination will carry the same portrait and no portrait will appear on the notes of more than one denomination, nor will any portrait be used which will not be immediately recognizable by every person who handles money.

The $1 silver certificate will carry the portrait of Washington; the $2 silver certificate the portrait of Jefferson. The $5 note, whether silver certificate or greenback, will carry the portrait of Lincoln; the $10 gold and silver certificate and United States note that of Cleveland; the $20 that of Jackson; the $50 that of Grant, the $100 that of Franklin, the $500 that of Salmon P. Chase, the $1,000 that of Alexander Hamilton.

The portraits of Hillegas, Monroe, Silas Wright, Lewis, Clark, Mansfield, and others will be eliminated. The eagle, the buffalo, and the Indian head, which have proved to be easily counterfeited, also will disappear. All duplications will be done away with. The classes of notes will be differentiated by color and by other distinguishing marks.

The new system of notes, it is believed, will tend to discourage counterfeiting.

NO DISTRESS FROM UPSET STOMACH.

Miserable is the man or woman who suffers from dread Indigestion or Dyspepsia. There are few diseases which create such misery, long drawn-out suffering, as Indigestion. It pursues them before meals, after meals and between meals; they take it to bed with them. It is with them wherever they go, though Indigestion is the simplest disease of all to cure.

Tell such afflicted ones, dear reader, of Pape's Diapepsin; urge the sufferer to go to any Pharmacy here and give 50 cents for a case. Such a sufferer would ever after bless you, because five minutes after taking there would be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the Stomach, or Heartburn, or fullness and discomfort, no Belching of Gas or Eructations of Sour Food, Debilitating Headache, Nausea, Water Brash and other symptoms of a sour, disordered stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin will digest anything you eat without the aid of the Stomach.

Diapepsin is a wonderful Stomach purifier and splendid to keep the intestines clean and fresh; then your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Diapepsin will rest the stomach and increase the gastric juices; this is what is mostly needed—more and better digestive juices—and no Gas—then Indigestion and all stomach trouble will go.

HOUSE TO LIMIT TARIFF DEBATES.

Republican "Whip" Says Cloture Rule Will Be Passed by Majority Today.

HIGH TAX MEN APPEASED

No Chance for Separate Vote on Schedules They Support Is Provided.

Washington, April 4.—Representative Dwight of New York, the Republican "whip" in the house, announced tonight that the rules committee tomorrow would bring in a rule fixing the time for taking the final vote on the tariff bill and restricting amendments thereto, and that the rule would be adopted. The plan calls for the final vote on April 10. Mr. Dwight made an unequivocal prediction of victory after he had canvassed the situation thoroughly in numerous conferences throughout the day.

Some of the house leaders in the conferences said that such a rule, if proposed, would be defeated. The situation had been complicated last evening, when a group of high tariff republicans kicked over the traces and declared they would not stand for a special rule which would enable the house to change certain schedules or which would forbid a chance to vote on other schedules containing duties regarded by these high tariff republicans as too low.

High Tariff Men Insurgents.

But the house leaders were able by dint of hard work today to bring around the high tariff insurgents. The understanding is that they were convinced the unruly ones in the senate would do the things which most of the insurgents were urging. A majority of the high tariff men were interested only in the lumber and coal schedules. Those who had lumber on their minds were afraid that if a separate vote were permitted in the house on the lumber schedule lumber would be placed on the free list.

In the Payne bill rough lumber is made dutiable at $1, a reduction from $2, the rate in the present law, and other products of the forests are assessed at rates ranging from 50 cents to $4.50. These rates are satisfactory to the representatives who want a high tariff on lumber, at least they believe that any further tinkering with the lumber schedule will result in a reduction.

For this reason they have been opposing vigorously the proposition to submit a special rule which will permit amendments to be offered to the lumber schedule, while some of them who are dissatisfied still are comforted in the assurance received today that if free lumber is voted by the house the senate will see that the rates fixed by the Payne bill are restored.

Want Flat Duty on Coal.

In the Payne bill anthracite coal is put on the free list and bituminous coal, it is provided, shall be admitted free when the country of export does not place an export tax on shipments. The representatives who are interested in coal, want a straight duty placed on all varieties of products. It is understood that the rebellious Republicans, who want a duty kept on coal have been assured that when the tariff bill goes to the senate it will be amended there so as to provide a duty of 50 cents on long tons and of 45 cents on short tons. The present long ton duty is 67 cents.

Assurances have been given also, it is understood, to these Republicans who are protesting against the Payne bill reductions on iron ore, pig iron, and scrap iron. While it was impossible for the house leaders to make any definite statement as to what rates would be imposed on these products in the bill to be reported to the senate by the finance committee, they felt able to say that the rate would be of character satisfactory to those interested in the iron division of the metal schedule.

PLEDGES AID AGAINST RAISE.

One more of the Illinois members of the house of representatives has answered THE TRIBUNE'S telegram as to his stand on the tariff on wearing apparel. The telegram, which was sent to the twenty-five members of the Illinois delegation, first quoted the petition, signed by 200,000 men and women, protesting against the proposed increases in the Payne bill and asked if the congressman favored a separate vote on each article, if he favored rates as low as in the Dingley act, and if he would aid in securing justice for the protestants.

The answer received today was as follows:

Washington, D. C., April 4.—I am opposed to the increase in the tariff on hosiery and gloves. I am in favor of a separate vote on these articles. I am a protectionist, but do not favor rates on these articles higher than under the Dingley bill.

2 FALL IN DEMON RUM DUEL

FIGHT FROM BEHIND POLES.

Pair Attacks Dentist, and Both Drop While He Escapes.

Wellsville, O., April 4.—[Special.]—A tragic climax to the bitter struggle between the wet and dry forces of this place came today, when in a duel, with the opponents using telegraph poles as barricades, two men were shot down and one of them probably fatally hurt.

The participants in the battle were Dr. Hanlon Barnes, a dentist and a leader of the drys, and William Zoellers and Ben Davidson.

Zoellers and Davidson were wounded by the dentist, who escaped without a scratch, and it is stated that Davidson may not recover.

While the West Virginia line comes to the Ohio side of the river, the Ohio authorities have been claiming jurisdiction over the sale of liquor close to the shore. A decision last week by Judge W. W. Hole at Lisbon, however, gave undisputed right to sell liquor in boats sixty feet from the Ohio shore without interference by Ohio authorities.

What Led Up to the Clash.

A boat well stocked with liquors arrived early this morning and anchored sixty feet from shore. During the day skiffs and small craft were busy plying betwen the shore and the boat, carrying passengers, while the shore was lined with men.

Dr. Barnes, who is a member of the Good Citizens' league and a strong enemy of the liquor element, recently has been threatened with death, and in view of this menace has been permitted to carry a gun.

The shooting occurred late in the afternoon on the Cincinnati and Pittsburg railroad tracks near the Ohio, and not far from the floating liquor store. Barnes, who takes exercise by walking every Sunday, inadvertently strolled near the bailiwick of his foes. It is believed the clash occurred through the belief that Barnes was in the vicinity for the purpose of "spotting."

While passing Zoellers and Davidson, the latter accosted the dentist. Knowing the antipathy the men held for him, Barnes tried to get away and told them he wanted no trouble.

"Let me pass," he said, and stepping around them he walked rapidly down the track.

The men followed, jeering. Then they picked up stones from the track and hurled them at him. Barnes, dodging the missiles, took refuge behind a telegraph pole. Then, it is alleged, Zoellers drew a pistol and fired two shots. Neither took effect.

First Shot Fells Enemy.

Barnes, the instant his enemy opened fire, whipped out his revolver and retaliated. His first shot hit Zoellers in the hip and Zoellers fell, dropping his weapon as he sank.

Davidson, seeing his companion down, grabbed the abandoned gun, himself leaped behind a telegraph pole, and let go with the gun as fast as he could load and pull the trigger. In the meantime Barnes' weapon had not been idle, two bullets having lodged themselves in the pole behind which Davidson stood.

Then Davidson in trying to get a better aim, leaned out from his place of safety a little too far, and Barnes, taking advantage of the opportunity, fired hastily and struck his opponent in the neck. That ended the battle.

Dry Victories Aid Moonshine.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—Officials of the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department say that the temperance movement of certain sections of the country, particularly in the south, has resulted in increasing violations of the internal revenue laws in the distillation of illicit whisky.

PLEAS IN STANDARD OIL CASE BEGIN TODAY AT ST. LOUIS.

Attorneys Will Appear Before Full Bench of Circuit Judges and Argue Suit to Dissolve Combine.

St. Louis, Mo., April 4.—One of the most important and far reaching civil actions ever tried in this country is the hearing in the case of the United States against the Standard Oil company of New Jersey which begins here tomorrow.

The full bench of four United States Circuit judges will hear arguments. Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul and former United States Attorney Morrison of Chicago will appear for the government.

The bill of complaint on behalf of the United States, charging a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was filed in the Circuit court of the United States for the eastern division of the eastern judicial district of Missouri in November, 1906.

The United States seeks perpetually to enjoin the defendants from doing any act looking to the carrying out of the alleged combination or conspiracy, and to dissolve the Standard Oil combination.

SAYS STATE OWES PREMIUM REBATES

Illinois Insurance Head Admits New York Companies Were Unduly Taxed.

ABOUT $250,000 INVOLVED.

Refund Would Be Benefit to Policy Holders, Supt. Potter Asserts.

BY C. S. R.

Springfield, Ill., April 4.—[Special.]—The New York insurance companies endeavoring to collect about a quarter of a million dollars from Illinois are not likely to be opposed by the state insurance department, Supt. Potter admitting that the companies are entitled to the money they are seeking to collect by an act of the legislature.

The bill, which was introduced late last week, asks that money collected from the New York companies by retaliatory taxation be credited back to them. The amount involved is between $200,000 and $250,000, collected because of the New York law imposing a tax of 1 per cent on the premiums paid to companies operating in New York.

A provision in the Illinois law automatically establishes a tax on all insurance companies the native state of which imposes a tax, making it equivalent to the amount assessed by the other state.

Reciprocity Provision in Law.

The theory of the Illinois law is not to tax the business of insurance companies, holding that the tax falls on the policy holders and not on the corporation, but a reciprocity provision is contained in the state insurance laws, it assessing against any foreign corporation the exact tax which that corporation pays under the laws of its own state.

Ohio taxes insurance companies 2½ per cent of the premiums and in Illinois, Ohio companies must pay the same on business done in this state. In 1901 the New York legislature passed a 1 per cent tax law and immediately the Illinois authorities levied the same tax against all the premiums paid to the New York companies by Illinois policy holders.

In 1904 the Court of Appeals in New York declared the law unconstitutional. The succeeding legislature repassed it revised to meet the decision of the court. The companies again attacked it and, pending the decision of the second case, paid their tax under protest. The second case resulted in a victory for the state, but the companies insisted that the money paid under the unconstitutional law of 1901 should be paid back.

New York Credits Back.

In 1902, 1903, and 1904 the controller of the state of New York had collected taxes on all premiums paid to the companies. The Illinois insurance department did the same. The court held that the tax could be assessed only against premiums paid on policies written after the law went into effect, Jan. 1, 1905, and that all money collected as a tax on premiums on policies written before that time was illegally collected.

In New York the state has been crediting back to the companies annually a part of the money thus collected, but Illinois thus far has remained in possession of the money received from taxation under the wrong construction of the law.

Except by action of the legislature or through the court of claims and the legislature the companies are powerless to recover from the state, the Illinois courts having held that money once paid in, unless paid under protest, was paid irrevocably.

It is the opinion of the state insurance department that the companies cannot secure redress in the matter unless the legislature be willing to pass the bill providing that they shall be credited with the amount, to be credited against future taxes.

The fact that the companies are dependent on the leniency of the legislature may make it difficult for them to secure the passage of the bill—at least without strenuous efforts.

Mr. Potter holds that the money in reality belongs to the Illinois policy holders of the New York companies.

NOTED EDUCATOR IS DEAD

AIDED ANTI-SLAVERY CAUSE

Was the Senior Alumnus of Amherst; Founded Schools and Wrote Books.

The Rev. James Locke Batchelder, teacher, minister, author, journalist, and publisher, died at 2686 North Paulina street yesterday mornig anfter an illness due to the infirmities of old age. The funeral arrangements will be announced today.

The Rev. Mr. Batchelder was the senior alumnus of Amherst college, receiving his degree of A. B. in 1840.

He was a subscriber and reader of THE TRIBUNE for nearly fifty years.

Born in Newburyport, Mass., July 10, 1816, he graduated from thep ublic schools of Salem and became principal of a woman's academy at Townshend, Vt. He then established an English and classical school at Livingston, Ala.

Takes Up Fight on Slavery.

From schools the Rev. Mr. Batchelder's interest led him to the wider arena of public questions.

He was strongly opposed to slavery and gave evidence of his dislike of that practice by liberating two slaves inherited by his wife. He further showed his interest in the colored race by establishing a school for them at Cincinanti. An impassioned address to southern Baptists in behalf of an anti-slavery convention from his pen appeared in the Christian Politician, a weekly which he published in partnership with the Rev. W. H. Brisbane. His relations with the leaders in the movement to free the slaves were close and his services of tongue or pen were always freely given in furtherance of that object.

Occupies Chicago Pulpit.

The ministry next claimed his thought and energies. He occupied pulpits in Ohio, at La Crosse, Wis., and in Chicago. He purchased the Baptist Journal of Columbus, O., and in 1840 bought the Baptist Messenger of Indianapolis and merged the two papers under the title of the Journal and Messenger. He came to Chicago in 1864.

He was a vigorous writer. His published books were "Genius of Edmund Burke," "Essay on Societyism," "Evangelization," "The Light of Life," and "The Christ in Life."

The Rev. Mr. Batchelder was married twice, his first wife having been Rebecca Darlington Bradford, who died in 1848, Margaret P. Cloud becoming his wife in 1849.

The children who survive are: Mrs. Maggie R. Barrett, 2688 North Paulina street; Mrs. J. W. Carpenter, Omaha, Neb.; Charles T. Batchelder, 1056 Sheridan road, a newspaper man, and E. H. Batchelder of the Chicago and Eastern Indiana railroad. There are eleven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. The funeral is to be held on Tuesday.

OBITUARY.

DAVID H. DAVIS died of heart trouble yesterday at his residence, 4115 Indiana avenue. He was 72 years old. He came to Chicago from New York state forty years ago. For many years he was car inspector of the Chicago City railway and was connected with the legal department of the traction company. He was a veteran of the civil war. He left a widow and four children, Zachary, Charles G., Katherine, and Mary E. Davis. The funeral will take place tomorrow. Burial will be at Mount Olivet cemetery.

DR. GUSTAV HESSERT, who was stricken with paralysis two weeks ago, died yesterday at his residence, 641 Fullerton avenue. He was born in Germany March 12, 1835, and was graduated in 1858 at the University of Wuerzburg. He married Maria Geys in Landau, Germany, in 1862, and came to Chicago in 1868. He left a widow and three sons, Frederick, Gustav Jr., and Dr. William Hessert. Funeral services will be held at Graceland chapel at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

JUSTIN PARMELEE died of heart trouble yesterday at the age of 74 years. For twenty-five years he was superintendent of the L. Wolff Manufacturing company. At the time of his death he was president of the Parmelee Wrench company. He left a widow and two children, Roy Parmelee and Mrs. J. C. Dillenbeck. His residence was at 1056 West Monroe street.

Victory for Either, It Is Conceded, Will Be by Unusually Small Majority.

ganization redoubled its efforts, and it is apparent that tomorrow's voting will mark the culmination of particularly ill feeling between the Republican and Democratic organizations, which has been brewing for several years.

The Republican organization in the Twentieth had a roundup for the purpose of taking a count of noses on the question of whether Ald. John P. Stewart is to get the unalloyed support of the precinct committeemen. Trouble had been deemed possible because of the intensity of the feeling which arose at the time that John R. McCabe was refused renomination for city clerk, when Homer K. Galpin declared in the slate making meeting of the county committee that the ward did not desire McCabe's renomination.

Close Fight in South Chicago.

Republicans and Democrats are donning the war paint and sharpening the tomahawks in preparation for all sorts of trouble in the Eighth and Thirty-third wards. The election promises to be close in both. John S. Clark went to bed at night declaring his faith in the assurances from his campaign managers that he will be elected in the Thirty-fifth. Ald. Race is confident he will defeat Clary by 1,000 or more.

The election commissioners probably will make some definite move today toward the printing of the judicial primary ballots. County Clerk Haas as yet has not delivered a certificate of nomination to the board. Tomorrow the Supreme court will be called upon to consider the petition for a writ of mandamus brought by J. Joseph O'Connor, which, if granted, will change the makeup of the Republican ballot.

Comiskey in Political Parade.

Charles A. Comiskey of the White Sox and Tom Carey, erstwhile boss of the stockyards democracy and now a boulevard resident of the Sixth ward, have signed up with Sidney Kahnweiler, Democratic candidate for alderman from the Sixth. Tonight "Commy" and Tom will lead an automobile parade which will circulate throughout the ward, while fireworks sizzle and the populace cheers. The parade starts at forty-seventh street and Indiana avenue at 8 o'clock. The boss of the White Sox is scheduled positively to appear as an occupant of the first automobile behind the grand marshal in company with Tom Carey and Candidate Kahnweiler. It will be the final blowout of the Democratic campaign in Hyde Park.

Pastor Says Voting Is a Duty.

The Rev. Hugh T. Kerr in a sermon in Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian church forcibly expressed himself as to those men who refuse to go to the polls and vote on election day.

"I would disfranchise you if you did not vote," he said. "The blood of the past has written the history of this nation, and in refusing to cast a ballot you are flinging a taunt in the face of the wonderful heritage from the past. You have no right, under any circumstances, to deny the community your vote. If your ballot would conduce to the good of the community, it is theft not to cast it."

Willard Hall Noonday Meetings.

Willard hall noonday meetings this week will be in charge of the following: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, the Rev. C. E. Cornell, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene. Subject, "The Need of Chicago, a Revival of Old Time Religion." Saturday, prayer and praise service.

thorised by the state charter under which the Union Pacific was organized.

"Observe the extent to which it has been utilized by Mr. Harriman. The testimony shows that the Union Pacific, in addition to the capitalization which it represents, it is carrying in plant and equipment, has issued and sold securities to the amount of $180,000,000, and has used all that vast sum in buying the stocks of other companies, about 40 per cent of the total, or $70,000,000.

Method Within the Law.

"The process is simple, its possibilities almost startling; and it is perfectly lawful, if the state charter of the purchasing road imposes no restriction. Unless the result in a particular instance is such a 'restraint of trade' as the anti-trust act forbids—a doubtful question of fact and law in most cases—the unification of railway control may be indefinitely extended without the slightest risk of federal interference.

"This is the basis and support of what is called in the commission's report the 'Harriman policy.' Is it not too dangerous a power to be left uncurbed? Surely it ought not to be possible for Mr. Harriman, or any other man, when he has acquired absolute control, of one road, perhaps unimportant by comparison, to sell the securities of that road to any amount he pleases, and for any price he pleases, and to use the proceeds to extend his power by the stock ownership to a large portion, it may be, of the transportation lines of the country. Yet that is precisely what may now be done without legal objection.

"Consider this phase of the matter for a moment in the light of the actual situation. Suppose a suit is brought on the Southern Pacific purchase and the government succeeds. As a necessary consequence, it may be assumed, the Union Pacific will be compelled to sell its Southern Pacific holdings. Does any one suppose they will pass into unfriendly hands?

Forced Sale No Solution.

"That, however, bears upon the policy of bringing suit, which is not the point I wish to make in this connection. I am looking further ahead. The Southern Pacific stock owned by the Union Pacific is worth at the present prices something like $100,000,000. When a sale is made, what will the Union Pacific do with the proceeds? Buy the stocks of other roads? It is entirely free to do so and doubtless would use the money in that way.

"To enforce the anti-trust law, after the event, when it can be successfully invoked, is only to treat the occasional symptom without removing the injury.

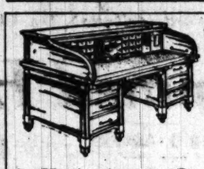

"The time has come, as I think, when the further issue of securities by carriers engaged in interstate commerce, and the use of the proceeds as well, should be the subject of federal regulation. I seriously doubt whether, in this regard, any sound or workable distinction can be drawn between the stock ownership control of 'competing' lines and stock ownership control of other lines.

"JOY RIDING."

The "joy rider" (Gothamese) is responsible for many of the deaths and bad accidents resulting from the careless use of automobiles. The requirement of a number on a machine has proved of much value for identification purposes. But, again and again, in case of accident, owners have testified not only that they had not been using their machines but also that no permission had been given for any one else to use them.

New York, and New Jersey, and Connecticut are reaching out after offenders of this type with a view to reducing the number of accidents. Heavy penalties are being provided, and there is to be systematic effort made to make his an unhappy lot who takes another's automobile from a garage without permission. That many chauffeurs are accustomed to use their employer's machines in "joy riding" with boon companions is well understood.

The National Highway Protective association has just been incorporated. It is made up of friends of the automobile who propose to lend their influence toward the strict enforcement of the laws against scorching and "joy riding." It plans to have a detective force to gather evidence of law violation. It will prosecute offenders. It will advocate a law making the owner of the machine responsible for damage done by it, no matter who is running it at the time. It will keep a list of speed violators and other offenders.

The new restrictive laws and the new organization both are to be commended. The automobile has proved itself a valuable addition to the machinery of modern life. Its friends must be united in putting an end, if possible, to the evils connected with its use. Among these "joy riding" and scorching have prominent place.

TARIFF AND WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The committee on ways and means wrote a tariff bill and, without intending it, has added to the number of women who wish to go to the polls. It has taught hosts of women that there is such a thing as a tariff, that it may touch them on the raw, that it is to their interest to have an effective voice in shaping it, and that to secure that voice they must have the ballot. It is not with these new converts to the cause of woman suffrage a question of "taxation without representation." Few of them pay taxes to their knowledge. Their complaint is of tariff making without representation.

Hitherto women have paid little attention to that important but dreary branch of legislation. Nothing in the long series of tariffs has happened to appeal strongly to their emotions or to outrage their sensibilities. Pig iron duties have not interested them. They may have called themselves free traders or protectionists. If so they only repeated the phrases of fathers or husbands. Now the committee on ways and means, by clapping on stockings and gloves duties that will make them cost more, has taught the women what a tariff is—that it is something which, when framed by unfriendly hands, dips deep into their pocketbooks. It follows inevitably that if woman does not have the ballot she will not be able to protect herself against such raids.

Representatives who favor the duties the women complain of take no notice of their protests. Perhaps to their minds these women are but "loud and troublesome insects of the hour" who will soon tire of ineffectual chattering. They ought to beware what they do. If the bill shall go through unamended there will be still more recruits for the woman suffrage army. When any considerable number of women want the ballot they will get it. It would be a dangerous lesson to teach them that they must have it or pay ruinous prices for their clothing. It has been a pleasing superstition that the legislative interests of women are safe in the hands of men. Pass the tariff bill as it stands and the militant woman suffragists will say to their sisters: "See what treatment you will get from lawmakers as long as you have not the ballot with which to make yourselves respected."

THE TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM.

Can loss from tuberculosis be expressed in terms of dollars and cents? An eastern economist tried it some time ago. He startled many by his figures. A recent bulletin of the department of health in Chicago describes the calculations of a Michigan professor. Counting $100 as the amount which each man can add to the wealth increment of the city in a year, and multiplying this by the number of men between 20 and 70 who died in 1908, the loss for the year is $1,367,511. That is conservative enough, for many economists would use $300 per man as nearer right.

There are other losses to be counted. What is a man worth to his family? What is he worth as a working member of a business house? These cannot be estimated readily. But only a little thought is needed to show that every citizen who is taken by death from active work represents a net loss to the community. If that loss might have been prevented by the proper means, it at once takes its place among the needless wastes of life. Medical men are generally agreed that many tuberculosis patients may be saved. Some of them are certain that the disease will be as completely disarmed as many of the world's pestilences have been.

Chicago needs better machinery for fighting tuberculosis. If the voters do their part this will be obtained. The "little ballot" contains a provision for raising the required amount of money. The preliminary work is all done. The opportunity has come to the voters. It is for them to say whether the sanitarium shall be established. It is not easy to understand how any one can vote no on a matter of such vital importance.

AMERICAN OPPORTUNITY.

A former rodman has been made a railroad president. A New York contemporary seizes the opportunity to print the pictures of the presidents of sixteen of the great railroad companies of the country with an annotation of the much lowlier occupation once followed by each individual. The grouping shows surprising advances. Among the sixteen masters of today are five former clerks, three telegraph operators, two switchmen, a ticket agent, a brakeman, an office boy, a printer's devil, a rodman, and section hand.

The railroads include the Baltimore and Ohio, the New York Central, the Lehigh, the Burlington, the Great Northern, the St. Paul, the Reading, the Erie, the Northwestern, the Santa Fé, the Illinois Central, the Pennsylvania, the Rock Island, the Union Pacific, the New Haven, and the Lackawanna. A half dozen other famous railroad officials are mentioned who started at the bottom. The declaration is made that twenty-eight out of thirty-four of the presidents of the most prominent railroad systems in the United States started at the bottom of the ladder financially and in every other sense except capacity and worked their way to leadership.

A good many people think that the "poor boy made famous" idea belongs to the past. The illustrations from the domain of the railroads prove the falsity of that notion. As one man puts it, "It is simply a question of hard work, perseverance, and devotion to duty. The chances of a brakeman rising to the position of president of the company are as good today as they ever were."

The observer notes example after example in other walks of life also to warrant the conviction that the doors of opportunity in this country are as wide open today as they were for Franklin, or Jackson, or Grant, or Garfield, or Lincoln.

SOCIETY'S SELF PROTECTION.

Dr. Frank Billings, in his plea for an adequate appropriation for the state charitable institutions, called the attention of the appropriations committee of the house to an alarming fact.

This fact is the increase of defectives cared for by the state. It is 300 per cent in thirty years!

No wonder the startled legislator cried, "Can't this be stopped?" It is only because the people do not know the fact that the demand for protective measures does not sweep the state.

This evil can be checked and by reasonable and unobjectionable means. It is being dealt with in our neighboring state of Indiana. Oregon has just passed a law similar to Indiana's, and other states are beginning to interest themselves. Laws against the marriage of the feeble minded, epileptic, and insane exist in many states, but they are ineffectual. The prevention of the breeding of defectives is urgently necessary, and in Indiana a system more practical than colonization and not objectionable on the usual grounds has been devised and is in satisfactory operation.

Senator Womack has introduced a sterilization bill at the present session which has just been reported favorably by the judiciary committee. It has the approval of the Chicago Society of Social Hygiene, the South District Division of the Chicago Medical Society has just indorsed it, and the profession generally undoubtedly favors it. The bill should become law.

The sterilization of defectives and of habitual criminals is a necessary measure of social economy. But it is important also that the broader educational work organized by the Chicago Society of Social Hygiene should be given strong support. The press cannot give this general movement the aid its value deserves, owing to the difficulty of handling the subject in a journal of general circulation, but societies and individuals should take it up vigorously.

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB.

The University club is to be congratulated upon the completion of the splendid house which is to be its home. The architect, Mr. Roche, has given Chicago another handsome building, admirably adapted to its special purpose, and one that makes a notable addition to the imposing structures for which the Michigan avenue front is becoming famous.

There is reason for especial pride, too, in the work done by Mr. Frederick Clay Bartlett. He has seized his opportunity in a masterful way, achieving in the designs for windows and mural decorations a notably felicitous and effective expression of decorative art.

The debt owed to those club members who have borne the heavy burdens of planning will be recognized by the comparatively few people who are to enjoy the privileges of the institution. The achievements of architect and decorator will give pleasure to thousands who never enter the door of the building, but who appreciate every enrichment of the city by such embellishments as this beautiful clubhouse.

There is abundant reason for the enthusiasm of the members of the University club over their new quarters. The transfer from the familiar rooms on Dearborn to the more stately and commodious ones on Monroe is a notable event in the club's annals. It ought to be an epoch marker in the club's influence as well. For an association of 1,500 college graduates ought to have commanding power for good. The million dollar building will be a pleasant place of resort. It ought also to be a center from which many a movement should start for the betterment of conditions in Chicago.

Artificial Silk Much Used in America.

The following information on the subject of artificial silk is a translation of a communication received from a prominent French manufacturer in answer to a number of interrogatories submitted to him:

"There are three varieties of artificial silk—to wit: Chardonnet, or nitrocellulose; Givet, or cuproammoniacal; and Xanthate cellulose, or viscose. There are five great mills and a number of smaller ones in France in which these three methods are employed.

"There is no important manufacture of artificial silk in the United States, although that country consumes about 882,000 pounds per year. Machinery enters largely into the cost of the production of viscose, and as machinery is brought to a high state of perfection in the United States I cannot see why the high rate of wages should prevent the successful manufacture of viscose in that country.

"The viscose method embodies, as far as appearance, quality, touch, and cheapness are concerned, all the finest and best qualities. Instead of employing the expensive raw material, such as cotton at 20 cents per 2.2 pounds, ordinary wood pulp is used at 5 cents per 2.2 pounds. Instead of using expensive dissolvents, such as alcohol or ether, ordinary water is sufficient.

"This artificial silk is employed usually in the woof in goods manufactured for the orient, where brilliant coloring is admired; it is also used for lining for scarfs, skirts, mixed cottons, and for upholstery. It has even been employed in taffetas and in umbrella covers, which is a positive answer to the objection that it will not stand water. I calculate that the total annual American consumption purchased from France, Germany and Italy is about 882,000 pounds, but it may be half again as large, for this silk is employed in many kinds of textiles."

Irish Have Complaints Also.

Lord Percy is to move an amendment to the address declaring that the condition of large portions of Ireland is deplorable, and regretting that ministers are making no effectual efforts to maintain the authority of the law or to protect elementary rights. Quite a number of persons who have been displaying preternatural obtuseness are now discovering that things are really not quite satisfactory in Ireland.—London Times.

New Zealand Seems to Be Healthy.

New Zealand is rapidly increasing her population. During 1908 there was an increase of 31,000 Europeans, while the birth rate was nearly three times as much as the death rate, a fact which speaks volumes for the healthiness of the country.—British Empire Review.

SO many fantastic stories have been circulated with regard to the military degradation of the Hungarian captain of cavalry, Geza Mihalowitch, until recently attached to the household of Archduke Joseph of Austria, some of the tales going even so far as to associate the ex-officer's name in an altogether slanderous fashion with that of the charming young archduchess, who is a granddaughter of the emperor, that it may be just as well to explain what has really taken place. The scandal, for scandal it was, may be said to have been precipitated by a cigaret.

It seems that Archduke Joseph, who, like his father before him, is the principal and resident representative in Hungary of the reigning house of Hapsburg, happening to glance out of the window of the imperial palace at Pesth into the gardens below, where the archduchess was strolling about with her children, perceived that Capt. Mihalowitch de Orochovicza, who was one of his aids-de-camp, and more especially assigned to the supervision of the education of the archduke's two boys, one 14 and the other 8, was coolly smoking a cigaret in the presence of the archduchess. Rendered indignant by this lack of courtesy and discipline, he caused the captain to be summoned to his presence and took him to task, both as an officer for smoking on duty and as a gentleman for smoking in the presence of a lady without having received her permission to do so.

The captain, whose temper was so violent that people at court had often expressed surprise that the archduke should have selected a man so prone to brutality as mentor for his youngsters, answered his imperial master with such impudence and with such a complete disregard of the great superiority of the prince's military and imperial rank, that the archduke in turn lost his temper and called the officer a scoundrel. The captain responded in kind, whereupon the archduke struck him a violent blow in the face. Mihalowitch drew his sword. But before he could strike at the archduke he had been seized by other officers of the household, who had been attracted by the noise of the angry voices, and was placed under arrest.

The archduke, who is a sensible and universally popular man of about 40, realizing that he, too, had lost his temper, endeavored to minimize the affair and contented himself with dismissing the captain from his household and with causing him to be transferred to one of the frontier garrisons. There the captain seems to have still further envenomed the situation by insinuating that he was indebted for his exile from the court of Budapest to the marital jealousy of the archduke; a jealousy, which he intimated by looks and significant shrugs, was not wholly without foundation. The scandal of the captain's attitude eventually reached such proportions that the general in command of the district was forced to take notice thereof, and making a report thereon the affair was brought to the attention of the emperor.

The monarch at once took Archduke Joseph to task for his leniency with the captain and caused the latter to be brought before a court martial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman and of gross insubordination in drawing his saber on a general and upon a prince of the reigning family. The slanders which the captain had originated about Archduchess Augustine, by insinuation and inference rather than by direct statements, were not mentioned in the charges, but undoubtedly weighed with the officers forming the court martial, and they lost no time in sentencing him to dismissal from the army and to military degradation, that is to say, to having his shoulder straps, his gold lace, and his buttons ripped from his uniform in the presence of the entire garrison, his saber broken, being thereupon drummed out of the army.

As he has not been jailed and as residence in Austria and Hungary has become impossible, the man has left his native land, bound, it is said, for the western hemisphere. Should he, when he turns up here, attempt to exploit himself, financially or socially, as the victim of an imperial romance and of imperial jealousy, it would be well to bear in mind that the real cause of his disgrace has been conduct which would unfit him for the society of gentle folk and of decent people in any part of the world.

It would be interesting to learn the identity of the "Lady Broome," who has just been jailed at Santa Barbara, in California, owing to her refusal to comply with the orders of the court in connection with the accounting and administration of the estate of her late husband, who is said to have died in 1891 and to have been "Lord Broome." It is added that he left an estate in California valued at near $300,000 and several children, including two sons, named Thornhill and Montague, and a daughter of the name of Amy. Now there has never been any such person as "Lord" Broome, and the only authentic Lady Broome in existence makes her home in London at 42 Eaton terrace, and is the widow of the late Sir Frederick Napier Broome, who died in 1896 and who achieved distinction as a journalist and colonial governor.

Lady Broome is in receipt of a civil service pension from the crown of $500 a year, granted in recognition of her own literary merits and of the public services of her two husbands.

A daughter of W. J. Stewart, colonial secretary of Jamaica, she first married Col. Sir George Barker, a distinguished Crimean and Indian officer, and after his death, F. Napier Broome. Broome was the son of a Shropshire village rector, emigrated at 15 to New Zealand, where he learned squatting and sheep farming, and on his return to England as the husband of Lady Barker, who had retained the title and name of her first husband, he joined the service of the London Times. Assigned to report the wedding at St. Petersburg of the late czar's only sister to King Edward's sailor brother, Alfred, duke of Edinburgh and of Coburg, his stories gave so much satisfaction in royal circles in England that he was, through court influence, provided with a post in the colonial service. He was sent to Natal as secretary to Lord Wolseley when the latter went to South Africa as high commissioner; then was appointed to Mauritius, first as colonial secretary and afterwards as lieutenant governor, eventually receiving promotion to the governorship of western Australia.

Sir Frederick Napier Broome, for he had been knighted for his services as colonial governor, died leaving his wife and children badly off; and it was owing to this that the sympathies of the crown were invoked in her behalf and that she was granted by the prime minister of the day a civil service pension. Since then she has maintained herself largely by writing and was also for a time lady superintendent of the government school of cookery at South Kensington. Her works include numerous books for children; while her more serious literary achievements include "Station Life in New Zealand" and "A Year's Housekeeping in South Africa."

When last I heard of Lady Broome she was in England; and certainly Sir Frederick Napier Broome never left her an estate in California worth $300,000. Moreover, she is now quite an old woman, about 80, and I cannot quite picture her to myself as undergoing a term in jail at Santa Barbara. Who then is the soi-disant "Lady Broome" who has thus been inviting the unpleasant attention of the authorities of California? I should have imagined that Lady Broome, the authoress, was too well known a personality in literature on both sides of the Atlantic to admit of any other woman masquerading under her name and title.

Owing to the purchase of the island of Brehat, off the French coast, not far from St. Malo, by a German, the son of one of the leading bankers of Frankfort, the French government has submitted a law to the national legislature prohibiting the sale of islands off the French coast to foreigners or even to aliens who have secured French naturalization, without the express permission of the state. Quite a number of these islands off the French coast are now owned by foreigners; that of Herm, of the Channel group, being the property of Prince Blucher, while the island of Jethou, still nearer the French coast, belongs to Sir Henry Austin Lee of the British embassy at Paris, who has an American wife.

Chance for the Speculators.

We see that the market price of possum has advanced from 3 cents to $10. That would seem to make an opening for the marketing of wharf rats and wood rats and rice-field rats at good figures under the name of "baby possums."—Savannah News.

Sanitation and Smoking Cars.

Chicago, April 2.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—I am inclined to question the wisdom of dispensing with the "smoker" on the traction trains—especially the elevated—even for sanitary reasons. If hotels, steamers, railroads, etc., can afford to furnish cuspidors our street car lines can do likewise.

I have seen no conclusive argument to prove that tobacco smoke in the car is injurious to health. Furthermore, neither men nor women are compelled to occupy the smoker. But during the rush hours enough men occupy that car to fill it. Many smoke and some do not. The smoker is the most congenial and suitable car for many of a certain class of laboring men. Do not deprive them of this place of rest and creature comfort on their way between the shop, street cleaning, handling brick and other material, and the home. Regulate, but do not try to prohibit.

The spitting complained of upon the front platform of "pay-as-you-enter" cars can be regulated—to a degree, at least—by placing a railing, as at the rear entrance, separating the space between the two doors—the smoker passing out upon the platform through the left hand door, and all others, when leaving the car, through the right hand door.

Wants Export Duty on Lumber.

Plymouth, Ind., April 3.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The government protects a fish or game bird which grows to maturity in three years. How about a sapling six inches or less in diameter which is twenty years or more in growing? Which is more necessary to our coming generations? Or is it understood that posterity is not to be considered?

Timber is fast disappearing with $2 protection. How long would this natural resource last with $20 protection? Under which condition would our large timber man feel the happiest and most prosperous? Under what condition is a natural resource like lumber exploited the quickest at the largest profit obtainable?

Remember, our forests are owned by men in blocks up to 500,000 acres and they cut everything slick and clean. Usually this cutting is done by contract and the instructions are to cut everything that is marketable, or the contract is not filled.

If our children's children are not to be considered, then make the tariff on lumber $20 per 1,000, but if you have future generations at heart then put an export duty on lumber, the same as Canada now does.

Obedience to the Liquor Laws.

Toledo, Ia., April 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I read in THE TRIBUNE recently a communication from F. M. Michaelree, an ex-saloonkeeper of Effingham, Ill., my former home. He laments, as all good citizens do, that the saloon business "is getting worse instead of better," and urges the enactment of a license law to "modify" the business; but he concludes with the statement that if "modified according to population," by which he means if the number of saloons were restricted according to population, "we would not be compelled to violate the law."

No good citizen will violate any law knowingly. It is this theory that "saloonkeepers are compelled to violate the law" which makes the saloon business keep "getting worse instead of better." Such a sentiment is anarchistic.

Let us obey all law, enforce all law, and thereby secure the repeal of such as prove unjust. And let no man get the idea that society owes him a living unless he returns an equivalent to society. All unproductive members of society should go to work instead of whining for class legislation.

Opposes Interstate Commerce Law.

Chicago, April 2.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—In a recent letter of "Raymond" there was a reference to the congressmen who voted for the interstate commerce act "that they might be permitted in peace to court the political support of railroads running through their districts."

Of all the humbug legislation that the people of the United States ever saddled upon themselves the interstate commerce law is the worst. The beautiful phrase that "one man shall not ship cheaper than another" originated with the railroads and was designed only for the increase of revenue.

The interstate commerce law has deprived the people of all the competition in railroad rates they ever possessed and has wrung from the masses millions of dollars by adding from 10 to 25 per cent to the cost of shipping. We would ask what have the railroad companies ever paid to this government that such drastic measures are enforced to tie the people's hands while they are being robbed. This nefarious law should be repealed.

Likes Editorial on Germany.

Highland Park, Ill., April 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Allow me to congratulate you on the editorial a few days ago, entitled, "No Fears of Germany." It hits the nail squarely on the head and is the best article on this subject I have seen for a long time. An immense amount of nonsense has been published in the newspapers of this country about the terrible plans of "The Kaiser" with regard to South America or some other country, nearly all of it inspired from English sources, and it does a person good to read an editorial based upon common sense, like the one published in THE TRIBUNE on March 31.

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY"
—Shakspeare.

Literature is represented in the birthday panorama today by Algernon Charles Swinburne, London poet, who is 72 years old. He is the son of an English admiral, which may account for the fact his favorite recreation has been swimming. He attended Oxford university, but not long enough to win a degree.

Henry J. Cox, who arranges the daily menu of Chicago weather, does not mention the fact in his report, but he is 46 years old today. He was born in Massachusetts, and Harvard is his alma mater.

Charles W. French, vice principal of the Chicago Normal school, who has written a life of Lincoln, is 51. He is a graduate of Dartmouth, and lives at 6442 Drexel boulevard.

Sherwood D. Andrus, insurance man, who used to be a member of the New York national guard, is 54. His home is at 5344 Drexel boulevard.

Charles W. Baker, secretary of the Chicago live stock exchange, with which he has been connected for twenty-five years, is 58. He lives at 7157 Princeton avenue.

August N. Christenson, wholesale clothier, who was born in Sweden and was a book agent in Denver before he came to Chicago, is 45.

William Clancy, president of the Lumbermen's Credit association, native of Canada and resident at 4530 Woodlawn avenue, is 50.

Marquis Eaton of 5623 Washington avenue, attorney, who was once associate reporter of the Michigan Supreme court, is 34. He is a Wolverine by birth and education.

William Wallace Hill, banker, born in Louisville, dry goods clerk and railroad man in his earlier days, is 43.

Samuel J. Howe of 4133 Berkeley avenue, lawyer now and formerly superintendent of schools in Lee county, Ill., is 51.

Charles F. McLean of 3143 Calumet avenue, attorney, is 36. He is descended through his mother from the former ducal house of Perth, Scotland. He obtained his law degree from Northwestern university.

Edwin S. Wheeler, varnish manufacturer, was born in Ogle county, Ill., on the same day Samuel J. Howe was born there, hence he is 51. He is the possessor of a law sheepskin conferred by Union College of Law and is a veteran of the First regiment, I. N. G.

James W. Smith, veteran freight and ticket agent of the Chicago and Northwestern at Fulton, Ill., whose service with the road extends over a period of forty-three years, is 68 years old today. He is one of THE TRIBUNE'S regular readers.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

The Red Mill Returns.

"The Red Mill" returned to the Grand opera house last evening after an absence of more than a year and was welcomed by an audience which filled every place in the theater and received everybody and everything in the performance with joy. The pleasure was well in place, for the Blossom-Herbert musical play is an entertainment exceptionally bright, exceptionally clean, and exceptionally amusing. The fun is all wholesome and harmless, and yet is never dull; the stage pictures are a constant delight to the eye, and the singing and the dancing are of the best.

The company, despite the three years that the play has been before the public, has been kept up to the first standard, the costumes are neat and clean, the two stage settings, which ever have been among the best of their kind, are in good condition, and the stage management is such that there is no exhibit of that brazenness and impudence of chorus and principals which so frequently mars a performance when all concerned in its giving have grown familiar with their work and their audiences. Everything last evening was as neat and shipshape as though it was the first week of the production.

The cast remains in the main unchanged since the play was seen here before. Miss Bruar has been replaced by Florence Quinn as Gretchen and does the dainty rôle attractively. She sings agreeably, is petite and pretty, and save for a little affectation in the delivery of dialogue is wholly acceptable. The love song from the mill in the first act she did well and in the duet with Doris sang her part commendably. Carl Gantvoort now is the Capt. Doris in place of Stanley Hawkins and does what little is demanded of him in manly, pleasing fashion. Maxine Vernade is the excited French countess and chatters her French glibly.

The remainder of the cast is the same as before. Neal McCay repeats his finely artistic character portrayal of the governor of Zeeland, and scores as immediately with it as he did before. It is a faultless bit of artistic work, and the sincerity and fineness of the actor is shown in his having kept the portrayal just as absolutely clear cut and perfect in detail as it was when first revealed. Alene Crater is still the Bertha and does it excellently; Ethel Johnson as Tina sings and dances as captivatingly as before; Claude Cooper does Pennefeathe r satisfactorily, Charles Dox as Franz, and David Don as Willem still are capital, and Edward Begley plays the burgomaster with the same physical ponderosity and imperturbable good nature that he always has brought to the part.

As for Montgomery and Stone, they are as tireless, as painstaking, and as hearty in their work as they always have been. They are the neatest and deftest of their kind, and they did nothing last night that was not received with acclaim. They have changed their portrayals in no way—these were as good as could be before and they have in no wise lessened that excellence. The chorus is handsome and vocally capable, and the stage work moves with a precision that is delightful. "The Red Mill" is no problem play or brain racker, but it is a bright, clean entertainment, and of such we have need.

Meyn-Fryer Recital.

The recital in the afternoon in Music hall brought before the local public two musicians unfamiliar here. Heinrich Meyn, the New York baritone, supplied what was supposed to be the major part of the program, but Nathan Fryer, a young pianist originally of Columbus, O., but whose student career has taken him to New York and to Vienna, gave two groups of solos which occupied fully as much if not more time in presentment than did Mr. Meyn's songs. The program was unduly long and ineffectively arranged. The audience was of moderate proportions but of friendly disposition.

Mr. Meyn proved a baritone whose voice is not possessed of any particular charm—a voice which impresses as the product of study rather than of natural endowment. The voice has been made a serviceable organ and taste and intelligence in considerable measure in the using of it render what it accomplishes fairly acceptable and agreeable. The tone production is not faultless, vocal impurity being one of the most marked defects, but the singer evidently has studied hard and therefore merits commendation for what he has achieved. He sang groups of German, French, and English songs and pleased his audience by interpretations which, while not strikingly individual or emotional, were at no time illogical or inartistic.

Mr. Fryer is a young man who has equipped himself with good technical abilities, who clearly has natural feeling and enthusiasm for the musical messages he would convey, but who seems not yet to have found himself and his own manner. He played a long list of selections well and agreeably, but there was in none of his work anything sufficiently individual or positive to compel more than mere recognition and quiet approval of what he had accomplished through diligence and careful guidance. He has studied well, now let him put himself into his performances.

The Girls from Berlin.

Joy reigns at the Great Northern this week and the occasion is the appearance of Corinne in a noisy but amusing musical play called "The Girls from Berlin." The piece was known originally as "Lola from Berlin" and was written by John J. McNally with a view to the exploitation of the particular talents of Lulu Glaser. For a few weeks, two seasons ago, Miss Glaser gurgled and chuckled as Lola, and then threw aside the part and the play and cast in her fortunes with Joe Weber. Since then Corinne has been presenting Lola in "the provinces." A few changes wrought in the book have caused a change in the name, and now instead of one flaxen haired fraulein, we have a whole bevy of Gretchens and "The Girls from Berlin."

A farce of the slap bang, clamorous variety supplies the plot and the story is kept to the fore with a fair degree of consistency. Lola comes to New York from Berlin in response to an advertisement and makes the discovery that she is heiress to an estate of several millions. She arrives at the home of the lawyer who has charge of her late uncle's property on a day when a new servant is looked for. The usual complications ensue and she is subjected to various indignities before her real position is made clear. Later she is worried by numerous suitors, and also with plans for the disposal of her wealth, but all such difficulties are overcome in the end.

The rôle of Lola is one well suited to the Glaser methods and also to those of Corinne, its present exponent. The latter romps through the scenes in a joyous, happy fashion and though at times her funmaking is keyed rather boisterously, at other moments she strikes a note of plaintive appeal to which the audience is instantly responsive. The company is a numerous one and includes Mark Sullivan, who does a character part with good effect; Neil McKinley, who is a victim of the Cohan twang; Hazel Carlton, who shows an aptitude for travesty, and a group of attractive choristers who dance and assist Corinne in several of the musical numbers.

The Shepherd King.

Wright Lorimer in his own play, "The Shepard King," has been brought in to fill the week at the Auditorium and began his engagement in the afternoon. Both the actor and his play were made familiar to Chicago audiences through an engagement at McVicker's theater three seasons ago. It will be remembered as a dramatic narration of the story of the life of King David, beginning with the time when as a shepherd boy he tended his father's flocks and ending with his coronation after the tragedy at Gibeah. The piece abounds in stirring incidents and is set forth in a succession of pictorially effective scenes.

Mr. Lorimer's David is a picturesque figure, blithe and boyish when first introduced and clothed with becoming dignity in the later scenes. Several members of the original company are still in the cast, among them being Miss Nollete Reed, the Princess Merab; and Carl Eckstrom, the stalwart Prince Jonathan. Miss Frederica Going has succeeded Miss Buckley as Princess Michal and preserves the qualities of winsomeness and girlish charm.

Lambs Club to Tour Country.

New York, April 4.—A tour embracing Chicago, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, New Haven, Brooklyn, and New York, is to be made by the Lambs Club of this city during the week of May 24.

At every stopping place the club will give one performance of its "All Star Gambol," written and composed by George V. Hobart, Augustus Thomas, Victor Herbert, Reginald De Koven, George Cohan, A. Baldwin Sloane, and a dozen other playwrights and composers holding membership in the Lambs, and in which practically every comic actor in America will take part.

The club will be in Chicago May 29. The tour is expected to net $100,000, which is to be expended in improvements on the new club house.

Notable Sheridan Revival in London.

LONDON, April 4.—The most remarkable theatrical revival London has witnessed for years will be the production by Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's theater, April 7, of "The School for Scandal."

Some of the ablest veterans of the English stage, some brilliant young leading men, and three actresses, each of whom has been a leading woman, are included in the company. The cast follows:

Sir Peter Teazle	Mr. Tree
Sir Oliver Surface	Henry Neville
Sir Harry Bumper	Robert Cunningham
Sir Benjamin Backbite	Henry V. Esmond
Joseph Surface	Basil Gill
Charles Surface	Robert Lorraine
Careless	Charles Quartermaine
Snake	James Hearne
Crabtree	Edward Terry
Rowley	Hermann Vezin
Moses	Lionel Brough
Trip	Godfrey Tearle
Lady Teazle	Miss Marie Lohr
Mrs. Candour	Miss Suzanne Sheldon
Maria	Miss Dagmar Wiehe
Lady Sneerwell	Miss Ellis Jeffreys

The combined ages of four of the veterans amount to 290 years. Of them, Hermann Vezin is the oldest. He recently celebrated his eightieth birthday. Lionel Brough is 74, and another of the veterans, Edward Terry, is a member of the famous family of which Miss Ellen Terry is best known in America.

Marie Lohr is the youngest leading woman on the English stage, being under 19 years of age. Suzanne Sheldon is an American whose brother was a famous Yale athlete and whose sister is the wife of Anthony Hope.

The five acts of Sheridan's original version have been compressed into four, and the time of the play has been put forward a few years to enable it to display the more picturesque costumes of a later period.

POPULAR RIGHTS MENACED BY POLITICAL ACTIVITIES.

Civil Service Reformers See Danger in Pernicious Work of Federal Employes—League Exonerates Roosevelt.

New York, April 4.—The report of the special committee appointed by the National Civil Service Reform league to investigate the matter of political activity on the part of federal office holders, made public today, sustains to a great extent the charges made.

A notable exception is reported in the allegations made during the last campaign to the effect that Mr. Roosevelt coerced certain federal office holders into the support of Mr. Taft for the Republican nomination. With his permission the lists of the president's appointments for a considerable period prior to the national convention were scanned by the committee, which finds that evidence to sustain the charges made is wholly lacking.

On the broad question of the pernicious activity in politics of federal office holders, however, the committee finds that a most undesirable situation exists. Of the more than 300,000 federal office holders one-third are not amenable to civil service classification.

These officers, the report says, often exercise a powerful influence on politics and constitute, in the opinion of the committee, a menace to free institutions. The remedy is to be found, the committee believes, in an extension of the classified competitive service.

"AUTO CHASERS" ARREST 65.

New York, April 4.—The recent wholesale maiming and killing of pedestrians by reckless chauffeurs running their cars at excess speed through the city streets culminated today in the organization of a special squad of "auto chasers" by Police Commissioner Bingham. As the result of their first day's efforts the "auto chasers," all mounted on fast motor cycles, rounded up and arrested sixty-five chauffeurs.

ACTRESS IS GROWING WEAKER.

Mme. Modjeska May Pass Away at Any Moment or May Live a Week, Says Doctor.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 4.—Except that she is becoming gradually weaker there is no change in the condition of Mme. Helena Modjeska. Dr. Boyd said she might pass away at any moment or live for a week. Artificial means are being employed to sustain life.

OLD FORD THEATER ACTOR DIES IN COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Earl Stirling, Who Collapsed in College Theater on Hearing of Wife's Death, Succumbs to the Shock.

Earl Stirling, who was a member of the company that played at Ford's theater the night Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, died yesterday at the County hospital.

A few months ago he carried a "character" rôle at the College theater on the night that his wife was dying in a hospital. After the performance, when he learned that she had died while he was amusing the audience, he collapsed and never fully recovered from the shock.

The resultant weakness was known to have had a bearing on his illness, but the company of the College theater was stirred by reports that the final acute sickness was due to grease paint poisoning contracted while he was playing "Hop Wing" in "The Three of Us." This was denied by staff physicians of the hospital, who said the immediate cause of death was erysipelas.

Mr. Stirling had been a member of Chicago Stock companies for the last eleven years, the last two of which he was a member of the College theater company. He had been stage manager for Augustin Daly and for Daniel Frohman's old Lyceum theater in New York. He also was leading juvenile with William J. Florence and Edwin Booth.

NOTED HUNGARIAN ACTOR DIES.

Adolf Ritter Von Sonnenthal, Who Appeared in Chicago, a Victim of Apoplexy in Prague.

PRAGUE, April 4.—Adolf Ritter von Sonnenthal, the noted actor, died this evening from apoplexy.

Herr von Sonnenthal was born at Pesth, Hungary, Dec. 21, 1834. He made his first appearance at Temesvar in 1852, later playing long engagements at Vienna, Paris, and Berlin.

In 1884, 1889, and 1902 he visited the United States, appearing in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Louis.

NOTES PURELY PERSONAL.

DR. D. K. PEARSONS, the Chicago philanthropist who is in a Pasadena hospital suffering with dilation of the heart, showed some improvement last night. His condition has been alarming for two weeks.

ETHAN ALLAN HITCHCOCK, former secretary of the interior, is critically ill at Washington from kidney and heart trouble. Serious fears for his recovery are entertained.

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD

CHICAGO OPINION OF CAIRO.

Mrs. H. H. Robertson Writes She Feels Like Old Settler.

A sale of Italian laces will be held at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Meeker, 1815 Prairie avenue, April 15 and April 16, under the patronage of Guido Sabetta, Italian consul, and Mrs. Philip D. Armour, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Watson F. Blair, Mrs. H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. J. J. Glessner, Mrs. Frederick D. Grant, Mrs. John Garibaldi, Mrs. W. W. Kimball, Mrs. Antonio Lagorio, Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Robert G. McGann, Mrs. Meeker, Mrs. Potter Palmer Jr. and Mrs. Camillo Volini. This week 2,000 announcements will be sent from New York to Chicago, the cards virtually serving as an invitation, and only those who receive the little pasteboards are expected to attend, making it an invitational affair.

The laces are the work of the Italian girls of the tenement districts of New York, the development of their inborn lace making skill coming through the efforts of the Society of Italian Industries. In Italy the work has the interest of Queen Margherita and the work has been brought to New York by Miss Carolina Amari, who brought over her own collection of rare laces, from which the girls obtain patterns.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Holmes, with their daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Holmes Robertson, who are on a trip around the world, have been in Cairo. Mrs. Robertson has sent back an interesting opinion of Cairo to friends in the city. She writes: "There is so much movement and color about Cairo's better streets that one is fairly bewildered. I am surprised to see how much like 'an old settler' I feel. Something about this air and climate makes one feel that she has been here always. It is really magical."

Mrs. D. Macaleer, formerly of Chicago, but now of Denver, announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to Dr. W. A. Krebs of 4548 Lake avenue.

Mrs. Arthur L. Rockhold, 1458 Wrightwood avenue, will give a young people's luncheon for twelve guests on Saturday, April 10.

Mrs. James Philip Hanley and her young daughter of Wheeling, W. Va., are visiting Mrs. Hanley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Barry, 6600 Yale avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Blum have returned from a three weeks' visit to Palm Beach and are at home at 3730 Drexel boulevard.

Mrs. James Hawxhurst and daughter, Miss Gertrude Hawxhurst, of Evanston, sailed from New York on April 1 for Naples. They will remain abroad all summer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. O'Connell of Reno, Nev., are visiting Mr. O'Connel's mother, Mrs. Susan O'Connell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mayer, 569 East Forty-fifth place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to Lee Deligsohn. At home Sunday, April 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Eisendrath of 623 Sedgwick street announce the engagement of their daughter, Rae, to Morris Nussbaum of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Auerbach announce the engagement of their daughter, Hannah, to Michael Rothenberg. At home Sunday, April 18, at 4940 Champlain avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Swartchild, 5015 Grand boulevard, will sail on April 20 for an extensive tour through Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shepard and John H. McCarthy of Boston, who have been spending the season at Ormond, Fla., are at St. Augustine for the Ponce de Leon celebration this week, en route to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Bingham, formerly of the Windermere hotel, have returned to Chicago and are at the Chicago Beach hotel. Mrs. Bingham has recovered from her severe illness.

Mrs. Henry Leyser, 5426 Greenwood avenue, entertained at luncheon and bridge Thursday. Covers were laid for forty-five. The decorations were in tulips throughout.

Lecturer Declares Life Becomes Tragedy When Two Persons Unsuited to Each Other Are Married.

Dr. N. I. Rubinkam, in a lecture in Music hall before the Central Unitarian society yesterday, on Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," spoke of Wagner's domestic troubles.

"Affinity is a great word which has been abused and dragged into the dust by our modern literature," the lecturer said. "Wagner was one of the unfortunates who did not strike his affinity in the first marriage. Minna Planer was good enough for an ordinary man, but she could not supply the demand of this great world genius. He cried out imperiously for a feminine response to his artistic aspirations and these could be supplied only by such high spirits as Mme. Wesendonk and Mme. Cosima von Bulow.

"When a man or woman finds an affinity the first time then alone is it a genuine, satisfying marriage. When this does not happen, life is a tragedy, long, slow, and dull, an attempt at adjustment and getting along with each other, or else it is the poignant tragedy of a "Tristan und Isolde," finding its refuge in the denial of the will to live and gladly flying from the conventions of our human world into the Nirvana of unconsciousness."

Dr. Rubinkam on Easter Sunday completes his Wagner cycle, lecturing in the morning on "The Masterpieces of Nuremberg" and in the evening on "Parsifal."

"THE COWAN IDEA"
No. 1
"The Cowan Idea" in General

"The Cowan Idea" in Cabinet Making—in House Furnishing and House Decoration—in Store Keeping—in Advertising—in every activity of the business—aims to be the embodiment of intelligent, dignified, genuine and permanent service to the public.

We believe that real mercantile success is always a matter of mutuality between merchant and public. Short-lived commercial successes are possible by other means, but great institutions arise and endure only through public usefulness.

The vitality of the idea is such that, in our own case, a great manufacturing, importing and retail business has been built upon it in a few years.

And yet we believe that only a start has been made. We believe that our sphere of utility—and therefore our own success—will be limited only by our ability to present the Cowan Idea in the right way to the right public.

Our advertising aims to present it in that way—to that public. We ask you to read our advertisements—so long as we succeed in making them interesting—and to support our efforts, if you believe in them.

Respectfully,

STAGE A TEACHER OF PUBLIC MORALS

That Is the Opinion Expressed by Miss Jane Addams of Hull House.

TALKS AT SINAI TEMPLE.

Results That Can Be Attained by Religious Education Are Pointed Out.

We are at the beginning of a period when the stage is becoming the most successful teacher of public morals, according to Jane Addams, who occupied the pulpit of Rabbi Hirsch yesterday morning at Sinai temple. The guiding hand is a bit wabbly at times, in the opinion of Miss Addams, but nevertheless it is dealing with themes in which the public is most interested, a fact, she said, which has come about through the "exigencies of dramatic art."

"The playwrights," said Miss Addams, who spoke on "The Reaction of Moral Instruction on Social Reform," "are compelled to reduce their creeds to action and translate their beliefs into interesting conservation. Although many young people and older ones as well go to the theaters only to see represented and to hear discussed the themes which seem to them so tragically important, there is no doubt that what they hear there, flimsy and poor as it often is, easily becomes their actual moral guide.

Turn to Stage Heroes.

"In moments of a crisis they turn to the sayings of the hero who found himself in a similar plight. The sayings may be profound but they are at least applicable to conduct. There are a dozen plays on the stage at the present moment whose titles might be easily translated into proper headings for sociological lectures or sermons. I do not include the plays of Ibsen, Shaw, and Hauptmann, which deal so directly with moral issues that the moralists themselves wince under their teachings and declare them brutal.

"Fortunately for thousands of young people whom the church has not successfully cared for, other forces, if not more serious than the stage at least more disinterested, are reducing creeds to action and are making a demand upon both their ardor and their desire for altruistic action. They are caught in all sorts of movements for social betterment. Why do not moralists and educators lead these movements? Do they underestimate their high calling or do they fail to understand the needs of the moment?

Early Stage of Experiment.

"Educators, moralists, clergymen, publicists, all of us forget how early we are in the experiment of founding a first civilization in this trying climate of America, and that we are making the experiment in the most materialistic period of all history. Perhaps religious education can do little with the climate, but it can certainly assert the reality of spiritual forces, of the ideas which civilization embodies, against that rank materialism which threatens to ingulf us all."

UNTRUE REPORTS BY WOMAN LEAD TO STRANGE "PERSONAL"

Reporters' Vision of Interesting News "Story" Upset by the Refusal of F. H. Thiese to Talk.

PERSONAL—THANKS TO ALL INVESTIGATING character, reliability; woman once befriended, now unrecognized, maliciously endeavoring injure family with friends. F. H. THIESE.

This "ad" in the "personal" column of THE TRIBUNE yesterday caused reporters to hasten to the residence of Mr. Thiese at 344 Belden avenue.

The peculiar wording of the "ad" conjured up visions of an interesting news "story," but the reporters were doomed to disappointment.

For Mr. Thiese was uncommunicative. He refused to divulge the name of the woman in the case. All that could be gained from him was a statement to the effect that some unnamed woman who once had been a friend had quarreled with his family and that she had circulated untrue reports about her former friends with the idea of injuring them. That she did not succeed in her endeavors is attested by the "ad," which expresses thanks to the persons who have remained loyal to the Thiese family.

BECOMES BUG HOUSE TENANT.

Assistant State Entomologist Davis Begins Study of Insect Life in Oak Park for Practical Purpose.

Oak Park's bug house is occupied. Prof. J. J. Davis, assistant to the state entomologist, has taken possession of the air tight, bug proof structure erected for scientific purposes on the high school ground, and will begin work this morning.

He will study the life history of insects that injure vegetation in that district.

After the professor has learned the habits, likes, and dislikes of these creatures the state department of entomology will try to discover some way to wipe out the pests.

CHILD TRAMPLED TO DEATH.

Year Old Morris Dray, at Play in Street, Is Thrown Under Wagon and Instantly Killed.

One year old Morris Dray was killed yesterday afternoon when trampled by a horse and run over by a wagon of the American Express company at Jefferson and West Twelfth streets. The horse was being driven by John Taylor, 944 West Jackson boulevard. The body was crushed by one of the horse's hoofs and one of the wheels which passed over it, causing instant death. Police of the Maxwell street station took the body to the parents' home at 184 West Twelfth street.

Killed by Falling from a Tree.

While trimming a tree at 3720 Grand boulevard last Saturday, Henry Raday fell twenty-five feet to the ground and was injured so seriously that he died a few hours later. He was 57 years old and lived at 501 West Thirty-first street.

Among the New Books

PROFESSOR MACDONALD'S "RELIGIOUS ATTITUDE AND LIFE IN ISLAM."

Part Played by the Unseen in Oriental Belief. Haskell Lectures Published.

"THE RELIGIOUS ATTITUDE AND LIFE IN ISLAM," by Duncan B. Macdonald (the University of Chicago Press), contains the Haskell lectures delivered by the author at the Chicago university. The title hardly indicates exactly what these scholarly and specially interesting lectures aimed to do. It is not the aim to outline the systematic theology of Islam; that was done by the author in a previous book. It might at first be thought to be, to use the author's expression, an oriental replica of Prof. William James' "Varieties of Religious Experience," it has, as he suggests, more points of likeness to "The Human Personality" of the late F. W. H. Meyers, there is so much of the uncanny and "occult" mixed in with the experiences both of Mohammed and his followers. And this is a fact which gives a peculiar interest to the ideas and phases of experience brought out so well in these lectures.

There is no want of faith in the unseen on the part of Islam. Its system of beliefs takes kindly to all that. It has the common and radical Semitic aptitude for belief in the invisible. But how do Moslems really think and feel in repect to the unseen world? It is certain that they have their own way of thinking about it. The oriental has an astonishing keenness in seeing and grasping a single point, and can take up and analyze one point after another remarkably well; but he has no sense of their necessary relation to each other. Though one form of thought contradict another, it does not disturb his sense of relationship. He has a curious inability to see life steadily and see it whole. The idea of an underlying law has little to do with his conception either of Allah or of the world.

Mohammed is regarded as a "devout soul if ever there was one and a mystic in spite of his creed." But his brain, oriental to the core, no contradictoriness could disturb. This is made impressively apparent as the author goes on to explain and illustrate the Moslem conception of prophecy and soothsaying; intercourse with the unseen in sleep; wizards and saints in Moslem, magic and the evil eye; the order of beings, akin to men, known as the Jinn; followed by many particularly interesting facts and ideas concerning the ascetic-ecstatic life of Islam; and what is thought as to the mystery of man's body and mind. It is noted that in the ecstatic religious life only does the difference between the man and the woman drop away.

Fatima, who had passed through all the visions and gained the pure mystic union with God, declares, "When my senses had returned to me, my heart, under the impression of this distinguished sign of the divine favor, blossomed like a bed of roses, and I prostrated myself, full of boundless gratitude, before the Absolute Being. Filled with unutterable happiness, I did not know what to do to express all the joy of my heart. What an unheard of felicity it has been to me, a feeble and unworthy woman, when it seemed that my life must pass uselessly, to be permitted to give myself to the search for him, giving me thus to drink of the ocean of truth and the fountain of mystical knowledge. I nourish the hope that God will permit me to walk with a firm step and unshakable courage on this path and that my soul will always taste the supreme happiness of being able to think of him." Such conceptions of the mystical, saintly life are everywhere, in their way, stimulants of Moslem piety, as seen in the darwish fraternities and the whole system of pilgrimages.

The conclusion of the whole matter, according to the author, appears to be that while the system of Islam provides logically no place for the mystical apprehension of the unseen, the devout heart, under its own resistless impulse, heedless of the logic of the system, will lay hold of it.

Prof. Macdonald, while we think he might have presented some of his observations and conclusions with somewhat greater distinctness, has rendered a highly important service in making intelligible to English readers what he has termed "the religious attitude and life of Islam," showing at once how they resemble and how they differ from kindred experiences under Christian teaching. That there are among the Moslem peoples at the present time stirrings of a new life, born of many causes, he declares, there can be no question. The recent marvelous and bloodless revolution in Turkey is convincing evidence of that.

"THE ONE VOLUME BIBLE COMMENTARY," edited by J. R. Dunnelow (The Macmillan company). The book, though large, is well and firmly put together, the paper is excellent, and the type is specially agreeable to the eye. Space is saved for the various introductions and comments by the omission of the biblical text. Twenty-nine British and ten American scholars have coöperated in the production of the work. This commentary proper is preceded by 150 pages of general articles on such subjects as the bible as a whole, introduction to the Pentateuch, the creation story and science, Genesis and the Babylonian inscriptions, the laws of Hammurabi, Hebrew prophecy, the Messianic hope, the life of Christ, the synoptic problem, life and work of Paul, miracles, the resurrection, the atonement, inspiration, Palestine, bible antiquities, etc.

While the views generally expressed are positive enough, there is nothing of the controversial about them, or in any way offensive to those who may differ from them. There is a happy avoidance on the part of the writers of the spirit and manners of either what may be termed the "old fogy" or the "new fogy." Introductions are supplied to the various books, followed by notes which aim to help explain the principal difficulties, textual, moral, or doctrinal. And this is done as bearing in mind that the bible is an old book, dealing with the experiences of peoples who lived many ages ago, while yet it is, as the world's supreme "human document," the most intensively modern of all books. In the article on the "Study of the Bible," the writer, speaking of the mingling of the divine and the human, and the progressiveness of the revelation corresponding to the gradual education of humanity, along with the modern clearer recognition of this fact, says there is no occasion for being disturbed over the changed point of view. The gains are sure to prove to be greater than the circumstantial losses. The book of Genesis may not be entirely "historical"; it may have in it some elements of myth and legend, and fiction, and may yet, in its unique literary mode of expression, be in a larger way all the more true and illuminative as regards the real beginnings of human history.

The introduction to Job is particularly good; the poem which Victor Hugo speaks of as "the greatest masterpiece of the human mind." The notes also are specially well suited to the purpose, alike in what is said and what is not said. The commentator evidently knows when he has said enough, and is happy in the avoidance of the merely trite and hackneyed commonplaces.

It is doubtful if any single volume exists in English which puts before the ordinary reader so great an amount of carefully sifted information, pertinent suggestion, and withal so sanely adapted to the practical uses of such a book—the book which Lincoln declared to be "God's best gift to humanity." The editor of a commentary like this, the product of so many different scholars, must have had some of the prime qualities of good generalship.

TRANSLATION OF MICHAELIS' "A CENTURY OF ARCHÆOLOGICAL DISCOVERIES."

A Record of the Chief Work of Noted Excavators Up to the Present Time.

BETTINA KAHNWEILER, by her translation of Prof. A. Michaelis' book, which is published in English under the title "A CENTURY OF ARCHÆOLOGICAL DISCOVERIES" (Dutton, New York), has given American and English readers access to a remarkably entertaining resume of the results of archæological research, written by a man who for forty years has held a distinguished place in that particular field.

The scope of the book is expressed in the author's preface, as follows:

"Archæology of the spade and its results form the subject of this volume. By the term archæology is meant the archæology of art, the products of civilization in so far as they express no artistic character will only be mentioned incidentally. Thus epigraphy has been excluded, nor are coins and gems included, for they hardly can be regarded as discoveries. Another limitation is due to the fact that my own studies have been confined to classic art, and that my knowledge of the art of other lands has, for the most part, only come to me at second hand.

"My main object has been to give an account of the rise, the diffusion, and the deepening of our knowledge of Greek art. No comprehensive treatment of this interesting subject having yet appeared, I have felt impelled to fill this gap. Although I have not taken part in any excavations, yet for the last fifty years I have followed the work of others with close interest and have, moreover, frequently had opportunities of acquiring direct knowledge; this, it seems to me, is a qualification for the task."

Beginning with a brief resume of the knowledge of ancient art up to the close of the seventeenth century, a picturesque review is given of subsequent discoveries up to and including those made in 1908 by the German school at Pergamos, the French school at Delos, the British school at Sparta, and the American school at Corinth, at Mokloe in Crete, and at Ephesus. Particular attention is given to the sepulchres of Etruria and ancient painting, discoveries in Egypt, Assyria, and Lycia.

MISS EDITH RICKERT, in translating the early English romances, has essayed a task for an audience fit but few. And to her praise be it said that she seems eminently fitted to her task. Her work is as gratifying as is Mr. Lang's translation of "Aucassin and Nicolette." If one wants to realize just how lovely Mr. Lang's work is they have but to compare it with the Rev. Edward Everett Hale's translation of the same antique story, lacking as it is in every graceful element of phrase, song, and vocabulary.

Miss Rickert has presented, in two volumes, fourteen of these delightful old stories under the title, "EARLY ENGLISH ROMANCES IN VERSE; DONE INTO MODERN ENGLISH BY EDITH RICKERT" (Duffield & Co.) with the addition, in volume one, of "ROMANCES OF LOVE," and in volume two, of "ROMANCES OF FRIENDSHIP." These continue "The New Medieval Library," of which six volumes have appeared previously, one of which was done by Miss Rickert. The binding is in imitation old leather with heavy tooling and corrugated brass and leather clasps, in simulation of age. The title page and its stamped replica on the cover is an adaptation from an old Harley MS. The illustrations are all quaintly Gothic.

Miss Rickert's introduction is scholarly and ought to please the men with whom she worked for a time at the University of Chicago. The stories, real stories of human interest, ought to please any one who likes old and naive customs, manners, action, and dress. The lads of those years were not ashamed to say of their sweethearts, "She is a sweet thing," or "She is as sweet as a rose in rain." And the love between the two was genuine or as Miss Rickert says: "The theme, then, with which they deal is of love unchanged by time and circumstance; that endures all tests, all suffering, all humiliation; that does all things and suffers all things for the sake of the beloved. The problem never arises from the mutability of human nature, but always from a conflict of changeless devotion with hostile environment."

Of her work Miss Rickert says: "In translating I have endeavored to keep as near as possible to the spirit of the original. I have often sacrificed archaisms to sense, but rarely or never picturesqueness of style to smoothness of rendering. It is my hope that, even in the translations, something of the peculiar flavor of each of the originals may have been preserved." And what she worked for she indeed accomplished. C. S. M.

In "THE APPRENTICESHIP OF WASHINGTON" Dr. George Hodges has collected five, short essays on figures in American colonial history. The first gives title to the volume. The four others are concerned with Mary Dyer, Myles Standish, John Harvard, and the forefathers of Jamestown. Dr. Hodges presents the unusual combination of a descendant of both puritan and pilgrim engaged in the ministry of the church against which both of these groups protested. The prejudices of the puritan writers who have shaped the prevailing American notions on colonial history and colonial personages are taken into account, with a resultant modification of judgment on some of the points considered. A second thought will show that the five essays treat as many distinct types of colonial life. (Moffat, Yard & Co.)

BEGIN LAST WEEK OF SOUL CRUSADE

RESULTS PLEASE LEADERS

Congregation, Stirred by Revival, Raises $1,000 to Wipe Out Deficit.

One hundred and seventy-two Protestant churches of Cook county entered yesterday on the last week of vigorous evangelistic effort for the elevation of the moral tone of the city.

Others of the laymen's evangelistic council, under the auspices of which the campaign was inaugurated and has been conducted, were enthusiastic concerning the results achieved, not only in Chicago but in setting a good example of coöperation to the warring sects throughout the country. It has been demonstrated that seventeen sects, inspired by the slogan, "To Win Men to Christ," could work together in harmony on the platform.

The elimination of a deficit of $1.000 was one of the more concrete results of the revival at the Fourth Baptist church. The congregation had been stirred up to such a pitch by the special services held for the last few weeks that when an attempt was made yesterday to cut down the debt it was found that $500 was realized at the morning and $500 at the evening exercises. The movement has made such a deep impression that the Rev. Charles A. Decker, the pastor, expressed the opinion that baptism into the church would be frequent for some time to come as a result of it.

To Bid Evangelists Farewell.

The Davis and Mills company of evangelists will be at the church tonight and tomorrow night. The services tomorrow night will be in the nature of a farewell to the evangelists who have worked at many west side churches during Lent. Tickets have been assigned to each of the churches they have visited and the music will be supplied by an interchurch choir of more than 200 people.

Financial as well as spiritual benefits have accrued to the Wesley Methodist church through the movement. The Rev. James M. Phelps told his congregation yesterday morning that the special Easter offering which has been found necessary every year hitherto would not be taken up next Sunday owing to the excellent financial condition of the church.

The nightly meetings at the church will continue until Easter, at which date a commandery of the Knights Templars will participate in the closing services. The church choir will sing a cantata Good Friday evening.

Many conversions have been reported at the Danish-Norwegian Evangelical Free church, where the Rev. Diedrick Andersen of the Lutheran Free church of Milwaukee has assisted the pastor, the Rev. C. T. Dyrness, at the nightly services.

Services Add Forty to Church.

Forty men and women have joined the Halsted Street Methodist church through the services held there every night for three weeks. The services have been in charge of the Gideons, an organization of commercial travelers, during the week just past, and in the week to come the Rev. D. D. Vaughan will be assisted by the Wesley Praying band. Special communion services will be held Friday night and a confirmation class will be received next Sunday evening.

Two suburbs have benefited from the movement as it found expression at the First Methodist church of Oak Park. One week was devoted to the mission of the church in Forest Park with considerable success and the next week to the home congregation. The Rev. W. O. Shepard of the Englewood Methodist church will assist the pastor, the Rev. Milton B. Williams, at the special services to be held between now and Easter.

A sacred concert will be held at Trinity Swedish Lutheran church next Wednesday and a special communion service next Thursday evening as the closing exercises of a successful campaign for souls, under the leadership of the Rev. Gottfred Nelson.

OPPONENTS OF WAR COMING.

Men Prominent in Umcial Life Will Attend Peace Society's Meeting in Chicago Next Month.

A large number of notables are expected to attend the session of the peace society to be held in Chicago May 2, 3, 4, and 5.

Frederick Bode and Rudolph Ortmann are in Washington with an invitation to cabinet officers, members of the diplomatic corps, and other persons to attend the luncheon of the Industrial club during the conference. E. M. Skinner and R. C. Hall are on their way back to Chicago after delivering many invitations to the banquet to be given by the Association of Commerce.

ASKS RETIREMENT OF FOSTER

DISAGREES WITH HIS VIEWS

The Rev. Dr. W. A. Matthews delivered in Tabernacle Baptist church last night an excoriation of George Burman Foster, professor of the philosophy of religion in the divinity school of the University of Chicago, and closed with a demand that the professor formally quit the Baptist denomination.

"Prof. Foster ignores the prophetic element in scripture and gainsays the genius of the Christian religion itself," said Pastor Matthews. "He belittles the very cause to which he is indebted for his own Christian character, education, and the high place he now occupies.

"If he would spare himself the charge of ethical dishonesty, he would better leave the Baptist denomination, its ministry, and its divinity school, and join the Unitarian society which he now serves as regular minister.

"When he came to the divinity school thirteen years ago he announced as his watchword, 'Back to Christ.' His latest watchword is 'Forward Without Christ.' How can the disciples of Christ hold fellowship with one who apostates from Christ? To open our Baptist seminaries and Baptist pulpits to hold fellowship with such a one in a Baptist church is to be guilty of treason to Jesus Christ. The truest charity is that which shows loyalty to the truth committed to our trust and experience. The greater honesty is not intellectual, but ethical."

Foster Talks of Race Conflict.

"Race conflict" was the subject of a sermon delivered by Prof. George B. Foster of the University of Chicago, in Third Unitarian church. Among other things he said:

"To accomplish the large brotherhood race mixtures of black and white and so on will not suffice. That is too easy a task, and too hard as well.

"It is the business of a man to become a personality. This is the richest thought of the modern world: out of an individual personality to create a universal personality. What is true of the individual is true of the people. The developing and the maturing of a full personality both individual and racial. As it is the vocation of an individual to become a personality so it is of a people to become a race personality. This task requires each race to emancipate itself from what is foreign both of the present and of the past.

For Universal Brotherhood.

"Race growth must precede race cosmopolitanism. But along with this personal selfhood of a people there must come the universal brotherhood of the peoples. The mixing for brotherhood by blood will not serve the purpose. Each must develop itself and work for brotherhood on a different basis. The business of an individual is to develop himself along his own pattern and yet with all his diversity to love and to be loved by and to live in harmony with others. So it is that the nations will develop and flower.

"To love thy neighbor as thyself is for the individual and for the nation. Be like the Father in heaven. Win your enemy. That is the great ideal for our international life. We must not blot out our characteristics as individuals in order to harmonize.

Condemns Anti-Semitism.

"As soon as a strong people come to use their powers to subdue another race it is a degradation. It should serve and develop the lower race rather than subdue it. It is too easy to have the unity of blood at the beginning rather than one of moral brotherhood at the end.

"The tremendous pressure brought to bear upon the Jews has not caused them to yield. This anti-Semitism must yield to moral brotherhood. This may have to become a fact in the English treatment of the Boers. They must not barbarize and devastate, but train and help.

"If money could buy all the art in Europe it would bring everything to America and put it into private homes. But what contribution would be made to the evolution of the art of the American people in that way? The better way would be for our millionaires to select our aspiring artists and help to create American art. Then America would contribute her artistic type to the world. And a much larger work would be done by and by. The wohle difference is between the merely receptive and creative."

WAIFS TO BE CIRCUS GUESTS.

Management of Barnum & Bailey Show Issues Invitation to Poor Children of City.

The Barnum & Bailey circus at the Coliseum last night entered upon the second week of its Chicago engagement. Invitations have been issued to settlement workers and various parties of poor children will be the guests of the circus management on different dates. Several small parties already have attended the performances.

ETHICAL SPEAKER EXTOLS THE JEWS

Cornell University Professor Tells What Israelites Have Done for Humanity.

NEW NORTH SIDE PASTOR.

Dr. Randall Preaches First Sermon in the Sheridan Park Methodist Church.

High tribute to the Jews was paid yesterday by Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell university, in an address before the Society for Ethical Culture on "The World's Debt to Judaism." In conclusion he said:

"Judaism, in all its phases, has held aloft a realizable ideal. It has said: 'Be ye holy, as I, your God, am holy'; be ye perfect, as your father in heaven is perfect.' Not speculation, but imitation, has been its watchword. It has kept alive through the centuries a keen sense of justice. It has tended toward cosmopolitanism.

"It recognized, long before the Stoics, all men as members of one human family, and dreamed of universal peace. It has always looked with wistful eyes into the future. Now its seers spoke of 'the Day of the Lord' that was to come, now of 'the kingdom of heaven' upon earth, anon of 'Zukunftsstaat.

"But, whatever its weaknesses, shortcomings, and failures, its mission seems to have been throughout the ages always to sow the seeds of a divine unrest, to goad men on to higher things."

Praise for a Corporation.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, who spent the month of March in visiting his old army haunts in the south and lecturing at Vicksburg, Natchez, Meridian, Birmingham, and at the University of the South, preached in All Souls' church "A Palm Sunday Sermon from the South." A feature of his sermon was a mention of a gift of $10,000 by the Cumberland Telegraph and Telephone company toward the erection of a new building for the Y. M. C. A. at Nashville, Tenn. Concerning this gift Mr. Jones said:

"The time is coming when, by the growth of conscience among the wealthy, the intelligent public sentiment of an enlightened community, when corporations will rise to the intelligent sense of obligation as well as the finer business sagacity of the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company of Nashville and will lend a hand, at first haltingly, blunderingly, but at last willingly and intelligently. Then wealth will be regarded as a trust and wealthy men will be held to that accounting which is implied by trusteeship."

Cathedral Is Reopened.

Episcopal Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul was reopened with the regular Palm Sunday services. The formal opening will be reserved until Easter Sunday, when Bishop Charles P. Anderson and a number of church dignitaries will be present and the bishop will preach. Dean Walter T. Sumner preached yesterday on "The Invisible Temple." Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung by the cathedral choir assisted by outside soloists.

In remodeling the cathedral the interior and the chancel with the altar received the greatest attention. All the woodwork in the chancel is in old English oak. The chancel is in leaf gold and the walls of the church proper are finished in a deep red. Marked changes have been made in the altar, the stone work being carefully cleaned and the carved ornaments thereon brought out in gold leaf.

New Pastor at Sheridan Park.

Members of Sheridan Park M. E. church listened to a sermon by their new pastor, the Rev. J. A. Randall, who was appointed to take the place of the Rev. F. S. Rockwell, who gave up preaching to enter the automobile business. "The Earnestness of Jesus" was the subject of the sermon.

"It is earnestness bound to a moral purpose that all great deeds have for their foundation and that changes the lives of men," the pastor said. "A great purpose coördinates and concentrates the energies of man and carries him to the accomplishment of his work. Wendell Phillips and Abraham Lincoln are examples of this truth just as is Jesus of Nazareth."

Mr. Randall comes from the New England southern conference and recently has been associated with F. H. Henderson, the evangelist.

Humility Urged on the Rich.

Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus in a sermon on "The Order of Chivalry of the Time," delivered before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, censured men and women who, because of their high position in life, hesitate to serve the downtrodden. Their dignity would be lowered by such service as that rendered by Christ when the latter washed his disciples' feet.

"Why did Jesus not accept a crown instead of taking up a towel and washing his disciples' feet?" he said. "He knew his divine origin, and he knew that he was going back to God. If you have no divine pedigree, you can ask yourself 'What is there in it for me?' but if you know that you came from God and that you will return to God, you will take up a towel and wash the feet of these tired and careworn people."

FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON FOR CUBS

KROH POMMELED HARD.

Chance's Men Give the Big Left Hander Poor Support Which Helps Him to Lose.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Louisville, Ky., April 4.—[Special.]—In plain sight of the United States and with only two more battles to play on foreign soil, the world's champions today slipped up and suffered their first defeat of the season, Col. Chivington's Louisville bunch trimming them in an awful combat, 7 to 5.

The contest was the worst of the spring from a Cub standpoint, but the result tickled this city so much that the Chicago athletes were glad they had been the cause of the merriment. To be sure, these near champions of the American association looked better than anything the champs had faced, but that did not excuse the loose exhibition of pitching, catching, and fielding put up by the men who broke New York's heart and what was left of Detroit's.

Floyd Kroh, the large left hander who made possible the winning of last season's pennant, was given a terrific pommeling by the Colonels, an even dozen wallops being rung up against him. This sport was witnessed by a real crowd, the first the Cubs have seen so far in these regions, and the crowd was full of pepper.

Play on Hardwood Diamond.

The weather was perfect for baseball. A light breeze kept the heat from becoming unbearable. Chivington's hardwood diamond was at its best and this fact may have had something to do with the beating handed us, inasmuch as the Cubs have been playing on plowed fields or swamps. There are plenty of excuses if one goes in search of them.

The pitching was done entirely by left handers. Opposed to Kroh were Halla and Packard. Halla was no puzzle to the big leaguers and it looked like foolishness on Manager Heinie Peitz's part when he substituted another southpaw for his veteran at the end of the fifth. But Packard—honk, honk—who hails from Oklahoma City or thereabouts, and is getting his first trial as class A material, deceived us and proved absolutely unhittable. Furthermore, he had enough speed and was wild enough to keep the Cubs dodging back from the plate.

The Cubs went into the battle minus Zimmerman. He was left out partly because he was suffering from a cold and partly because Chance thought one Heinie in the game was sufficient. Artie Hofman took Zim's place and supplied one boot which helped the Colonels to their last run.

Three Hits for Stanley.

Joe Stanley, who was extracted from this city by President Murphy, was welcomed warmly by the folks, of whom there were nearly 4,000 present. Joe defied precedent by performing well in the face of applause. He grabbed off two Texas league singles and one big league two bagger in four times up and was deprived of the privilege of adding to his collection when Manager Chance put in Pat Moran to bat for him to change the luck in the ninth.

Louisville gained a lead in the first inning and the Cubs never were able to catch up. Dunleavy slapped a single through Steinfeldt for a starter. Frank Delehanty, the gent who was expelled from the Southern league last season for washing an umpire's face, came up in the spot where bunts usually are expected. The late Highlander bunted against the left field fence and had made the circuit of the bases before Sheckard even reached the ball.

Delehanty himself was reported as saying afterward that his hit was foul and most of the Cubs thought it was, but Arbiter Steve Kane called it fair, and, as he is about to become a National league "ump," we are forced to believe him.

Archer Poles Out Triple.

The Cubs cut that lead in two in their part of the second on Archer's triple to deep left and Kroh's sacrifice fly, but the onslaught on Kroh was renewed in the third. The combination of Dunleavy and Delehanty again was used in opening it up. The former singled to center and Del cracked one safely through to center. Singles by Tate and Sullivan and a wild throw by Tinker, combined with a squeeze play, increased the Kentuckians' total to six. Kunkle helped us by allowing himself to be caught off second on a snap throw from Archer. Jimmy was good on these snap throws, but he was trying to get in too many of them and the result was he had Kroh wasting the first two balls continually when men were on bases.

From the fourth to the seventh rounds, inclusive, Kroh pitched great ball and retired the Colonels as fast as they came up. A couple of singles and Hofman's bad fumble netted Louisville's final tally in the eighth.

The Cubs added to their count in the fourth. One was gone when Olson kindly muffed Hofman's easy fly. Tinker singled through short and Kroh walked after Archer had flied to Delehanty. George Browne produced a sting which drove in a brace of tallies. Stanley opened the fifth with a double to left. Chance was easy for Sullivan, Joe going to third, whence he eased in on Steinfeldt's lift to Dunleavy. Artie Hofman then produced a triple, which put him in easy position for scoring purposes on Tinker's timely rap to right.

"Honk, Honk" Is Unhittable.

After that appeared Mr. Packard, license number "Oklahoma 197," and the Cubs were stopped still. The Colonels might have had an even dozen runs if they had not slumbered fitfully on the bases. But seven were enough to win. Defeat is all the harder to bear because McGraw's Giants, pitching such youngsters as Mathewson and Ames, won 5 to 3 here on Saturday. However, the Colonels claim to have knocked Matty off the slab, so there is no reason for utter despair. Score:

Notes from Cubs' Camp.

Another fast getaway tomorrow, the Cubs leaving at 5 o'clock for Evansville.

Red Malone, the superfluous catcher, leaves us tomorrow morning for Hannibal, Mo., where he will play during the coming season.

Young Tate, whom the Pirates released to Louisville, with a string attached, looked good in the batter's box. He did not look so good on the bases.

Andy Coakley was not on hand to welcome the team on its arrival. Evidently he is still the holdout kid.

Jimmy Slagle was feeling better today, although he did not don a uniform nor did he attend the combat.

The ocean was rough on the way here from Atlanta last night and the athletes were more stiff this morning than if they had been in a strenuous double header.

Chance wired Little Rock this morning to find out what had become of Frank Schulte. He was informed the well known horseman had left those parts last week bound for Indianapolis. As Indianapolis is not to be reached by the Cubs until next Friday it is believed Schulte intends treating himself to a nice long rest.

"NO DEAL POSSIBLE"—GRIFFITH

Red Manager Says He Would Want Only Tinker, Hofman, or Evers, and Chance Won't Listen.

Cincinnati, O., April 4.—[Special.]—Manager Griffith broke the ice today and talked of the proposition harbored by President Murphy of the Cubs, who seems anxious to secure a few of the Reds.

"I do not think Frank Chance will accept the invitation extended him to come here," said Griffith. "It is hardly possible any kind of a deal will be consummated, for the only men on Frank's team that I would consider for a moment are Tinker, Hofman, and Evers, and the chances are slight that he would let any of the three go. It may be he desires to dispose of Kling, but from what I know of Chance I doubt that. There are no other men on the team that I want.

"I will not, under any consideration, make any effort to talk with Chance. If he wants to discuss the matter he will have to see me. The Cubs played in Louisville today, and if he desired he could have reached me by telephone. He did not."

WICHITA MAKES SOX AT HOME

BY HEK.

Wichita, Kas., April 4.—[Special.]—Under the most trying conditions, far worse than rain and mud, the club to which Frank Isbell belongs and the club that belongs to him met this afternoon, and the former won, 11 to 4. A terrific wind and dust storm prevailed and the game was called in the seventh inning to enable the Sox to hook up with the rattler again, this time for Fort Smith. It's a gay life.

Wichita is famous as a good ball town and Isbell has had a great deal to do with making it so. At any rate, he is the idol of the local fans and a conspicuous figure in its business and social circles.

George Bradford, one of the town's leading citizens, accompanied by the great old Issy himself, met the Sox at the train with a string of touring cars. The reception was as pronounced as it might be without disturbing the Sabbath quiet. The only thing Wichita tolerates on Sunday is baseball.

Scott Overeager at Start.

Jim Scott, the giant young pitcher whom Comiskey secured from Wichita, was put in to pitch against his old pals, with Sullivan catching him. Scotty appeared all wrought up over the importance of the occasion and seemed to be afflicted with stage fright. After he had struck out the first man up, a single and a double were made off him, netting the first tally in the game.

Parent was in the game for the first time since we were in Los Angeles, and after Hahn died at first in Chicago's opener Freddie turned a slow roller to third into a hit. He went to second on a wild throw and Altizer sacrificed him to third. Then Isbell strode to the plate and bumped one into the second baseman.

Scott steadied in the second round and didn't allow a ball to stray out of the infield. The high wind kept Sullivan stepping around after fouls and he had to allow two of them to fall dead on the ground. The wind increased to a gale in Chicago's half of the second and the outfield was obscured by billows of dust torn out of the skinned and unsprinkled diamond.

First of Four Home Runs.

It was in this round that Scott signalized his homecoming by the longest hit ever seen in these parts. After letting a couple go by he caught one on the end of the bat and hoisted it to an elevation where the force of the wind carried it over the left field fence for a home run, driving two men in ahead of him.

Two more were added in that inning, principally as the result of infield errors, making the score 5 to 1 for our side.

The repetition of Scott's feat by Pettigrew in the third inning took a bit of the glory out of Jim's sails, for it showed clearly how much the wind had to do with it. The fielders were partially blinded by the swirls of swiftly carried dust as well as by the strange flights the ball took, and anything approaching clean work was impossible.

Wichita got another man as far as third, but Scott struck out the next two. Atz opened Chicago's half of the next inning with a hit, Tannehill got to first on the second baseman's fumble. Sullivan struck out. Scott drew a pass, and Atz scored on Hahn's fly to center. Parent walked, choking the bases again, with two out. Dougherty went out to the first baseman unassisted. Seven men went to bat in that inning without a hit.

After Hainesey had struck out in the fourth, Quisser was put out of business with a smash above the left elbow by a pitched ball, and "Buck" Weaver, who used to be one of us, replaced him behind the bat.

First Accident to Sully.

After opening the Sox half of the fourth with a two bagger Isbell retired from the game. Altizer, who ran for him, was sacrificed home by Cravath and Atz, and then succeeded Isbell at first. A combination of the dust storm, two wild pitches and a hit gave the locals another tally in the sixth.

Sullivan was hit on the hand by a pitched ball in the Sox's half and retired from the game. Matticks, who ran for him, was forced by Scott at second. Hahn hit to deep center for a base, advancing Scott to third. Dougherty sent another sailing over left field fence for the third home run in the game, scoring Scott and Parent in front of him. Altizer pleasantly retired at first.

Cravath was first up in the seventh and helped himself to another of those windy home runs. That was enough. Nothing happened subsequently. Score:

Campbell Allows American Leaguers Only One Hit in Five Innings—Score 7 to 3.

Cincinnati, O., April 4.—[Special.]—Every time Griffith's Reds filled the bases today the Boston Americans would take a trip skyward, and when they returned to terra firma again the score would show a few additions for the local team.

Campbell was in excellent form, and the visitors were allowed only one hit in five innings. Cincinnati fielded well, but the Boston men offered poor support to the men on the mound. Arellanes, who succeeded Wood, displayed the best form shown by any eastern pitcher, and held the Reds to two hits in five innings. Score:

The Logan Squares and the South Benders battled eleven innings to a tie at Callahan's park yesterday, Umpire Fitzpatrick calling the game on account of darkness, with the score 8 to 8. Callahan tried out a bunch of new pitchers and gave the visitors a good lead. Lind started it, but after four bases on balls and three runs had been charged against him, Torrey was installed. Smalz supplanted Torrey in the sixth and his wildness forced "Cal" himself on to the slab, the last three innings being blanks for South Bend. Good hitting and some wild heaves helped the Hoosiers. Willie McGill was the only real twirler on their side, and the cold forced him out after four innings. "Shorty" Doll and John Lelivelt each took a chance at dealing the rest of the game. DENVER BEATS SOX COLTS IN GAME STOPPED BY SNOW.

Grizzlies Turn Tables on Davis' Proteges by Blanking Them, 2 to 0—Manuel's Wildness His Undoing.

Denver, Colo., April 4.—[Special.]—The Denverites obtained partial revenge on the Yannigans today for the Saturday slaughter by shutting them out, 2 to 0. The game only went six and one-half innings, as a blinding snow storm broke up proceedings.

Twenty-five hundred fans watched the game, which was decided by Manuel's wildness. A walk, a sacrifice, two singles, and two more walks scored the two tallies. Because of the storm tomorrow's game at Pueblo may be called off.

Manager Davis was notified today that Rollie Zeider, the shortstop, had been sold outright to San Francisco, from which club Comiskey bought him. He leaves tomorrow to join the Seals for the opening of their league season in Sacramento. Today's score:

Kansas City, Mo., April 4.—[Special.]—J. Kling's All Professionals plucked the first victory of the season from the R. S. Stevens city league team today before a crowd of 1,500 bugs. The count was 8 to 0, and incidentally Sizemore, pitching for the Kling combination, added to the glory of the victory by pitching a no-hit game. He was formerly a member of the Buffalo Eastern league.

HIGH SCHOOL GAMES JUNE 5.

Cook County Track and Field Meet Will Be Held at De Paul Field.

Prof. Reed of the board of control has chosen De Paul field as the place and June 5 as the date for the annual track and field meet of the Cook county high schools, which usually has been held at Marshall field.

This date will conflict with the meet of the conference colleges and prevent the youngsters from viewing the performances of the best men in the middle west, but May 29 was thought to be too early, and Stagg's annual interscholastic meet is scheduled for June 13.

Chairman Borden of the track athletic department of the Cook County Bible Class league also has decided to take advantage of the facilities of De Paul field and has closed for May 22 as a date for the junior churchmen.

De Paul's baseball nine, whose early season practice suggests strength, will meet the South Bend Greens, which are playing a series of games with the Logan Squares, in a game at the home field this afternoon.

HOPE FOR PRINCE'S CHALLENGE.

New York Yachtsmen Would Welcome Attempt by British Royalty to Lift America Cup.

New York, April 4.—Commodore Arthur Curtiss James of the New York Yacht club and other local yachtsmen read with interest today a report cabled from London that inquiries had been made here on behalf of the prince of Wales as to how a challenge from him for the America cup would be received. None of those seen, however, knew to whom the reported inquiry was made.

"We certainly wish the prince would challenge," said Commodore James. "It would be the greatest thing for yachting that could happen. You can say positively that every member of the New York Yacht club and the members of every American yacht club would heartily welcome such a challenge.

"I do not know to whom the inquiries mentioned were directed, but whoever it was who received the communication would return but one message—that such a challenge would arouse us all to joy."

CHANGE FROM HASH TO CASH

St. Yves, Marathon Winner, Unknown Waiter a Year Ago.

EARNS $5,000 IN AFTERNOON

Frenchman, Not 21 Years Old, Now Called Greatest Runner in World.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—Waiter in a London restaurant and without a dollar less than a year ago, Henri St. Yves is today acclaimed the greatest Marathon racer in the world through his victory in the Marathon Derby at the polo grounds yesterday.

The young Frenchman, who speaks little English as yet, but earned 5,000 American dollars in one afternoon, was about town today receiving the congratulations of his countrymen, particularly from a bunch of waiters in a downtown restaurant who seized the opportunity to back one of their kind at the prevailing odds of 12 to 1.

St. Yves might have remained a waiter all his life had he not fallen a victim to the prevailing Marathon fever which attacked London following the Olympic games last summer. He took up running and quickly demonstrated that he possessed sterling qualities.

"Find" of Princeton Trainer.

Al Copeland, Princeton's athletic trainer, heard of St. Yves a few weeks ago and brought him to this country. But as nobody had seen him in action and as Copeland prepared him for the Derby in comparative secrecy at Princeton he did not receive serious consideration by the general sporting public in calculating the respective merits of the six starters.

In appearance St. Yves does not look like a runner. He is short in stature and built like a wrestler, with powerful legs, broad shoulders, a deep chest, and muscular arms. His hair is light and he has a small mustache, which does not hide an excellent set of teeth. But regardless of his appearance, St. Yves showed the big crowd at the polo grounds yesterday that when it came to speed and endurance there was not a Marathon runner, professional or amateur, who could have taken his measure on the form he displayed.

St. Yves is not yet 21 years old, but today he is regarded as the greatest long distance runner in the world. He never has been beaten, winning a Marathon at Edinburgh, Scotland, last December in 2:44:40 from a good field. He is said to have covered the distance from Windsor castle to the stadium at Shepherd's Bush in the remarkable time of 2:31:23. This time, said to have been made in a private trial, if authentic, excels Hayes' figures in the London Marathon last summer by nearly twenty minutes.

Will Race in Other Events.

It is understood that other Marathon Derbys will be promoted in cities represented in the major baseball leagues and that St. Yves will be a starter in some, if not all of them. Through an interpreter St. Yves said today that he never was in distress during the big race yesterday. He also took occasion to compliment Shrubb for his game attempts to run him off his feet.

The Chicago promoters who conducted the Dorando-Corey Marathon at Dexter Park pavilion in January have an option on the services of the six men who raced in New York, but the $10,000 purse and the $3,000 or $4,000 other expenses which would attach to such an event is not likely to make the proposition look like an attractive gamble.

LONG RACE KILLS A RUNNER.

HULL, England, April 4.—Frederick Rumsby, a Marathon runner, collapsed while competing in a twenty mile race here yesterday. He was carried from the track unconscious and died today. Rumsby won a Marathon race here last year.

COFFROTH COMING FOR BOUTS.

Frisco Promoter Will Meet "Bat" Nelson Here and Then East for Heavyweight Match.

San Francisco, Cal., April 4.—[Special.]—Jimmy Coffroth, the local fight promoter, will leave for the east Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. He has wired Battling Nelson to meet him at Chicago on Saturday to arrange details for the Nelson-Hyland fight about May 30.

Coffroth then will leave for New York to land a heavyweight championship match for July 4, if possible.

"The big match," said Coffroth, "is between Johnson and Jeffries. Failing in that, Ketchel and Johnson would be a good card, and if these two fail through a fight could be made between Al Kaufmann and Ketchel, the winner to fight Johnson. Personally, I would be glad to arrange a Ketchel-Johnson match for July 4."

KETCHEL WILL FIGHT BURKE.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, has been matched to meet "Sailor" Burke in a ten round bout on April 20. The match came as a result of Burke's persistent challenging, which finally roused Ketchel's ire. The latter then said he would settle the sailor's pretensions with a battle. By matching with Burke Ketchel does not give up his hope of a match against Jack Johnson, as that contest, if scheduled, would take place some time in the future.

"Bat" Plans Talk with Sanderson.

Battling Nelson, lightweight champion, expects to hold a conference today with F. R. Sanderson of Australia relative to a match in the antipodes. Sanderson is authorized to offer a bout with Patsy King, an Australian boxer, but "Bat" claims a more attractive offer financially from Hugh McIntosh to meet Jimmy Britt in Australia. Nelson has secured Jimmy Barry, the old time bantam champion, to appear with him at a north side theater tomorrow night.

The Hyde Park Blues and Woodlawns won their matches in the second round of the spring series of the Association Football league of Chicago yesterday and are tied for first place. The MacDuffs won from Harvey and went into a tie for third place with the Campbell Rovers, who lost to the Blues.

The Blues rubbed it in to the champion Campbell Rovers to the tune of four goals to one at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Through the first half, which ended two to one in favor of the Blues, both teams gave great displays, the ball going from end to end in quick order and both attack and defense being clean cut and clever. Up to the interval it looked to be anybody's game, especially as the first goal made by the Blues was on the "soft" order, Reed sending in a long shot that Napier struck at and missed. Cowan evened up the count with a short shot later and this proved the only point made by the Scotchmen. Hibbott, the indefatigable, put the Blues in the lead before the interval.

Pace Slower at End.

After change of ends the pace was slower, but both teams tried hard. Dixon scored a third goal for the Blues and twelve minutes before time Reed scored with a fast grounder. The Rovers were dangerous several times, but shot wide at the finish, although Roberts made one great stop of a short range shot. Lineup:

Petros Takes Four Mile Race.

George Petros of Hull house won the four mile run under the auspices of the Opportunity club of the Maxwell Settlement house on the west side yesterday. Petros won easily and covered the distance in 25:53. Tom O'Connor of the Panther A. C. was second and Paul Halleb of the Opportunity club was third. There were twenty-eight starters and twenty-two finished.

No Southpaws on Naps' Staff.

Cleveland, O., April 4.—[Special.]—Fred Miller, the big southpaw secured by the Naps from Mobile, was sent back to his former club today. After his woeful exhibition against New Orleans on Saturday C. W. Somers gave him a ticket without further trial. Waivers have been asked on Andrade, and that means Cleveland will go through the season without a lefthanded pitcher.

COAST HORSEMEN IN DIRE QUANDARY

FEED MAN NOW ACTIVE.

Cost of Shipping East and Hostile Law at Seattle Limit Chance for Purses.

San Francisco, April 4.—[Special.]—There is no denying that a gloomy feeling pervades the paddock, quarter stretch, and training quarters at Emeryville racetrack nowadays, and in some quarters actual anxiety exists as to what to do or where to turn next.

Only another fortnight of racing remains. Hundreds of "regulars" and scores of horsemen with only a cheap selling plater or two are in debt, and getaway money is being sought with the rapacity of hungry wolves. It is inevitable that a large number will fail to secure it, and what will become of them is a strange problem. Many hard up horsemen have no fixed idea of where they will go even if lucky enough to run up a few dollars into $200 or $300.

Furthermore, the feed man is dogging the footsteps of every owner in hard luck, and from all one hears it seems likely there will be a lot of thoroughbred horses in hock two weeks hence.

Poor Owners Are Anxious.

For the small owner, accustomed to a hand to mouth existence, it is no use to consider the spring meetings in Kentucky, because he has not the price to get there. Besides which it is figured that cheap horses will not have a chance to win there, on account of the keen competition and the anticipated shrinkage of values of all classes of racehorses. There will be no Seattle meeting to carry the needy through the summer. Every one cannot be taken care of at the Montana meetings, and the British Columbia and western Canada meetings are too far away. Some may escape for a brief spell by struggling over the mountains to Salt Lake, where a forty days' meeting will begin on May 22.

Of course the foremost owners here do not have to worry. These include such prosperous horsemen as Fred Forsythe, Sam Hildreth, H. G. Bedwell, Hamilton Keene, Pat Dunne, "Billy" Cahill, R. L. Thomas, Charley Ellison, "Red" Walker, Joe Jones, Davy Johnson, "Tobe" Ramsey, Harry Stover, George Holle, Phil Chinn, Charlie Bowman, and a few others.

Most of these already have engaged cars to convey their horses to New York or Kentucky. Harry Stover, of course, will ship to Montana, being one of the principal stockholders in the Butte and other racetracks. Ramsey probably would not be welcome there, and he may be expected to go to Salt Lake. Bedwell, who has come up from nothing, but has been unusually successful during his two or three years on the local turf, may go to Montana because of the season there lasting longer than in Kentucky, but he has horses good enough to win frequently at the blue grass meetings. "Red" Walker will go where Bedwell does not. They don't speak.

Forsythe Tops Winning List.

A Kentuckian, Fred A. Forsythe, is at the head of the winning owners list with nearly $40,000 to his credit. Bedwell, with $28,000, and Sam Hildreth, with $27,000, stand second and third. Tom Williams, president of the local jockey club, is fourth with $21,000. The Keene brothers have won over $15,000. Barney Schreiber is sixth with $13,000. Pat Dunne stands next with $11,000. Then Billy Cahill and R. L. Thomas with $10,000 apiece. Charley Ellison and "Red" Walker have won a trifle over $9,000 each; J. H. Brannon and Joe Jones, $7,000 each; Davy Johnson and "Tobe" Ramsey, $6,000 each; "Big Tim" Sullivan of New York, $5,500; Al Koenigsberg, Harry Stover, and George Holle, around $5,000 each; Phil Chinn, $4,500; Molera and Josephs, $4,100; Charlie Bowman, $3,800; W. E. Applegate, $3,600; Ed Trotter and Jim Davis, $3,200 each.

LATONIA TRACK NAMES DATES.

Cincinnati, O., April 4.—Trustees of the Latonia Jockey club tonight announced that the spring racing meeting will be held as usual, notwithstanding the controversy between the track officials and the Kentucky state racing commission. The meeting will extend from May 25 for thirty days, according to the official announcement. Entries close April 20. The situation is unusual in that the state racing commission revoked Latonia's license and did not award it dates because of the action of the track officials in ignoring the order of the commission, which sought to restrict betting to the pari-mutuel system.

"TURK" BACK FOR FINAL WORK.

Yussiff's Manager Says Gotch's Tactics Against "Hack" Will Not Defeat Bulgarian Wrestler.

Yussiff Mahmout, who will meet Frank Gotch April 14, returned yesterday from an exhibition tour. He will remain here for his final preparation.

Kansas City made an offer for a match this week between the Turk and Fred Beell, but Manager Antoine Pierri turned it down, preferring not to take any chances of injuries. Instead he engaged Beell to help Yussiff train for the Gotch match.

"Mahmout is in excellent condition now, and will need little more training," said Pierri. "He has been on the road for almost three weeks, but he has managed to get good rest and steady work in addition to his exhibitions and matches. My present plan is for him to wrestle one day and run on the road the next. In this way he will keep his weight down and have plenty of practice work at the same time. Beell will work with him all the time because I consider him the fastest man I possibly could get. Speed is all Mahmout needs now.

"Gotch beat 'Hack,' but he didn't throw him. He'll have to throw Mahmout, for a gamer man never lived. He has more endurance than any man I ever knew, and Gotch will never outlast him. Mahmout will weigh within a few ounces of 198 pounds when he faces Gotch. He weighs that right now, and therefore will merely have to keep himself right."

W. H. McBrayer's

"Cedar Brook"

Bottled in Bond

The Uncrowned King of Kentucky

for 62 Years

WHY

The grains used in the distillation of W. H. McBrayer's Cedar Brook are especially selected with great care by experts who have made distilling a life study.

Mashed in small old-fashioned tubs, the same as in 1847. After its distillation it is transferred to our U. S. Bonded Warehouse on the premises and stored in specially made white oaken charred barrels where we allow it to remain for 8 years to become thoroughly matured, thereby attaining the highest point in purity. This is of vital importance and increases the cost of production of W. H. McBrayer's Cedar Brook, bottled in bond.

BECAUSE—

The distillery, located in Anderson County, the heart of the Blue Grass region where famous limestone springs abound, makes this whiskey the peer of all others. After W. H. McBrayer's Cedar Brook Whiskey has been in bond 8 years, under the supervision of government officers, it is reduced to 100 proof by using pure limestone water. It is then bottled in bond, a little "Green Stamp" placed over the neck of the bottle—being U. S. Government guarantee of its integrity—thereby insuring to purchasers a whiskey which is justly regarded as the "Flower of Kentucky."

OPTIMISTIC IN WALL STREET

TARIFF TALK STILL FACTOR.

Better Purchases of Stocks for Foreign Account Are a Help.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—When the market for securities after a prolonged period of dullness and vacillating prices faces directly about, moving up vigorously day after day on active trading, it is not surprising that the ordinary observer of so marked a change should at once seek for a corresponding alteration in the financial or business structure.

Stock Exchange Barometer.

There would be little excuse for the existence of a stock market which performed its function of pointing out the future prospects of trade. The truth is that the stock exchange is and must always be moving far in advance of current conditions. Not only in this market, but also in London, speculators who felt that stocks have not yet touched low prices, which they might well attain with such matters as the tariff schedules still in debate, the "commodities clause" suit undecided, and the business outlook not to them at least too clear, were heavily short on securities.

A concentrated movement against these interests carried on day after day through the week forced them to cover their positions by purchases in the market, one London house alone buying 25,000 shares each of Steel common and Union Pacific in this connection.

Shows Artificial Market.

This illustrates the artificial side of the market last week, but it had solid substructure in the investment purchases by large banking interests and individuals. Investment purchases like those mentioned are, of course, grounded upon confidence in the early return to normal in the business world. Progress in that direction is so steady and so easily discoverable that it can be a question of a short time only before the tendency generally is recognized and the effects of this recognition are fully experienced by investment markets.

WHEAT MART ON HIGH LEVEL

WORLD'S STOCKS ARE SMALL.

Outlook for Moderate Crop Yields; Corn and Oats Work Higher.

New high points for the crop season were the almost daily rule in wheat last week, lowest prices being made on Monday and the highest on Saturday, when the top price for the May in the Gates deal was exceeded and all records since the Leiter deal were broken. July wheat is now selling at the highest point during April of any year in nearly twenty years.

Public buying, instead of being deterred by high prices, has been more active on the advance than at any time so far, speculation throughout the week having been increasingly broad and general. Closing prices Saturday showed gains for the week of 3@3⅛c for May, 3@3⅛c, for July, and ⅞c for September.

Compared to a year ago, May is now 29c higher; July, 20⅛c higher; and September, 14c higher. Many traders who have been consistently bullish are beginning to take cognizance of the great advance in prices, and it is now more of a question whether or not present values have not largely discounted conditions.

Red Wheat at Exorbitant Figures.

While exorbitant prices for red winter wheat are being exacted, the high values are curtailing the demand to some extent, and many mills in the south and southwest are being closed, as flour cannot be made at a profit by some mills. Spring wheat millers and those at points where supplies of winter wheat are liberal are reaping the benefit of this state of affairs.

Primary receipts continue to run larger than a year ago, arrivals for the week being 2,818,000 bu, against 2,628,000 bu a year ago. Clearances from this country and Canada for the week were 1,500,000 bu, or the smallest since the week of Sept. 3, 1905. This latter instance was regarded as bullish abroad, as the shipments from other countries, with the exception of Australia, were small and total world's exports were estimated at only 7,900,000 bu, or much under requirements.

Argentine shipments are only a little more than half as large as a year ago, and the decreasing visible supply there presages still lighter exports. Australia promises to ship less in the near future. It will be seen that Europe is facing a serious shortage, especially as stocks are already light.

The supply and demand situation the world over is so closely adjusted that it will require only comparatively small speculative holdings to tip the balance in favor of the bulls.

Price Trend Upward in Corn.

In corn there was a fair volume of speculation, with the trend of values upward. Offerings were light the greater part of the time, small receipts of corn here and at other points and the firm attitude of country holders keeping the selling pressure down to a minimum. There was no lack of bearish sentiment, but the market pessimists did lack the courage of their convictions. May was the speculative favorite, going 1⅝c for the week, while July and September were respectively 1⅛c and ⅞c higher. Primary arrivals were 2,178,614 bu, compared to 3,788,000 bu a year ago.

Oats Shorts Are Punished.

Oats shorts were run in the latter part of the week, the advances being substantial in the May and July, but moderate in the September, which was affected by the reports of increased acreage this year. May was bought by cash houses and shorts found offerings light. Country houses were the leading buyers of the July. Closing prices were ⅝c to 1⅝@1⅞c higher. Stocks of oats are not large and bulls maintain the offerings of oats from the country during July will not be burdensome, as old stocks will be pretty well exhausted. The cash demand was a little better. Primary receipts for the week were 2,000,000 bu, against 3,695,000 bu a year ago.

The feature of the speculative trade in hog products was the continued heavy selling ascribed to the Cudahy packing interests, which up to the last week or two have been conspicuous on the bull side of the market. Notwithstanding the heavy pressure on the market, closing prices for the week showed a fairly firm tone, pork being 10c to 12½c higher; lard unchanged to 2½c lower, and ribs 2½@5c off.

Week in Live Stock.

After being such energetic buyers of cattle on the opening day that they sustained values at a practically unchanged level in spite of strong opposition on the part of local packers who were determined to force a severe break, exporters and shippers withdrew from active competition and let the killers pound the market until sharp recessions had been made in the prices of the better class of steers.

Hogs and live mutton values continued their upward climb and reached new high levels for the year without having apparent effect on the urgency of the demand, and at the close the situation looked exceptionally strong.

NUTSHELL ARGUMENTS.
VII.
I have been telling about my fruit lands in the advertising columns of The Tribune for a month past. I get two mails daily, and so far there has been only one mail that has failed to bring me an answer from my advertising; often I get several answers. Before dealing with The Tribune I lost time spearing around aimlessly among my acquaintances, seeking in vain to interest them. Then I thought of Emerson's saying to the effect that if you have what the people want and let them know about it, they will make a path to your cabin in the woods.
Accordingly, while in Chicago, I called on The Tribune, counseled with them, accepted their advice, signed an annual contract, and am getting the returns desired.
The advantage of The Tribune service is that it puts me in communication with live prospects and saves attention to the dead ones. The live ones are already making a path to my cabin.
The Tribune is a great newspaper, and I am willing to pay for the space to say it.
My fruit lands are on the Grand River, on the western slope of Colorado, 4,900 feet elevation, near Palisade, on the main line of the D. & R. G. R. R., southeast slope, perfect drainage, natural protection, rich sandy loam, ideal climate. Be a live one. C. M. PAINE, De Beque, Colo.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources], who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location and my being connected with a large mercantile house [Dun's and Bradstreet's show its standing], assures a privacy that is not possible to those who deal with brokers doing business in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. The methods of some dealers never change, and high rates for money are demanded by the professional lender. Those paying high rates, I urge to consult with me. My average rate, all charges included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. No insurance or other device to swell interest charges. Ladies' waiting rooms. Ask for WILLCOXS, care Englewood Company, 538-540 East 63d-st., cor. Greenwood-av. Tel. Hyde Park 4333.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

EASTER WEEK—the busiest of the Spring season—finds this store ready to supply every requirement in attire from assortments unparalleled in completeness, in character of styles and qualities, and in values.

Women's Tailored Suits: Style Assortments at Their Best for Easter.

The most complete and varied line of Spring styles this section has ever shown awaits those who have delayed the selection of their Tailored Suits for Easter. Rajahs, white and black stripes, white serges and others of the season's best materials are shown in beautiful new models that have just been received. Two of these recent arrivals are marked very low. Sixth Floor.

Women's Tailored Suits made of fine imported satin soleil, the long semi-fitted coat and skirt are handsomely trimmed with satin to match, making a very striking effect, in tan, black, blue and green—$60.00.

Another very effective model in three-piece Gowns is made of prunella cloth; the waist is elaborately trimmed with cord on net to match; the long semi-fitted coat has cutaway effect—$67.50.

Easter Sale of Women's Silk Hosiery.

Our purpose in these sharp concessions made from regular prices is to direct attention to our lines which have never been in such splendid condition, never so well supplied with the colors and designs which delight women of refined taste. Fourth Floor.

Millinery in Latest Modes of the Hour for Easter Week.

Our displays of new and exclusive styles in Women's, Misses' and Children's Trimmed Millinery, Ready-to-Wear Hats, Untrimmed Shapes, and Trimming Materials are in excellent condition for this week's heavy sales.

¶ While these varied assortments will undoubtedly be of great interest to intending purchasers, we are confident that the excellence of the styles and qualities shown and the exceptional values offered will appeal even more strongly to our customers.

¶ The Easter millinery modes shown in our French salesroom combine all the charm of the Parisian designer's conception of artistic outlines and exquisite taste of colorings. Exceptional values are offered in elaborate styles for afternoon and evening wear at $25, $35 and $45. Fifth Floor.

Shirtwaist Suits in Latest Models.

The effective use of braidings in this season's styles gives them a greater attractiveness than those of any previous season. Many of the simpler styles that are especially appropriate for shopping and morning wear are designed with folds or cords of the same materials. Sixth Floor.

Recent additions to our extensive assortments have brought many very attractive models of serge, wool, batiste, henrietta, silks, foulards, rajahs and taffetas in all the season's prettiest shades.

Another pretty Wool Shirtwaist Suit is trimmed with coads of self material, tucked net sleeves and yoke to match, light or dark colors, a splendid value at $32.50.

A very simple Dress is made of striped taffeta in different combinations of stripes, blue and white, black and white, brown and white, heliotrope and white, etc., trimmed in pipings of plain color and buttons, small white yoke of lace—$20.00.

Kid Gloves in Latest Easter Shades.

New shades have come in such profusion in today's additions to our already very extensive assortments that it would seem impossible that any woman should fail to find an exact match for any of the season's cloth colors. First Floor.

This wonderful completeness combines with the high character of our lines to make this section more deserving than ever of the preference it enjoys among women who select their Kid Gloves with greatest care.

Women's Short Kid Gloves—$1, $1.15, $1.25, $1.50, $1.60 to $2.00.

Women's Long Gloves—$2, $2.25, $2.75, $3.00 to $5.00.

Women's Ivanhoe Silk Gloves in Long and Short Lengths.

"Ivanhoe" on a pair of silk gloves means the finest materials and all that the most adept workmen can do to place their productions above criticism. For this reason Ivanhoe Silk Gloves are exclusive with us. The service and satisfaction they will give will convince every purchaser of their unequaled worth. First Floor.

Women's long Ivanhoe Silk Gloves with mousquetaire wrist, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

Exclusive Hexagonal Mesh Veilings.

Novelty Veils and Veilings in exquisite new meshes have never been shown in such profusion as in our present Easter displays. Our search for refined and exclusive designs has been singularly successful. First Floor.

One of the most distinctive novelties is the latest French conception—"Embroidered Squares" and tiny coin dots on hexagonal mesh; chenille cabochon dots on fancy maline; imported glace chiffon and fringed Veils, ombre and rainbow chiffon Veils, Lace Scarfs in fancy tints, combining the charm of the veil itself and the novelty of the arrangement over the shoulders for evening wear.

The Spring Gowns owe their charm more to the new Garnitures in lace and embroidered tulle, than to any other adornments this section has shown for many years. The Parisians in producing these wonderful motifs have done much to give distinctiveness to the prevailing fashions. As this is distinctly a season of colors, these charming and exclusive novelties are shown in very many of the rarest and most exquisite shades—Cindre de Rose, Pain Brule, Bois, Biche and Maroc—each, $25.00, $35.00, $50.00 and $65.00. Second Floor.

The wisdom of our early selections is shown by the increasing favor shown by fashion for the weaves and colorings with which our lines are so abundantly supplied. Prominent among these are the pretty new Shepherd Checks, Bedford Cords, Wide Wale Diagonals, Silk and Wool Shantungs, Covert Cloths and semi-rough materials. Our prices are commensurate with the qualities—the lowest. Second Floor.

Women's Coats: A Splendid Display for Easter Week.

The illustrations represent five of the many distinctive styles. The wide range of the season's colors, the soft materials used, all lend themselves toward giving the perfect hang and individuality featured in this season's new modes. Added to this is the variety of lengths. While many of the season's are long, some very chic styles are shown in the shorter length Coats of hand embroidered black satin meteor, natural pongee and border net. In addition to our extensive showing of high-class models we offer this week the following exceptional Easter specials: Sixth Floor.

Women's Coats—an attractive model, 52 inches long, buttoning high at neck, half lined and trimmed with contrasting combinations of silk braid—navy, copenhagen, gray, rose checks, also black—exceptional value, $25.00.

A very clever style, copied from an imported model, is handsomely trimmed and half lined, of serge in rose, navy, cadet, gray, reseda and black—specially priced—$20.00.

Two new models in the black and white check materials so much in vogue this season—one with shawl collar of black silk outlined with color combination and braid, attractively priced—$18.50.

Women's Covert Coats, 52 and 54 inches long, half lined serge or taffeta, semi or tight fitting—$18.50, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00 and upward.

Pongee and Taffeta Coats in a variety of the season's colors—$16.50, $20, $25, $27.50, $37.50 upward.

Silk Petticoats: Beautiful New Designs.

Here again is seen both the prominence of colors in spring styles and the remarkably successful efforts of designers in responding to the preferences of fashion with the most charming combinations and plain shades we have ever shown in silk petticoats. Fifth Floor.
